Rainfall summary for the seven days ending at 8 hrs. on Thursday, the 9th January 1913, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. Except for some light snowfall in Kashmir the weather was dry throughout the week in the Indian area.

2. Burma.—Toungoo had a light fall of rain on the 2nd.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—There was light rain at Cherrapunji on the 4th.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—No rain fell at the reporting stations.

Northwest India.—Light precipitation occurred in Kashmir on the 2nd and 5th and locally in the North-West Frontier Province on the 5th.

The Peninsula.—Dry weather held throughout.

3. The daily falls were all below a third of an inch in amount.

4. Precipitation was practically wanting in all divisions with exception of Kashmir and even there the weekly total was only a fifth of an inch or 40 per cent. of the normal. The normal fall for the week is however small in amount, nowhere exceeding thirty cents except in Kashmir.

Baluchistan and Malabar are the only divisions where the seasonal rainfall up to date is above the average. The deficit although large in percentage amount is small actually except in the Bay Islands (8"), Madras Southeast (3·3") and Madras Coast North (1·7").

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 4th January 1913.

Burma.—Slight rain fell in three districts. Reaping of winter rice is nearing completion. Standing crops are good and cattle are healthy. Pasturage is ample. The price of unhusked rice continues above normal.

Assam.—The weather has been cloudy and cold. Light showers have fallen almost in every district. All standing crops promise to give satisfactory yields. Harvesting of winter rice and pressing of sugarcane are still going on and are giving good outturns. The average price of common rice has risen by about one per cent. Cattle disease is prevalent in five districts.

Bengal.—During the week there was no rain throughout the Province except some light showers in Darjeeling and in parts of Chittagong. The weather was seasonable. Harvesting of winter rice is approaching completion. Prospects of standing spring crops are reported to be good. The average price of common rice for the Province has fallen slightly as compared with that of the previous week. Cattle disease is reported from Malda, Mymensingh, Tippera and Noakhali but is confined to particular localities.

Bihar and Orissa.—There was no rain during the week. The weather was seasonable. Harvesting of paddy is approaching completion and threshing is going on. Pressing of sugarcane continues. Standing spring crops are doing well. The average price of common rice remained almost stationary compared with that of the previous week. The condition of cattle is on the whole good. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient throughout the Province. Prospects of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa are reported to be good.

United Provinces.—The week was rainless. Need for winter rain is being felt in the northern and western parts of the Province, especially in Moradabad and Meerut. In the uplands of Mirzapur rain is urgently needed. Irrigation of spring crops is proceeding. Sugarcane is still being pressed and land prepared for the ensuing cane crop. Standing crops are generally in good condition and fodder and water are sufficient. In the Benares State 792 persons are receiving relief, viz., 242 on test works and 550 on gratuitous relief. Cattle disease prevails in the hills and in Bundelkhand. It is sporadic in a few other districts but nowhere severe. There is no marked change in prices.

Punjab.—The weather is dry. Rain is wanted generally. Picking of cotton, pressing of sugarcane and harvesting of toria continue with outturn average to good. Sowing of spring crops are above normal on irrigated areas and short in some districts on unirrigated areas for want of rain. The condition of standing spring crops is average to good. Cattle are generally healthy. Fodder is sufficient. Prices remain high.

North-West Frontier Province.—The week was again rainless. Rain is required badly throughout the Province. The weather is cool and at times cloudy. Standing crops are generally fair on irrigated lands but poor on unirrigated areas. Pressing of sugarcane is in progress and the outturn is normal. Sowings of spring crops are still proceeding in parts of the Peshawar and Bannu districts. The condition of cattle is good. Fodder and water are generally sufficient. Prices are high but stationary.

Jammu.—No rain. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 10 to 13 and maize from 15 to 24 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is below average. Cattle disease of mild type prevails in the Mirpur district. Fodder is insufficient.

Kashmir.—It rained once during the week. Spring crops are being sown. Prices are unchanged. Cattle disease prevails in Veriag. Fodder is average.

Rajputana.—The weather was clear and cool. Spring crops are being irrigated and are doing well. Prospects are fair. Cattle are in good condition. Fodder and water are sufficient. Prices are high and stationary. Irrigated cotton is doing well in Mewar.

Central India.—The rainfall was insufficient in the Malwa Agency and in Nimar of the Bhopawar Agency. Harvesting of autumn crops and operations for spring crops are in progress everywhere except in the Baghelkhand Agency where they are reported to be completed. The outturn is average in Bhopal, fair in Indore and good elsewhere. Cattle disease prevails in parts of Gwalior, Bhopal and Bhopawar. The fodder supply is generally ample. Prices are normal in Bhopal, above normal in Baghelkhand, fluctuating in Bhopawar and steady elsewhere. Opium cultivation in the Jaora State is entirely stopped.

Central Provinces.—The weather has been cool and clear. Threshing and winnowing of autumn crops and picking of cotton are in full swing: The condition of spring crops is generally good and prospects are favourable. Fodder and water are sufficient. Agricultural stock is in good condition. Juar rose by 2½ seers per rupee in Chhindwara. Elsewhere the fluctuations, if any, show a tendency to fall.

Feudatory States.—A shower of rain would improve the condition of spring crops in Kawardha, Nandgaon and Sarangarh. Prospects elsewhere are generally good. The price of wheat fell in Khairagarh and Udaipur while that of rice rose in Udaipur by two to three seers per rupee.

Bombay.—Spring sowings are nearing completion. Standing crops are generally in good condition except for slight damage by insects in parts of Broach, Belgaum and Dharwar, by cold winds in Sholapur and by disease in parts of Poona. Crops are withering in Ahmednagar. Cotton is withering in parts of Bijapur. Picking continues in parts of Sind, Ahmedabad, Kaira and Kathiawar. The fodder supply is deficient in parts of Ahmednagar and Sholapur. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition and sufficient except in parts of Cutch. In Ahmednagar the condition of stock is bad. Drinking water is generally adequate except in parts of Ahmednagar and Sholapur. Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of Ahmedabad, Ahmednagar and Bijapur. Prices show a tendency to rise in the Deccan and the Karnatak. The public health is generally good. Distributon of takavi continues. Grain stocks are sufficient. Test works in Ahmednagar have been closed. The numbers on relief for week ending 4th January 1913 in tracts where famine has not been declared were:—on gratuitous relief in the Deccan 9,074.

Hyderabad.—There was no rain during the week. Cotton picking continues. Early rice is being harvested in parts. Spring sowings are progressing. The condition of the crops is fair to good except in parts of the Aurangabad and Bir districts. The spring castor seed crop has suffered somewhat from insects in parts of the Nalgonda district. Fodder scarcity prevails in the Aurangabad and Bir districts and large quantities of grass are being imported by the Nizam's Government for the use of the rayats. Ordinary public works have been increased and suspensions of revenue have been sanctioned in the affected parts. Ploughing and sowing for late rice have commenced. Cattle disease is reported in 9, fodder scarcity in 7 and water scarcity in 6 talukas. Prices:—Wheat 5¾, coarse rice 5¼ and juar 10¾ seers per rupee. White juar is selling in Hyderabad City at 12 seers per rupee. The highest price in districts is 7 seers in Karimnagar and the lowest 24 seers in Adilabad.

Mysore.—Prices of food grains are steady and markets are well supplied. Harvesting operations are in progress with outturn fair to normal. Prospects of the season are good. Cattle are healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Reaping of rice and picking of coffee continue. Prices of food grains have fallen slightly. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—There was no rain during the week. Standing crops are fair to good. Harvesting of dry crops, paddy and sugarcane is proceeding in parts with outturn fair to normal. Sowings of dry crops and paddy are proceeding normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. Fodder and water are generally sufficient. Prices are falling.

Memorandum on Recent Weather and on the Probable Character of that of January and February 1913.

Weather during November and December in north-west India and the region to the west.

Two disturbances of the cold weather type occurred in November, one in the first week and the other from the 22nd to the 25th. The former was unimportant, but the latter caused some precipitation in Kashmir and the east Punjab. In December four or five disturbances appeared in Persia and were transmitted eastwards, but their influence on the weather in India was not very marked and was restricted to the mountain zone, west and north of the Indus.

The limited information available regarding snowfall indicates that the winter conditions have set in decidedly earlier than usual in Tibet and Sikkim, and rather earlier than usual in the north of the North-West Frontier Province and in parts of Baluchistan and Kashmir. Unusually severe cold is reported in the Karakoram Valley, while according to the Tibetans of Yatung the winter in their district has so far been the severest experienced for ten years. In the Punjab and Kumaon Himalayas the snowfall and weather have on the whole been of the usual character.

Discussion of the probable character of the weather of January and February 1913.

The cold weather precipitation is due to depressions which advance into northern India from the west and can in the majority of the cases be traced back to south-east Europe. When attempting to form an estimate of the future character of the winter season, it appears that the most reliable indications are afforded by the character of the weather in December, and the estimate must be based not only on the rainfall of the plains of the extreme north of India, but also on the precipitation in the surrounding hill regions including Baluchistan and Persia. The data available are contained in the following table :—

Departures from Normal.

Cold weather Season.	Rainfall of December in the Punjab and North-West Frontier Province.	Rainfall in Persia in December.	Rainfall in Baluchistan in December.	Precipitation in Kashmir in December.	Rainfall of the two succeeding months in North-West India (including the United Provinces, Punjab, North-West Frontier Province, Sind, Rajputana and Gujarat).	Snowfall, January to March, +3 = Large excess. 0 = Normal. —3 = Large defect.

* Owing to changes in the stations the normal amounts have changed from time to time, those given are the latest.

The table shows that the rainfall of January and February in north-west India tends markedly to be similar in character to the rainfall there of December, and to a less extent to the precipitation in Persia, Baluchistan and Kashmir: in the present case the indications are unusually conflicting; but a deficiency of rainfall appears more likely than an excess In estimating the snowfall of the coming months roughly equal weight should be attached to the indications of each of the columns and it does not appear possible to forecast that snowfall will be either more or less abundant than usual.

Summary.

The indications are unusually conflicting, and do not point to a very severe or a very mild winter. It appears, however, that in the rainfall of north-west India a defect is more likely than an excess

Department of Education.
EDUCATION.

Sir,

I am directed to forward for the information of [the Governor in Council / His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor in Council / His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor / your information] a copy of the discussions and resolutions of the conference on the education of the domiciled community which was held in Simla in July 1912. Other copies will be forwarded to you direct by the Superintendent, Government Printing, Calcutta.

2. The object of the conference was to consider and where necessary to make suggestions for improving the facilities open to the domiciled community for obtaining education, in continuation of the conference held at Allahabad in February 1911, to consider similar questions in regard to the education of Indians. The Government of India desire to recognise the value of the work accomplished by the conference and the zeal and ability displayed by both the official and the non-official members of it. His Excellency in Council has no doubt that the Local Governments will give earnest attention to the problems discussed and the recommendations formulated by so representative a conference on so important a matter.

3. At the outset the Government of India desire to reiterate their adherence to the policy of reliance on private enterprise guided by inspection and aided by grants from public funds. They are impressed, however, by the needs of the domiciled community and desire as part of the general programme of educational improvement in India that this community should receive a liberal measure of support in supplement to increased efforts on its part to improve the education of its children.

4. In addition to the formal resolutions recorded certain opinions of the conference were placed on record in an informal way. These will be found upon pages 12, 16—17, 34, 36 and 38 of the Report and are reproduced in Appendix A of this letter. The first (page 12) relates to the bringing under education of those for whom no facilities are at present available. This is recognised in resolutions XII and XV (2) to be one of the most urgent needs of the community. The Government of India commend this matter to the special attention of Local Governments. They have already made grants of Rs. 40,000 and Rs. 30,000 a year respectively to the Local Governments of Bengal and Madras in order to relieve the situation in the towns of Calcutta and Madras where the state of the poorer members of the domiciled community was said to call for specially urgent attention. The fourth (page 36) regarding the formation of local syndicates or standing consultative committees to give effect to the recommendations of the conference is one to which much importance was attached by the conference. The second, third and fifth deal respectively with a suggested experiment in training teachers, with forms of trust-deeds and with the importance of saving girls from mental and physical pressure. These are important matters on which the Government of India await the matured views of Local Governments.

5. The resolutions will be found on pages 41-44 of the Report and are reproduced in appendix B of this letter. The Government of India think that it will be convenient if they give some, necessarily general, indication of their opinion in regard to some of these resolutions while recognising that uniformity is not attainable owing to varying conditions in different parts of India, and local differences of system and reserving their final opinion until they are in possession of the views of Local Governments.

Resolution I. Compulsory Education.—The Government of India while quite ready to recognise in principle the desirability of introducing compulsory education in certain areas are inclined to think that the practical objections to such action are at present not less great than they have been found to be in the case of Indian children.

Resolution II. Grading of Schools.—The desire to introduce a more modern and practical form of education for the majority of the boys entirely commends itself to the Government of India. They will be glad to have the views of Local Governments whether this can be attained by grading of schools or in other ways.

Resolution III. Remuneration of Teachers.—His Excellency in Council concurs in resolutions XIII and XV (ii) which place the improved remuneration of teachers in the forefront of the programme side by side with the reclamation to education of the boys and girls who do not attend school. As regards the particular proposals of the conference the views of Local Governments are awaited.

Resolution IV. Training of Teachers. The Government of India are already considering the question of the institution of a new Government training college at Bangalore. Should they decide to do so they will not be prepared in addition to provide funds for special studentships tenable abroad for training teachers. But they are disposed to commend to the favourable notice of Local Governments the suggestion that one scholarship to be held abroad should be given to a member of the domiciled community in each major province every year and in other provinces as necessary.

Resolution V. Collegiate Education.—The Government of India have no desire to prejudge the question but apart from any question of policy involved, they are disposed to think on the information before them that there is not a sufficient demand for collegiate education to justify the foundation of an university arts college for the domiciled community. Subject to the opinions of Local Governments they are disposed to think that the case would be met by the attachment of arts and science graduate courses to a training college and the erection of special hostels for members of the domiciled community at certain colleges. Should a training college be established at Bangalore the former measure would seem to meet the needs of southern and the latter measure of northern India.

In view of the approaching enquiries of a Royal Commission on the public services in India the Government of India do not propose to institute a separate enquiry on the question whether avenues of employment have or have not been closed to the domiciled community.

Resolution VI. Grants-in-aid.- The Government of India will be glad to have the views of Local Governments on the recommendations of the conference in the matter of grants.

Resolution VII. Concentration of Schools. The Government of India commend the general conclusion of the conference to the notice of Local Governments. The difficulties in the matter of concentration are well known. I am to ask whether any practical scheme of concentration can be elaborated but to suggest that the replies on other points referred in this letter should not be delayed until this has been done.

Resolution VIII. Examinations and Certificates.—The questions raised by this comprehensive resolution are both difficult and important. The opinions of Local Governments are awaited, as also in regard to resolution IX, award scholarships; resolution X, special scholarships for soldiers' children; resolution XI, medical inspection and supervision; and resolution XII, administration and inspection.

Resolution XIV. Instruction in Temperance.—The Government of India attach special importance to this resolution and would be glad to know how effect can best be given to it.

Resolution XV. Education of Women. The Government of India accept the view that a separate all-India Conference on the education of girls is not necessary. They must leave it to Local Governments to decide whether local conferences are necessary. They are considering the question of instituting a state scholarship to be given annually for girls of the domiciled community and do not propose to give more than one such scholarship themselves. The other questions mentioned are referred to Local Governments.

6. The organisation of European education is peculiar in being governed not by separate provincial codes but by a single all-India code, adapted where need be to suit local conditions. The view was expressed at the conference that European education should be centralised under the Government of India. This is neither desirable nor practicable, but there are obvious advantages in a certain measure of uniformity in some matters such as grants-in-aid, examinations and certificates, etc. It will be convenient in stating their views as to reforms if Local Governments indicate what alterations are required in the code, and whether those alterations should be of a general nature or should apply only to their own provinces.

7. The Government of India desire that (with the consent of His Excellency in Council / His Honour in Council / His Honour the Lt.-Governor) the whole question may now be examined with a view to the presentation of comprehensive schemes of reform, accompanied by such general estimates of cost as it may be possible to draw up. They are unable to say at present what grants they will be able to provide from imperial revenues but they intend to give so much support as the financial position may for the time being permit.

APPENDIX A.

1. The general sense of the Conference was expressed as follows:—

(i) That in order to break down illiteracy and meet the needs of the poorer members of the community free and low-fee boarding schools should be encouraged by more liberal grants, the grants continue till the pupils reached the age of 18 as was already the case in some provinces, and that arrangements should be made, where possible, to attach destitute children to practical pursuits, agricultural and industrial on the lines of Kalimpong and efforts made to get them apprenticed in Government factories, firms, the mines, etc., and further that fee grants should be given as in Bombay to day schools throughout India. Page 12.

(ii) That the state of the poorer members of the domiciled community in Calcutta and Madras calls for specially urgent attention.

2. The Conference were generally of opinion that there were great difficulties in the way of introducing a pupil-teacher system as a method of selecting young men for the training college. They thought that as a system of selection for entrance into the training college apprentice teachers might be tried at once experimentally in selected schools during a period of probation provided that adequate arrangements were made for instruction and supervision and provided that the staff of the selected schools was not reduced. Pages 16-17

3. It was the sense of the Conference that the form of Trust Deed executed in reference to a building grant should be revised so as to allow for depreciation of the building and the clearance of all liability within a fixed term of years. Page 24.

4. The general sense of the non-official members was invited. They were unanimously of opinion that Syndicates or Consultative Committees for convenient areas should be formed to assist in giving effect to the recommendations of this Conference in due course. Page 36.

5. It was the sense of the Conference that it was very important to save the girls from mental and physical pressure. Page 38.

APPENDIX B.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE CONFERENCE.

Resolution 1. Compulsory Education. Page 3.—The Conference desire to press upon the attention of Government their opinion that the introduction of compulsory education is necessary to secure that certain classes of the domiciled community, in their own interests and in those of the general public, attend school. They recognise that this will involve the introduction of free education for all who cannot pay fees.

Resolution II. Grading of Schools. Page 8.—The Conference recommend to the attention of Government that:—

(i) The great majority of the high schools for boys in India should adopt a more definitely modern and practical curriculum, such as is referred to in the resolutions of the Calcutta Committee as "secondary;"

(ii) Besides these schools a few schools are required with a curriculum leading to the universities and liberal professions, to be called "Collegiate Schools", but to be schools and not colleges;

(iii) Government should be invited to determine, in consultation with the managers of schools, what existing schools should be collegiate schools, or whether new schools should be founded.

Resolution III. Remuneration of Teachers Page 14.—The Conference recommend that:—

(i) Salaries of teachers need to be raised, teachers whether recruited in England or in India should in all cases be given incremental salaries reaching a maximum as a rule in ten years; generally speaking initial salaries are insufficient, and it should be obligatory on all schools to start provident funds.

(ii) Government be urged to make grants to these ends.

(iii) Free education or education at special rates should be obligatory in Government schools and recommended to aided schools for the children of teachers in active employment in those schools.

Resolution IV. Training of Teachers Page 18.—The Conference recommend to the attention of Government that:—

(i) In view of the provision necessary for the large numbers of children of school-going age at present attending no school, of the numbers of untrained teachers at present in the schools, of the probability of male teachers replacing to some extent women teachers if salaries are raised, and of the attractions of higher salaries generally, a Government training college or colleges for men be established as early as possible at suitable centres

(ii) It was considered that the first new Government training college should be established at Bangalore.

(iii) One scholarship to be held abroad should be given to a member of the domiciled community in each major province in every year and in other provinces as necessary.

(iv) So long as Government recognise the necessity, a certain number of studentships be created for men and women of approved educational qualifications for the purpose of training as teachers abroad, and such studentships should cover all expenses of passage, maintenance and training; provided that this would not prejudice the resolution (iii) already carried.

Resolution V Collegiate Education Page 21.—The Conference recommend to Government that:—

(i) A separate University arts college should be instituted, either affiliated, if possible, to a Western university or self-contained and conferring its own degrees.

(ii) If this be found to be impracticable, there be added in connection with at least one of the training colleges for teachers, arts and science graduate courses both for the advantage of the candidates for the teaching diplomas and also for such other Anglo-Indian students as desire to take advantage of them; and the college be affiliated to a recognised university.

(iii) In addition, that good hostels for the members of the domiciled community be erected in connection with existing colleges, where such are required.

(iv) One great obstacle to the spread of higher education among the domiciled community is the belief common amongst them that avenues of employment formerly open have been closed to them; in the interests of the spread of higher education Government should be asked to institute an inquiry as to whether the belief in question is well founded, and, if that is shown to be the case, steps should be taken to provide the remedy.

Resolution VI. Grants-in-aid. Page 26.—The Conference are strongly of opinion that :—

(i) The Government grants to schools should be of such amount and given in such a way as to enable all schools, that are recognised by the provincial education departments as necessary, to be efficient in the grade in which they are classed.

(ii) The auditing of accounts of European schools should be made a distinct and separate function of the Accounts Department, and either a single auditor appointed for all India, or separate auditors for each province or each inspectional jurisdiction, as the Government may think necessary, and the school audit should be conducted on the school premises.

(iii) Provided all school accounts are complete and audited by a properly qualified person, the income and expenditure of every school should be budgeted for a period of one or more years and the Government grant should be calculated to be of such definite total sum as, with the estimated income from other sources, will be sufficient to enable the total income to equal the expenditure necessary to make the school work efficiently.

Resolution VII Concentration of schools Page 26.—The Conference resolve that concentration of schools is desirable where possible

Resolution VIII. Examinations and Certificates. Page 31.—The Conference are of opinion that :—

(i) Two kinds of Government certificates should be awarded to the pupils of secondary schools : First School Certificates and Leaving Certificates

The First School Certificate should be awarded to those pupils whose school records show :—

(a) that they have been in regular attendance at a secondary school for at least three years ;

(b) that they have completed an approved course of general education as set forth in their school record ;

(c) that they have passed the recognised external examination in the subjects prescribed by the department.

The Leaving Certificate should be awarded to those pupils whose school records show :—

(a) that they have been in regular attendance at a secondary school for two years after obtaining the First School Certificate ;

(b) that they have completed an approved further course of education as set forth in their school record ;

(c) that they have passed the recognised external examination in the subjects prescribed by the department

(ii) For the present the Cambridge University junior School Certificate Examination or the Cambridge Senior * Local Examination be the recognised external examination for the First School Certificate, and the Cambridge University Senior School Certificate Examination or the Cambridge University Higher Local Examination or the Cambridge Senior Local Examination be the recognised external examination for the Leaving Certificate.

(iii) The pupils in high and collegiate schools should be submitted to no other external examinations than those mentioned above. And no school shall without special sanction offer candidates for both the Cambridge School Certificates and the Cambridge Senior * Local Examinations.

(iv) The Government should take action to secure—

(a) That the Leaving Certificates of high and collegiate schools shall be accepted as a preliminary educational qualification for admission to service in specified grades in the departments of Government

(b) That the Leaving Certificates of collegiate schools shall confer exemption from such preliminary examination of professional and other bodies as it may be possible to arrange.

Resolution IX. Award of Scholarships. Page 33—The Conference are of opinion that it must be left to the departments to decide the best way in which to award scholarships, but they record a strong opinion that boys and girls of 11 and 12 years of age ought not to be submitted to the strain of a competitive examination

Resolution X. Special Scholarships for Soldiers' children. Page 33—The Conference are of opinion that, in view of the fact that the children of soldiers serving in India are placed at a disadvantage as compared with those at home owing to the latter being eligible to compete for County Council and other scholarships at secondary schools, a certain number of free pupilships in high schools should be awarded to children attending regimental schools in India.

* Before these resolutions were finally passed, mention of the Cambridge Junior Local Examination was omitted, at the suggestion of certain members. Mr. [illegible] Wood, when looking over the proof, pointed out that this was incorrect, and that in (ii), "Senior" in the second line should read "Junior", and that, in (iii) "Senior," in the last line should be omitted. Mr. Rocksborough Smith also drew attention to the error.

Resolution XI. Medical inspection and supervision. Page 34.—The Conference recommend that :—

(i) Government should appoint medical officers who shall examine at least once during each school term the pupils in each school.

(ii) The said medical officers should have statutory powers to enforce regulations regarding sanitary or hygienic arrangements in school buildings and dormitories.

(iii) Provision be made to give gratuitous medical treatment (including the furnishing of spectacles) to necessitous pupils.

Resolution XII. Administration and Inspection. Page 35.—The Conference recommend that the inspecting staff should be increased, that the Inspector of European Schools should wherever possible be a whole-time Inspector and that Inspectors of European Schools should, if possible, be appointed for a term of five years.

Resolution XIII. Urgency of Measures. Page 36.—The Conference express the opinion that of the resolutions of this Conference for which financial aid will be required, the most urgent are the education of those children who do not at present attend school, and the improvement of the pay and prospects of the teachers.

Resolution XIV. Instruction in Temperance. Page 36.—The Conference, recognising disastrous results of intemperance, and being convinced that no part of education is more truly practical than that which aims most directly at the improvement of moral character and the formation of strong and good habits in the young members of any community, earnestly recommend that in courses of instruction in general hygiene and physiology there be included special instruction in temperance and the effects of alcohol on the human body, and they desire to draw the special attention of Government to this very important matter.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE CONFERENCE.

Resolution XV.—Education of Women, page 37.—The Conference consider that :—

(i) Inasmuch as a great many of their recommendations in regard to the education of boys apply mutatis mutandis to girls, a separate All-India Conference on the education of girls is not necessary, though local conferences may be desirable in some provinces.

(ii) The two most urgent problems in the case of girls as in the case of boys are the extension of education among the illiterate, and the improvement of the pay and prospects of teachers.

(iii) No new Government central training college is required in the case of girls; but all encouragement should be given to existing institutions, it being secured that in any province in which all training is in the hands of one denomination, facilities should be given for the erection in connection with it of hostels for the use of members of other denominations or that in some way or other due provision be made for their training.

(iv) The applicability to schools for girls of the recommendations of this Conference in connection with the classification of schools, the curricula, examinations and scholarships be referred to Local Governments for further consideration after consultation with experts in the education of girls.

(v) The Government should be asked favourably to consider the grant of scholarships for girls tenable abroad.

2. The members present at the meeting shall elect one of their number to be Chairman.

3. The Chairman shall invite each member to declare whether he desires to stand for election.

4. When such declaration has been made, the Secretary shall deliver to each member present a list containing the names of all members who stand for election.

5. Each member shall have six votes, and may divide them among candidates at his discretion, or may give all to any one candidate.

6. Upon the conclusion of any discussion that may take place, the Chairman shall invite the members present to record their votes.

7. Each member present shall record his votes by entering against the name of each candidate, in the list for whom he wishes to vote, the number of votes he desires to give him.

8. When the voting has been completed, the Secretary shall count the votes, and the Chairman shall announce the result to the meeting.

9. (1) If less than six candidates are elected, the Chairman shall invite the members present to vote again for as many candidates as may be required to make up that number.

(2) The Secretary shall then deliver to each member another copy of the printed list of candidates, after striking out the names of candidates who have already been elected.

(3) When further votes are invited under this rule,—

(a) each member shall have as many votes as there are vacancies remaining to be filled, and may divide them among the candidates at his discretion, or may give all to any one candidate; and

(b) rules 7 and 8 shall apply.

10. The Secretary shall report the result of the election to the Local Government.

No. 8.—The following Statute is published for general information :—

THE MARRIAGES IN JAPAN (VALIDITY) ACT, 1912.

[2 & 3 Geo. 5, Ch. 15.]

AN ACT TO REMOVE DOUBTS AS TO THE VALIDITY OF CERTAIN MARRIAGES SOLEMNIZED IN THE EMPIRE OF JAPAN.

[13th December, 1912.]

WHEREAS doubts have been entertained with respect to the validity of certain marriages (both or one of the parties thereto being subjects or a subject of this realm) solemnized in the Empire of Japan since the sixteenth of July eighteen hundred and ninety-nine (being the date when a treaty between Her late Majesty Queen Victoria, and His Majesty the Emperor of Japan, dated the sixteenth of July eighteen hundred and ninety-four came into force), and it is expedient to remove those doubts:

Be it therefore enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same as follows:—

Validation of certain marriages.

1. All marriages (both or one of the parties thereto being subjects or a subject of this realm) solemnized before the passing of this Act in the Empire of Japan, which would have been valid if solemnized immediately before the said sixteenth of July eighteen hundred and ninety-nine, shall be and shall be deemed always to have been as valid in law as if they had been solemnized within His Majesty's dominions with the due observance of all forms required by law:

Provided that this Act shall not render valid any marriage which before the passing of this Act has been declared invalid by any court of competent jurisdiction, or affect any right dependent on the validity or invalidity thereof, or render valid any marriage either of the parties to which has subsequently during the life of the other lawfully intermarried with any other person.

Short title.

2. This Act may be cited as the Marriages in Japan (Validity) Act, 1912.

The following book is recommended for the use of teachers in connection with the teaching of "Sand Modelling" in the lower classes of schools :—

A. E. Frye ... ... The Child and Nature.

Every school that intends to undertake instruction in Geography for the Matriculation Examination is required to possess the apparatus mentioned in the following list :—

I.—The total cost need not exceed Rs. 65—

1. A measuring tape.
2. A magnetic compass.
3. Squared paper and tracing paper.
4. Clay, dry sand, paper pulp for modelling.
5. A globe, not less than 14 inches in diameter, with writing surface, and with lines of latitude and longitude, and outlines only of the landmasses, marked upon it.

6. A map of the school locality on a scale of 4″ or 6″=1 mile.
7. A map of the district in which the school is situated on the scale 1″=1 mile.
8. A coloured map of the Province.
9. A coloured map of India.
10. A relief map of India.
11. A map of the world on Mollweide's equal area projection and a map of Asia.

It is essential that the students should be [illegible] with atlases, or with the necessary hand-maps. Maps for school work should not contain too much detail, or be crowded with names.

II.—The following additional equipment is recommended when it can be provided, but that lack of it is not to be considered as a bar to the recognition of the school in Geography :—

1. A thermometer.
2. A mercury barometer.
3. A rain gauge.
4. A small collection of typical rocks, in particular those of the Province and of India.
5. A small museum of typical products.
6. A good standard atlas.
7. Geographical pictures.

The attention of teachers is requested to the raised maps of Bengal and Eastern Bengal and Assam made [illegible] paper pulp prepared by Babu Kailas Chandra Datta, Head Pandit, Habiganj Government Girls' School, Sylhet, and sold for Rs. 7 and Rs. 5, respectively.

(2) Globes of all kinds are made by George Philip and Son, London, W. and A. K. Johnston, London, and Messrs. Ruddiman Johnston, London.

Small hand Globes of German make can be obtained through the Calcutta School Book Society for about a rupee each.

(3) The "Comparative" series of large wall maps of the continents published by George Philip and Son is good and up to date; so also are the Orographical wall maps published by Edward Stanford. Messrs. Ruddiman Johnston publish a series of smaller wall maps which includes maps of India illustrating various distributions.

Messrs. Nelson's wall atlases are good. Mr. S. B. Chatterjee publishes District Maps; also ordinary and relief maps of the Province.

Babu L. M. Basu, the drawing master of the Dacca Collegiate School, has published good relief maps of Eastern Bengal and Assam and of India.

The Vidal-Lablache French wall maps on strong cardboard, named on one side, and the same map without names on the reverse, published by Armand Colin, Paris, are good and cheap. They measure 46 inches by 39 inches and can be delivered in Calcutta for Rs. 4-14 each.

(4) The hand maps, coloured to indicate relief, published by the Diagram Company, West Barnes Lane, New Malden Surrey, at one penny each, are the best of their kind.

The uncoloured half-penny maps, showing river systems and a few towns, published by the same Company, are excellent for class use.

The Autograph hand maps, with hill shading in brown, published by Edward Stanford, London, at one penny each, are very good, and are larger than the Diagram Company's hand maps. The 15 inches map of the world on Mollweide's equal area projection is specially to be commended.

(5) Wall pictures of considerable artistic merit are published by Messrs. Edward Arnold of Leeds, Messrs. Hachette of Paris, and Messrs. Hölzel of Vienna and Messrs. Longmans Green & Co. They cost, delivered in India, from two to three rupees each.

Map lantern slides, and view slides especially prepared for geography teaching, are sold by the Diagram Company for two or three shillings each. Mr. Barlington Smith of Darjeeling also sell good picture slides of the Himalayas at Rs. 15 per dozen.

ELEMENTARY MECHANICS.

The following book is recommended :—

Sir Philip Magnus ... Elementary Mechanics (Longmans, 1903).

The following list of apparatus is prescribed as indicating the approximate requirements of a recognised High School seeking to teach Elementary Mechanics for the Matriculation Examination :—

Plumb-line and level.
Simple Lever (including brass slotted weights).
Roman Steelyard.
Lecture apparatus for experiments on moments.
[illegible] New Atwood's Machine.
[illegible]tch.
Glazebrooke's apparatus (to demonstrate movement of a body).
Hick's Ballistic Balance.
Compound Wheel and Axle.
4 Single brass Pulleys.
2 " " "
2 Triple " "
Weston Differential Pulley Blocks (½ ton).
16 feet of chain at 6*d.* per foot.
Inclined Plane.
Parallelogram of Forces apparatus.
Wall Crane.
Becker's New Physical Balance.
Set of Gramme Weights (200 grams to 1 mgr.).
2 Composition-Ivory Balls.

NOTE.—The above list is not exhaustive, and much of it might be replaced by simpler forms that could probably be made far more cheaply by any clever mistry under proper [illegible]ision. In most cases, however, it will probably be found advantageous to buy such a set as indicated in the list [illegible]lly for demonstration purposes, and subsequently to develop simplified duplicates, illustrating the same principles, which the boys should be given opportunity actually to experiment with on their own individual accounts or working in pairs.

ORDERS BY THE HON'BLE THE VICE-CHANCELLOR AND SYNDICATE OF THE CALCUTTA UNIVERSITY.

B.Sc. EXAMINATION, 1915.

MATHEMATICS.

Pass Course.

The following books are recommended:—

1. Higher Plane Trigonometry—

Todhunter ... Plane Trigonometry, edited by Hogg.

2. Plane Analytical Geometry—

Loney ... ... Elements of Co-ordinate Geometry.
C. Smith ... ... Elementary Treatise on Conic Sections.

3. Differential Calculus—

Edwards ... ... Differential Calculus for Beginners.
Ganesh Prasad ... Differential Calculus.

4. Integral Calculus and Differential Equations—

Edwards ... ... Integral Calculus for Beginners.
Taylor ... ... The Differential and Integral Calculus and Differential Equations.
Ganesh Prasad ... Integral Calculus.

5. Hydrostatics—

Besant ... ... Elementary Hydrostatics.
Loney ... ... Elements of Hydrostatics.

6. Astronomy—

Parker ... ... Elements of Astronomy.

Honours Course.

1. Higher Algebra—

Hall and Knight ... Higher Algebra.
C. Smith ... ... A Treatise on Algebra.

2. Elementary Theory of Equations—

Cajori ... ... Introduction to Theory of Equations, Chapters I—VII.

3. Higher Plane Trigonometry—

Todhunter ... Plane Trigonometry, edited by Hogg.

4. Plane Analytical Geometry—

Loney ... ... Elements of Co-ordinate Geometry.
C. Smith ... ... Elementary Treatise on Conic Sections.
Salmon ... ... Conic Sections.

5. Elementary Solid Geometry—

C. Smith ... ... Elementary Treatise on Solid Geometry.
Bell ... ... Analytical Geometry of Three Dimensions.

6. Elementary Principles of Vectors—

Kelland and Tait ... Introduction to Quaternions, 3rd Edition, edited by Knott.
Henrici and Turner ... Vectors and Rotors.

7. Differential Calculus—

Williamson	... Differential Calculus.

8. Integral Calculus and Differential Equations—

Williamson	... Integral Calculus.
Murray ...	... Introductory Course in Differential Equations.

9. Statics—

Minchin ...	... Statics, Volume I.
Jeans ...	... Theoretical Mechanics.

10. Dynamics of a Particle—

Loney ...	... Dynamics of a Particle.
Jeans ...	... Theoretical Mechanics.
Cox ...	... Mechanics.

11. Hydrostatics—

Besant ...	... Elementary Hydrostatics.
Loney ...	... Elements of Hydrostatics.

12. Astronomy—

Parker ...	... Elements of Astronomy.
Young ...	... Manual of Astronomy.

N.B.—Candidates who take up Mathematics at the B.A. or B.Sc. Examination are recommended to refer to Saxelby's Practical Mathematics. Candidates who take up Honours in Mathematics at the B.A. or B.Sc. Examination are recommended to refer to Cox's Mechanics.

PHYSICS.

Pass Course.

Deschanel and Evoutt ...	Treatise on Natural Philosophy, Parts I, II and IV.
Hadley ...	... Magnetism and Electricity for Students.

Pass Practical.

Schuster and Lees	... Advanced Exercises in Practical Physics.
Harrison ...	... A Course of Practical Physics.

HONOURS COURSE.

(In addition to the books prescribed for the Pass Course.)

Poynting and Thomson	Sound.
Edser ...	... Heat for Advanced Students.
Maxwell ...	... Theory of Heat.
Edser ...	... Light for Students.
Foster and Porter	... Elementary Treatise on Electricity and Magnetism.

Honours Practical.

Watson ...	... Text-book on Practical Physics.
Henderson ...	... Practical Physics.

N.B.—Candidates who take up the Honours Course in Physics at the B.A. or B.Sc. Examination are recommended to refer to Saxelby's Practical Mathematics.

CHEMISTRY.

Pass Course.

Van Deventer	... Physical Chemistry for Beginners.
Newth ...	... Inorganic Chemistry.
Holleman ...	... Organic Chemistry.
Ira Remsen ...	... Organic Chemistry.
Francis Jones	... Practical Chemistry.
Alexander Smith	... General Inorganic Chemistry.

F. Mollwo Perkin ... Qualitative Chemical Analysis—Organic and Inorganic.
Clowes and Coleman ... Quantitative Analysis.
J. B. Cohen ... ... Theoretical Organic Chemistry.

HONOURS COURSE.

(In addition to the books recommended for the Pass Course.)

[illegible]s ... ... Elements of Physical Chemistry.
[illegible] ... ... Foundations of Analytical Chemistry.
J. [illegible] ... ... Introduction to the Study of Organic Chemistry.
Valentine and Hodgkinson. Practical Chemistry.
Cohen ... ... Practical Organic Chemistry.
Caven and Lander ... Systematic Inorganic Chemistry.
Ostwald ... ... Outlines of General Chemistry.
J. Walker ... ... Introduction to Physical Chemistry.
F. Mollwo Perkin ... Practical Methods of Inorganic Chemistry.

N.B.—Candidates who take up Chemistry at the B.A. or B.Sc. Examination are recommended to refer to Saxelby's Practical Mathematics.

BOTANY.

Pass Course.

Vines, S. H. ... An Elementary Text-book of Botany (London, 1905).
Scott, D. H. ... Structural Botany, 2 Vols. (London, 1904-06).
Darwin, F., and Acton, G. H. Practical Physiology of Plants (Cambridge, latest edition).
Prain, D. ... ... Bengal Plants (Calcutta, 1903), or
Roxburgh ... ... Flora Indica, edited by C. B (Calcutta, 1874).

Honours Course.

[In addition to the text-books for the Pass Course.]

Strasburger, E. ... Text-book of Botany, translated by Porter, revised by Lang (Third Edition, London).
Reynolds Green, J. ... Vegetable Physiology (London, 1900).
Schimper, A. F. W. ... Geography of Plants (Oxford, 1903).

The following books are recommended for the guidance of Professors or Lecturers :—

Bower ... ... Practical Botany, 1902.
Strasburger and Hillhouse. Practical Botany, 7th Edition, 1911.

ZOOLOGY.

Pass Course.

Boas ... ... Text-book of Zoology.
Shipley and MacBride ... Zoology.
Oskar Hertwig and H. J. Campbell ... The Cell.
R. E. Lloyd ... An Introduction to Biology for Students in India.
P. J. Parker and W. N. Parker. An Elementary Course of Practical Zoology.
Foster and Balfour ... The Elements of Embryology (edited by Sedgwick and W. Heape).
Wallace ... ... Darwinism.
A. D. Imms ... A Laboratory Sketch-book of Zoology for Indian Students.

Honours Course

[In addition to the books prescribed for the Pass Course.]

Miall and Hammond ... The Structure and Life-History of the Harlequin Fly.

Miall and Denny ... The Cockroach.

PHYSIOLOGY.

Course.

Starling ... Elements of Human Physiology (latest edition).

Practical.

Schafer ... ... Essentials of Histology

and either

Milroy ... ... Practical Physiological Chemistry

or

Halliburton ... ... Essentials of Chemical Physiology and

... Essentials of Experimental Physiology

or

Beddard, Edkins, Hill, Pembrey and Macleod. Practical Physiology.

Honours Course.

Halliburton ... ... Handbook of Physiology.
Stewart ... ... Manual of Physiology.
Howell ... ... Text-book of Physiology.

Practical.

The same as for the Pass Course.

Syllabus in Experimental Physiology.

Pass Course.

The induction coil; single shocks: short circuiting key; effect of single shocks on the tongue; break-shock is stronger than the make-shock. Helmholtz's Modification; Neef's Hammer.

Pithing a frog; nerve-muscle preparation. Mechanical, chemical, thermal and electrical stimulation of muscle and nerve.

The Graphic method: Simple lever; crank lever (myograph); moist chamber, Minimal and maximal excitation with single induction shocks (make and break). Stimulation by constant current: contraction of muscle only at make and break.

The muscle curve:—Single contraction of a frog's muscle: the latent period, the period of contraction and the period of relaxation. Time-tracing by tuning-fork. Method of after-loading. The influence of temperature and of load on muscular contraction. The work performed by a muscle during a twitch.

Elasticity and extensibility of muscle.

Summation of muscular contraction : tetanus.

Fatigue of muscle.

Thickening of a muscle on contraction.

...s..n of a motor nerve; unequal excitability (greater nearer the ...ntre of a motor nerve); excitability of flexor and extensor nerves.

Velocity of nerve-impulse (myographic method).

Electro-Physiology :—Galvani's experiment of contraction with metals; Galvani's experiment of contraction without metals.

The Frog's heart :—Beating of the heart; effect of heat and cold (heart in situ); section of the heart; effect of heat and cold on excised heart.

Stannius' experiment.

Graphic record of the beat of the heart (suspension method and also direct registration with heart-lever).

Pulse—Sphygmographic tracing.

Blood-pressure in man : Sphygmometer and Sphygmomanometer.

Reflex action (simple experiments on a pithed frog).

Vision :—Accommodation; Scheiner's experiment; near and far point; Purkinge-Sanson's images: Phakoscope; Blind spot; yellow spot; Colour vision: Complementary colours.

HONOURS COURSE.

Additional Experiments—

The Induction Coil—Break extra-current of Faraday.

The Rheonome: Effect of sudden variation of current.

Isotonic and Isometric contraction.

Influence of veratrine on muscular contraction.

Indefatigability of nerve.

Excitation of muscle by constant current: Polar excitation of a muscle.

Electrotonus. Electrotonic changes in excitability and conductivity of a nerve.

Kuhne's experiment of contraction without metals.

Examination of currents in muscle, nerve and heart by means of the reflecting galvanometer.

Frog's heart—Minimal stimulus causes maximal contraction. "Staircase effect." Single contraction of the ventricle. Tetanisation. Refractory period. Stimulation of the vagus. Action of drugs (Muscarin and Atropin) on the heart.

Voice and Speech: Laryngoscope.

Vision: Ophthalmoscope; Perimeter.

GEOLOGY.

No text books are prescribed or recommended. The subject is to be studied with the help of the Syllabus prescribed in the Regulations.

EXPERIMENTAL PSYCHOLOGY.

The subject is to be studied as defined by the Syllabus. Students are recommended to use one or more of the following books or select portions thereof, with special reference to the course laid down in the Syllabus :—

Pass Course.

I.—General Psychology.

Hoffding	...	Outlines of Psychology.
Wundt	...	Human and Animal Psychology.
William James	...	Text-book of Psychology.
J. Dunlop Leckley	...	The Nervous System (Longman & Co.).

Preparatory Reading—Students are advised to read Stout's Groundwork of Psychology before joining the regular class.

II.—Experimental Psychology.

Titchener ...	...	Outlines of Psychology.
Külpe ...	...	Outlines of Psychology.
Scripture ...	...	New Psychology.

Laboratory Course—Titchener's Experimental Psychology, Volume I, Part I, and Volume II, Part I.

Honours Course.

I.—General Psychology—Same as in the Pass Course.

II.—Physiological and Comparative Psychology.

Wundt ...	...	Outlines of Physiological Psychology (Volume I).
Ladd ...	...	Elements of Physiological Psychology.
Romanes ...	...	Mental Evolution in Man.
Romanes ...	...	Mental Evolution in Animals.
Lloyd Morgan	...	Comparative Psychology.
Herbert Spencer	...	Principles of Psychology (Volume I).

III.—Experimental Psychology—

In addition to the books recommended for the Pass Course, the following :—

Ziehen	...	Introduction to Physiological Psychology.
Ladd	...	Elements of Physiological Psychology.

N.B.—No text-books are recommended for the guidance of teachers.

SENATE HOUSE, the 6th January 1913. G. THIBAUT, Registrar.

ORDERS BY THE HONOURABLE THE VICE-CHANCELLOR AND SYNDICATE OF THE CALCUTTA UNIVERSITY.

THE HON'BLE THE AGENT TO THE GOVERNOR GENERAL IN BALUCHISTAN.

NOTIFICATION.

Quetta, the 8th January 1913.

No. 78-R.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 3 of the Quetta Hackney Carriage Law, 1889, the Honourable the Agent to the Governor General in Baluchistan is pleased to make the following additions to the rules made under the said law and published in Notification No. 7803, dated the 12th October 1899, as amended by Notifications No. 5037, dated the 18th October 1909, and No. 6, dated the 5th January 1911 :—

After rule 10 add as rule 10-A.

No person shall be granted a license unless (1) his character shall have been verified by the Superintendent of Police and (2) he can show that he owns a hackney carriage or will be employed as driver by the proprietor of a hackney carriage.

After the word "license" in paragraph 11 add

"And shall wear the prescribed uniform consisting of a khaki coat, a khaki pugree with red saloo border, and red cotton fringe, a pair of khaki trousers, a leather belt with brass badge (the clothing to be provided by the driver and the belt by the Municipality) and have his driver's license as also that of the hackney carriage in his possession."

After rule 11 add as rule 14-A.

If a hackney carriage driver is convicted of any offence by any court of law he shall be liable to forfeiture of his license.

Similarly, should the Hackney Carriage Committee have cause to consider that any licensed hackney carriage driver is unfit to continue his occupation as a licensed driver the Committee shall have power to revoke or suspend his license, either permanently or for such period as they may consider necessary. The reasons for such revocation or suspension shall be recorded by the Committee in writing.

After the word "detentions" in paragraph 22 (b) add "outside Municipal and Cantonment limits."

By order,

L. C. PORTER,

Secretary to the Government of India.

INDIAN PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT AND INDIAN STATE RAILWAYS.

REGULATIONS AS TO APPOINTMENT OF ASSISTANT ENGINEERS, 1913.

1. The Secretary of State for India in Council will, in the summer of 1913, make not less than 23 appointments of Assistant Engineers in the Public Works Department of the Government of India.

In making these appoinments he will act with the advice of a Selection Committee, including at least one eminent representative of the Engineering profession.

2. Applications for the appointments must be made on a printed form to be obtained from the Secretary, Public Works Department, India Office, Whitehall, London, S.W., and to be returned so as to reach him not earlier than 1st March 1913, or later than Thursday the 1st May 1913.

No applications received after the latter date will be considered.

3. Candidates must have attained the age of 21 and not attained the age of 24 on the 1st July 1913. To this rule no exception can be made.

[N. B.—Natives of India must obtain a certificate of age and nationality in the form explained in Appendix II. As the production of this certificate is a necessary condition of appointment, candidates are advised to procure it without delay. The certificate should be forwarded to the India Office together with the candidate's form of application or at the earliest subsequent opportunity.]

4. Every candidate except as provided in Regulation 5, must be a British subject of European descent, and at the time of his birth his father must have been a British subject, either natural-born or naturalised in the United Kingdom. The decision of the Secretary of State in Council as to whether a candidate satisfies this condition shall be final. He must also be of good moral character and sound physique.

5. Natives of India who are British subjects, and are not qualified under Regulation 4, are eligible for appointment, and shall be selected to the extent of 10 per cent. of the total number of Assistant Engineers thus recruited, if otherwise duly qualified.

6. Candidates must produce evidence that they have either (1) obtained one of the University degrees mentioned in Appendix I; or (2) passed the A.M.I.C.E. examination; or (3) obtained such other diploma or distinction in Engineering, as may, in the opinion of the Selection Committee, be accepted as approximately equivalent to the degrees mentioned.

It will be for the Selection Committee to decide, in dealing with the applications, whether they will recommend any candidate under head (3).

7. It is advisable that candidates who have been through a college course and obtained one of the degrees mentioned in Appendix I, should have had at least one full year's practical experience of Civil Engineering under a qualified civil engineer at the time when they appear before the Selection Committee. Those who have taken no college course should have had a full three years of such practical experience. In the event of any candidate being selected who has not, in the opinion of the Selection Committee, had sufficient practical experience, he may be required to undergo, after arrival in India, a year's probation in charge of works, and his final appointment will be made dependent upon the result of such probation.

8. Candidates must be prepared, if called upon, to attend at the India Office, at their own expense, for a personal interview with the Selection Committee, which will probably take place at the end of May or early in June 1913.

9. They will further be required, before final appointment by the Secretary of State in Council, to appear before the medical Board at the India Office for examination as to their physical fitness for service in India.

The Regulations governing the physical examination of candidates for the Public Works Department of the Government of India are given in Appendix V.

* Some of these appointments will probably be to the Indian State Railways.

*10. Selected candidates will also be required to satisfy the Secretary of State, in such manner as he may determine, of their ability to ride.

11. They will on appointment be provided with a free first-class passage to India and they will be expected to proceed thither about the end of September 1913.

Their pay will begin from the date of their landing in India, and, if they so desire, they will be able to obtain in India an advance of two months' pay, recoverable by monthly instalments of one-third of salary.

12. They will enter the Service as Assistant Engineers, on a salary of Rs. 4,560 a year (equivalent to £304 a year, when the rupee is at 1*s.* 4*d.*).

13. The instruments required by Assistant Engineers are supplied to them in India.

14. Particulars as to their prospects of pay, pension, &c., are contained in Appendices III and IV.

India Office,

* Selected candidates will be examined by the Civil Service Commissioners as to their ability to ride, and will be required to obtain —

(a) A certificate from the Civil Service Commissioners that they are able to ride well and to perform journeys on horseback; or

(b) a certificate from the Civil Service Commissioners of minimum proficiency in riding.

[In th]e latter case they will be subjected, on their arrival in India, to such further tests in riding as may be prescribed by their Government.

Candidates are warned that the certificate of minimum proficiency in riding without which they will not be allowed to proceed to India, is only granted to those who can qualify in a series of tests, which include jumping.

The chief tests will be saddling and bridling, mounting and dismounting; trotting and cantering; riding at a [trot without] stirrups; riding at a trot with stirrups but without reins, jumping a hedge hurdle about 3 feet in height.

Although the examination will in the main, be confined to these points, the examiner will not be debarred from applying any other tests which may appear desirable

NOTE FOR THE INFORMATION AND GUIDANCE OF CANDIDATES.

The Selection Committee of 1906 drew attention to the subjects which were held to be of most importance for the Public Works Service, viz.

Pure Mathematics, including a knowledge of the differential and integral calculus.

Applied Mathematics.

Geometrical and Engineering Drawing.

Surveying and Geodesy.

Strength of Materials and Theory of Structures.

Hydraulics.

Heat Engines.

Materials used in Construction.

Building Construction.—Wood and metal work, limes and cements, and building with stone, brick, and concrete.

Knowledge of the principles of road-making, waterworks, sanitary and railway engineering. (Important.)

The Selection Committee were further of opinion that all candidates should have had some workshop training.

The following Announcement regarding the recruitment of the Public Works Department in future years is published for the information of intending candidates:—

The foregoing Regulations apply only to the appointment of Assistant Engineers in the permanent establishment of the Public Works Department in 1913, but it is the intention of the Secretary of State for India in Council, as at present advised, to recruit the permanent establishment of the Department in succeeding years on the same general lines as those already laid down.

He is, however, unable to give any undertaking that the Regulations will remain unaltered in the future.

5. Promotions above the grade of Executive Engineer are dependent on the occurrence of vacancies in the sanctioned establishment, and are made wholly by selection; mere seniority is considered to confer no claim to promotion.

APPENDIX IV.

PARTICULARS RELATING TO PENSIONS, PROVIDENT FUND, AND LEAVE.

[N.B.—This Appendix is compiled from the regulations for the time being, and is subject to alterations from time to time. The full leave and pension rules are contained in the Civil Service Regulations published by the Government of India.]

1. The following is a summary of the principal pension rules applicable to Engineers appointed to the Imperial Service by the Secretary of State from the United Kingdom.

An officer is eligible for a pension on voluntary retirement after completing 20 years' qualifying service or attaining the age of 55 years. If at an earlier date he is compelled to retire from the service through ill-health not occasioned by irregular or intemperate habits, he becomes eligible for an invalid pension or a gratuity according to the length of his service.

The amount of pension or gratuity is regulated as follows :

After a service of less than 10 years, an invalid gratuity not exceeding one month's emoluments for each completed year of service.

After a service of not less than 10 years an invalid pension not exceeding the following amounts :—

Years of completed service.	Maximum limit of Pension.

* Officers of the Assistant Class will ordinarily pass into the executive class in the 11th year of service, but no Imperial Engineer may draw more than Rs. 9,600 per annum unless he holds charge of a division or a charge of equal importance.

After a service of not less than 20 years, a retiring pension not exceeding the following amounts :—

Years of completed service.	Maximum limit of Pension.
20 to 24	Rs. 4,000 a year.
25 and above	5,000 a year.

Officers who have shown special energy and efficiency during an effective service of three years in certain appointments may, at the discretion of the Government of India, be allowed an additional pension of Rs. 1,000 a year, subject to the condition that the officer must not retire voluntarily before the completion of a total qualifying service of 28 years.

Subject to certain prescribed conditions, rupee pensions are now issued at the rate of exchange of 1*s.* 9*d.* the rupee to pensioners residing in countries in which the Indian Government rupee is not legal tender.

2. A general provident fund to which all Civil Engineers entering the Public Works Department in the future will subscribe has been established for all Civil Engineers of the Department on the following basis :-

(1) The contribution is compulsory up to 6¼ per cent., on salaries, with not more than a further 6¼ per cent. voluntary contributions. Subscriptions on leave of any kind are optional.

(2) Compound interest on such payment is annually credited by Government to each officer subscribing, the rate being at present 4 per cent. per annum.

(3) The sum which thus accumulates to the credit of an officer is his absolute property, subject to the rules of the Fund, and is handed over to him unconditionally on quitting the Service ; or, in the event of his death before retirement, to his legal representatives.

(4) Other forms of life insurance will, however, if they fulfil certain conditions, be accepted in lieu of the contributions in (1).

LEAVE.

3. The following is a summary of the principal regulations relating to the leave admissible to Engineers appointed to the Imperial Service by the Secretary of State from the United Kingdom.

(a) Short Leave.

4. Privilege Leave is a holiday which may be granted to the extent of one-eleventh part of the time that an officer has been on duty without interruption ; and it may be accumulated up to three months, earned by 33 months' duty. During privilege leave the officer retains a lien on his appointment, and receives an allowance equal to the salary which he would receive if he were on duty in the appointment on which he has a lien. An interval of not less than six months must elapse between two periods of absence on privilege leave.

Privilege leave may be prefixed to furlough, special leave, or extraordinary leave without allowances. The whole period of leave thus taken in combination is known as combined leave. Combined leave cannot be granted for a shorter period than six months, nor, except on medical certificate, may it be extended beyond two years.

5. Extraordinary Leave without allowances may be granted in case of necessity, and, except in certain specified cases, only when no other kind of leave is by rule admissible. It may be granted in continuation of other leave.

6. Subsidiary Leave in India, usually with half average salary, may be granted to an officer proceeding on or returning from leave out of India, or on retirement, to enable him to reach the port of embarkation or to rejoin his appointment. It is admissible only at the end, and not at the beginning, of combined leave.

7. Short leave is also granted to enable officers to appear at examinations, etc.

(b) Long Leave.

8. Furlough and special leave with allowances (see paragraph 15) are admissible to an aggregate maximum amount of six years' during an officer's service. The amount of furlough "earned" is one-fourth of an officer's active service, and the amount "due" is that amount less any enjoyed.

Furlough without medical certificate can, if due, be generally taken after eight years' active service, and again after intervals of not less than three years' continuous service. It is limited to two years at a time.

Furlough on medical certificate may be granted (a) to an officer who has rendered three years' continuous service, for not more than two years, but capable of extension up to three years, and (b) to an officer who has not rendered three years' continuous service up to one year in any case, and up to such longer period, if any (but not exceeding two years), as the officer may have furlough "due" to him.

9. The allowances admissible during furlough are :—

(1) During the first two years of furlough without medical certificate and during so much of furlough with medical certificate as may be "due,"—half average salary subject to certain maximum and minimum limits.

(2) After the expiration of the period for which the foregoing allowances are admissible,—one quarter of average salary, subject to certain maximum and minimum limits.

10. Special Leave may be granted at any time for not more than six months, with intervals of six years' service; allowances, calculated as during furlough, are given during the first six months only, whether taken in one or more instalments.

General Rules.

11. Leave of absence, whether on furlough or on privilege leave, can never be claimed as of right, and is given or refused at the discretion of Government.

12. After five years' continuous absence from India, an officer is considered to be out of the employment of Government.

13. When leave allowances other than privilege leave pay are paid at the Home Treasury or in a Colony where the standard of currency is gold, rupees are converted into sterling at the rate of exchange fixed for the time being for the adjustment of financial transactions between the Imperial and Indian Treasuries, unless any other rate has been exceptionally authorised. But for the present the rate of conversion is subject to a minimum of 1s 6d. to the rupee. Privilege leave pay when issued from the Home Treasury (this is only admissible when privilege leave is combined with other leave) is converted at 1s. 4d to the rupee.

APPENDIX V.

Regulations as to the Physical Examination of Candidates for Appointment to the Public Works Department of the Government of India.

Note.—These Regulations are published for the convenience of candidates and in order to enable them to ascertain the probability of their coming up to the required physical standard. But it must be clearly understood that the Secretary of State reserves to himself an absolute discretion to reject as unfit any candidate whom he may consider, after hearing the opinion of his medical advisers, to be physically disqualified for the public service; and that his discretion is in no respect limited by these Regulations.

General Physical Requirements.

1. A candidate must be in good mental and bodily health, and free from any physical defect likely to interfere with efficient performance of duty.

2. In the examination of candidates the Medical Board will apply the following table of correlation of age, height, and chest girth :—

Age.	Height without Shoes.	Chest. Girth when expanded.	Chest. Range of Expansion.
	Inches.	Inches.	Inches.
21 and upwards	62½ and under 65 . . .	35	2
	65 " 68	35½	2
	68 " 70 . . .	36	2
	70 " 72 . . .	36½	2½
	72 and upwards . . .	37	2½

3. Measurement of Height.—The candidate will be placed against the standard with his feet together, and the weight thrown on the heels, and not on the toes or outside of the feet. He will stand erect without rigidity, and with the heels, calves, buttocks, and shoulders touching the standard; the chin will be depressed to bring the vertex of the head level under the horizontal bar, and the height will be noted in parts of an inch to eighths. In the Indian Police Force a minimum height of 5 ft. 4 ins. is required, but in other Departments no fixed limit of height is imposed.

4. Measurement of Chest.—The candidate will be made to stand erect with his feet together, and to raise his hands above his head. The tape will be carefully adjusted round the chest, with its posterior upper edge touching the inferior angles of the shoulder blades, and its anterior lower edge the upper part of the nipples. The arms will then be lowered to hang loosely by the side, and care will be taken that the shoulders are not thrown upwards or backwards so as to displace the tape. The candidate will then be directed to empty his chest of air as much as is possible. This is best done by continuous whistling with the lips as long as sound can be produced. The tape is carefully gathered in during the process, and when the minimum measurement is reached it is recorded. The candidate will then be directed to inflate his chest to its utmost capacity. This maximum measurement will likewise be noted. The girth with the chest fully expanded and the range of expansion between the minimum and the maximum will then be recorded.

5. The hearing must be good.

6. The speech without impediment.

7. The teeth in good order, i.e., decayed or broken teeth must be properly stopped or crowned, and deficient teeth replaced by artificial teeth where necessary for effective mastication.

8. The chest must be well formed, the lungs and heart sound.

9. Rupture, hydrocele, varicocele, varicose veins in a severe degree, or other condition likely to cause inefficiency will disqualify a candidate, unless such condition is cured by operation.

10. The limbs, feet, and toes must be well formed and developed, with free and perfect motion of all the joints.

11. A candidate must have no congenital malformation or defect likely to interfere with efficiency.

12. A candidate must not be the subject of chronic skin disease.

13. Evidence of previous acute or chronic disease pointing to an impaired constitution will disqualify.

14. The Regulations as to the standard of vision required are shown separately for each department. In all cases of "colour blindness" a note of the same will be made on the candidate's papers.

Candidates may, if they wish it, undergo a preliminary examination by the Medical Board, which meets at the India Office every Tuesday, under the following conditions:—

(a) Applications must be addressed to the Under Secretary of State, India Office, Whitehall, London, accompanied by a fee of two guineas, and a statement as to the particular appointment which the candidate desires to obtain.

(b) Candidates must pay their travelling expenses.

(c) Candidates considered to be unfit by the Medical Board at this preliminary examination are not bound to accept its opinion, but may at their own risk, continue their studies, with the knowledge that they will have to submit themselves for a final medical examination by the Medical Board, prior to the examination, or to their appointment.

(d) On the other hand, it must be distinctly understoodthat the preliminary examination by the Medical Board is held solely for the candidate's information, and that, if after that examination he is reported to be apparently fit, he has not on that account any claim to be accepted as physically fit when he presents himself for the final Medical examination, upon which alone his acceptance or rejection will depend. Candidates may be considered fit for the service at the preliminary examination, but may be found at the final examination to be unfit, either on account of some physical defect which did not exist or passed undetected at the preliminary examination, or for other reasons.

REGULATIONS AS TO THE STANDARD OF VISION.

1. If myopia in one or both eyes exists, a candidate may be passed provided the ametropia does not exceed 3·5 D, and if, with correcting glasses not exceeding 3·5 D, the acuteness of vision in one eye equals $\frac{6}{9}$ and in the other $\frac{6}{6}$, there being normal range of accomodation with the glasses.

2. Myopic astigmatism does not disqualify a candidate, provided the lens, or the combined spherical and cylindrical lenses, required to correct the error of refraction, does not exceed 3·5 D; the acuteness of vision in one eye, when corrected, being equal to $\frac{6}{9}$, and in the other $\frac{6}{6}$, together with normal range of accommodation with the correcting glasses, their being no evidence of progressive disease in the choroid or retina.

3. A candidate having total hypermetropia not exceeding + D is not disqualified, provided the sight in one eye (when under the influence of atropine) equals $\frac{6}{9}$, and in the other eye equals $\frac{6}{6}$, with +4 D glasses, or any lower power.

4. Hypermetropic astigmatism does not disqualify, provided the lens or combined lenses required to cover the error of refraction do not exceed 4 D, and that the sight of one eye equals $\frac{6}{9}$, and the other $\frac{6}{6}$, with or without such lens or lenses.

5. A candidate having a defect of vision arising from nebula of the cornea is disqualified if the sight of one eye be less than $\frac{6}{12}$. In such a case the better eye must be emmetropic. Defects of vision arising from pathological or other changes in the deeper structures of either eye, which are not referred to in these rules, may exclude a candidate.

6. Squint or any morbid condition, subject to the risk of aggravation or recurrence, in either eye, may cause the rejection of a candidate. The existence of imperfection of colour sense will be noted on the candidate's papers

Rainfall summary for the seven days ending at 8 hrs. on Thursday, the 16th January 1913, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. A feeble winter depression gave light precipitation in Baluchistan, the North-West Frontier Province, Kashmir and the Simla and Mussoorie hills; and a few falls of rain occurred at Port Blair and the extreme south of the Peninsula. Weather was dry over the rest of the country.

2. Burma.—Rain fell at Port Blair on the 12th, 13th and 14th.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—Dibrugarh had a light fall of rain on the 14th.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—Mukteswar had a light fall of snow on the 13th.

Northwest India.—Weather was disturbed from the 11th to the 14th in Baluchistan, the North-West Frontier Province and Kashmir, where precipitation occurred.

The Peninsula.—Light falls of rain were reported from Pamban, Negapatam and Trivandrum.

3. The chief daily falls were as follows:—

January 12th. Sonamarg 1·25″, Parachinar 0·58″ and Chaman 0·32″.
" 13th. Sonamarg 0·53″.
" 14th. Port Blair 1·25″.

4. The only division where the rainfall of the week has been in excess of the normal is the Bay Islands. Kashmir and Baluchistan have received their normal amount of precipitation, and Madras Southeast has had half its normal amount. No appreciable rainfall has occurred elsewhere.

The seasonal rainfall up to date is as much as 20 per cent in excess only in Baluchistan. It is within 20 per cent of the normal in Upper Burma, Kashmir and Malabar and is more than 20 per cent in defect in all the remaining divisions, except in Gujarat where the absence of rain at this time of year is a normal feature of the weather. The largest actual deficiencies are 6″ in the Bay Islands and 3½″ in Madras Southeast.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 11th January 1913.

Burma.—No rain fell during the week. Harvesting of winter rice is approaching completion. Threshing and winnowing are in progress. Cultivation of spring rice and island crops continues. The condition of standing crops is good. Prices remain steady and are somewhat above normal.

Assam.—The week was practically rainless Harvesting of winter rice is nearly finished and is giving a good outturn. Pruning of tea and pressing of sugarcane are proceeding. Transplantation of spring rice has been commenced in places. Prospects of standing crops are favourable. The price of common rice is stationary. Cattle disease prevails in one district.

Bengal.—No rain fell throughout the Province. Harvesting of winter rice is approaching completion. The work of extracting juice from sugarcane has begun. The average price of common rice is practically stationary at present. Cattle disease is reported from one thana of Burdwan, from Kaliachak in Malda, from Mirzapur in Mymensingh and from Bramanbaria in Tippera.

Bihar and Orissa.—There was no rain during the week. Harvesting of paddy is nearly finished and threshing continues. Pressing of sugarcane is in progress. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has remained almost stationary as compared with that of the previous week. The condition of cattle is good. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient. Prospects of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa are reported to be good.

United Provinces.—The week has been rainless. In the Western submontane and Upper Doab districts rain is now required with some urgency. It is also wanted in Rampur, Budaun and Muttra and in the hilly tracts of Mirzapur. Some damage has been done by frost in the Tarai and in Rampur. Pressing of sugarcane and preparation of land for the next cane crop continue. Spring crops are flowering and are coming into ear. Standing crops as a whole are in good condition and fodder and water are sufficient. In Mirzapur 466 persons are employed on test works and 4,968 on canal works. In one district of the Benares State there are 1,183 persons on works and 550 in receipt of gratuitous relief. Cattle disease prevails in the hills and in Bundelkhand. Disease is sporadic in 17 other districts. Prices show an upward tendency especially in the northern parts of the Province.

Punjab.—The weather is dry. Rain is urgently wanted everywhere. Picking of cotton, pressing of sugarcane and harvesting of toria continue with outturn average to good. Sowings of spring crops are above normal on irrigated areas and short in some districts on unirrigated areas for want of rain. The condition of standing spring crops is generally average to good. Cattle are generally healthy and fodder is sufficient except in parts. Prices remain high.

North-West Frontier Province.—Slight showers fell in Hazara and Peshawar. Rain is badly wanted all over the Province. The weather is cool and at times cloudy. The condition of standing crops is generally fair on irrigated but poor on unirrigated areas. Pressing of sugarcane continues with outturn normal. Sowings of spring crops are still proceeding in parts of the Peshawar and Bannu districts. Cattle are in good condition Fodder and water are generally sufficient. Prices are high and rising.

Jammu.—There was no rain. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 8 to 15 and maize from 13 to 24 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is below average. Cattle disease of mild type prevails in the Mirpur district. Fodder is insufficient.

Kashmir.—It rained twice during the week. Ploughing operations are going on. Prices are unchanged. Cattle disease prevails in the southern Valley. Fodder is average.

Rajputana.—The weather is clear and cold. Spring crops are being irrigated and are doing well. Prospects are fair. Cattle are in good condition. Fodder and water are sufficient. Prices are high but falling. Irrigated cotton is doing well in Merwara.

Central India.—The weather is clear and cool. Operations for spring crops have been completed in Baghelkhand and are in progress elsewhere with outturn fair in Indore and good elsewhere. Some damage is reported to crops at Piploda in the Malwa Agency. Cattle disease prevails in parts of Gwalior and Barwani. The fodder supply is generally ample. Prices are above normal in Baghelkhand, fluctuating in Bhopawar and steady elsewhere. The opium crop is good in Gwalior.

Central Provinces. The weather continues to be clear and cool. Picking of cotton and threshing and winnowing of autumn crops are still in progress. Prospects of spring crops are generally good. The supply of fodder and water is adequate. Cattle are in good condition. The price of staple food grains remained almost stationary.

Feudatory States.—The condition of spring crops is generally good and prospects are avourable in Khairagarh and Udaipur The price of rice rose by two seers per rupee.

Bombay. Standing crops are generally in good condition except for slight damage by insects in parts of Dharwar and Kolhapur, and by cold winds in Kolhapur. Crops are withering in Ahmednagar. Cotton is withering in parts of Bijapur. Picking continues in parts of Sind, Gujarat and Kathiawar. The fodder supply is deficient in parts of Ahmednagar and Sholapur. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition and sufficient except in parts of Cutch. The condition of stock is deteriorating in Ahmednagar. Drinking water is generally adequate except in parts of Ahmednagar and Sholapur. Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of Ahmedabad, Ahmednagar and Bijapur. Prices are high and stationary. The public health is generally good. Distribution of takavi continues. Grain stocks are sufficient Emigration continues from Ahmednagar. The numbers on relief for the week ending 11th January in tracts where famine has not been declared were: on gratuitous relief in the Deccan 9,987.

Hyderabad.—There was no rain during the week. Autumn cotton is being picked and early rice is being harvested in parts. Spring sowings continue and the crop is fair to good except in parts of the Aurangabad and Bir districts. The spring castor seed crop has been damaged slightly by insects in parts of Nalgonda and spring cotton in parts of Raichur. Serious fodder scarcity prevails in the Aurangabad and Bir districts. Late rice sowings continue and germination is satisfactory. The crop is being irrigated in parts. Cattle disease is reported in 9, fodder scarcity in 9 and water scarcity in 6 talukas. Prices:—wheat 6, coarse rice 5½ and juar 10¾ seers per rupee, showing a fall of ¼ seer in the price of wheat. White juar is selling in Hyderabad City at 12 seers per rupee. The highest price in districts is 7 seers in Karimnagar and the lowest 24 seers in Adilabad.

Mysore.—Prices of food grains are generally steady. Markets are well supplied. Harvesting operations are in progress with outturn fair to normal. Prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Reaping of rice and picking of coffee continue. Prices of food grains have fallen slightly. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—Light rain fell in Tanjore and Ramnad. There was no rain elsewhere. Standing crops are fair to good. Harvesting of dry crops, paddy and sugarcane is proceeding in parts with outturn fair to normal. Sowings of dry crops and paddy are proceeding normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. Fodder and water are generally sufficient. Prices are falling.

NOTICES.

THE PATENT OFFICE.

1, COUNCIL HOUSE STREET, CALCUTTA.

Public room, open 11 A.M. to 4 P.M.; Saturdays, 11 A.M. to 1 P.M.

1. All communications relating to applications for patents and for registration of designs under the Indian Patents and Designs Act (II of 1911), or in continuation of applications under the Inventions and Designs Act (V of 1888) should be addressed to the Controller of Patents and Designs, 1, Council House Street, Calcutta. Documents sent by post should be carefully packed.

2. Directions for the guidance of inventors and others are given in the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911 (price, 10 annas), and in the Indian Patents and Designs Rules, 1912 (price, 2 annas). These should be consulted before an application is made to the Controller.

3. Advice. The Patent Office cannot undertake (1) to give opinions on the interpretation of Patent Law, or on the advisability of protecting inventions and designs or on their infringement; (2) to make searches in respect of information available in the public room; (3) to recommend any particular agent; or (4) to assist in the disposal of inventions. Applicants are warned that the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, is in force in British India only, and patents granted under it do not extend to the United Kingdom or any of the British possessions. The International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property does not include India. Applications for patents in countries other than India should be made to the patent offices in the countries concerned.

4. Fees are payable in cash and must be received in the Patent Office within the time allowed by the Acts. When cheques are offered in payment of fees, it must be clearly understood that the office cannot hold itself responsible for any delay that may occur in the collection of cash on the cheques; any cheque not payable in Calcutta is subject to commission. In cases where it is not possible to have the fees handed in at the Patent Office, it is preferable to send them by money-order or postal order payable at Calcutta to the Controller of Patents and Designs, and to advise him that they have been so sent. Stamps will not be received in payment of fees.

5. Trade and property marks are not registered and medicines are not patented under the Indian Patents and Designs Act. There is no provision of Law in British India for their registration.

6. Printed Specifications of applications, which have been accepted, are published within about three weeks after acceptance has been notified in the Gazette of India. These specifications can be purchased at the Patent Office at a uniform price of 8 annas per copy; and may be seen free of charge, together with other publications of the Patent Office, at the following places:—

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Rainfall summary for the seven days ending at 8 hrs. on Thursday, the 23rd January 1913, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. A winter depression appeared in the neighbourhood of Bushire on the 18th and travelled eastwards across northern India. It was fairly well defined throughout its existence, but the only areas in which it occasioned precipitation were north-east Baluchistan, the hills of north-west India and in Assam.

Disturbed weather near Ceylon gave a few falls of rain in the extreme south of the Peninsula on the 17th and 18th.

2. Burma.—Mergui had a light fall of rain on the 17th.

North-east India including Orissa.—Light rain fell at Dibrugarh on the 16th and at Sibsagar on the 21st, and rainfall was fairly general in the upper Brahmaputra valley on the 22nd.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—Light precipitation occurred in the hill districts of the north-west United Provinces on the 20th and 21st.

North-west India.—The depression from Persia gave precipitation on the 19th in north-east Baluchistan, Kashmir, the North-West Frontier Province and the North Punjab; on the 20th in Kashmir, the North-West Frontier Province and the hills and submontane districts of the Punjab; and on the 21st in Kashmir. Light rain was also reported from Quetta and Pasni at the beginning of the week.

The Peninsula.—Rain fell locally in the extreme south on the 17th and 18th.

3. The chief daily falls were as follows :—

January 17th. Pamban 1·00."

,, 19th. Parachinar 1·17" and Sonamarg 2·26."

,, 20th. Sonamarg 3·12," Srinagar 1·30" and Dras 1·25."

,, 21st Sonamarg 0·88."

4. The rainfall of the week was more than 20 per cent. in excess in Assam, Kashmir and Madras South-east, and was normal in Baluchistan. It was more than 20 per cent. in defect in all the remaining divisions except in the following, where no rain usually falls at this time of year : Burma, Gujarat, the Konkan, the Bombay Deccan, Hyderabad South and Mysore.

The seasonal rainfall up to date is in excess by more than 20 per cent. only in Kashmir, and within 20 per cent. of the normal in Upper Burma, Baluchistan and Malabar. It is in defect by more than 20 per cent. in the rest of the country, except in Gujarat where the normal rainfall is nil. The largest actual deficiencies are 6 inches in the Bay Islands and 3½ inches in Madras South-east.

Division.	Rainfall data for week ending on 23rd January, 1913. Actual rainfall in inches.	Normal rainfall in inches.	Excess or defect in inches. DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 18th January 1913.

Burma.—Light rain fell in one district. Reaping of winter rice is practically finished and cultivation of spring rice is advancing. Agricultural operations for miscellaneous crops are proceeding normally. Standing crops are doing well. Pasturage is ample. Cattle are healthy. The price of unhusked rice has risen slightly in Rangoon.

Assam.—The weather is seasonable. Slight rain fell in the Sibsagar subdivision and in Lakhimpur. Harvesting of winter rice is finished in the Surma Valley and is nearly over in the Assam Valley. Gathering of mustard and pulses has commenced in places. Crushing of sugarcane, pruning of tea, transplanting of spring rice and plucking of cotton are in progress. The outturn and prospects of standing crops is fair to good. Fodder is insufficient in three districts. The price of common rice is stationary. Cattle disease prevails in three districts.

Bengal.—During the week under report there was no rain throughout the Province. Harvesting of winter rice is almost completed. Sowing of spring crops has been finished and harvesting has begun in places. Prospects of standing spring crops are good. Pressing of sugarcane is going on. Preparation of lands for autumn crops is in progress. The average price of common rice for the Province has fallen slightly. Cattle disease is reported from places in Nadia, Burdwan, Mymensingh, Tippera and Noakhali.

Bihar and Orissa.—There was no rain during the week. The weather was seasonable. Harvesting of paddy has been completed and threshing still continues. Pressing of sugarcane is in progress. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has remained almost stationary. The condition of cattle is good. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient. Prospects of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa are on the whole good.

United Provinces.—Light rain has fallen in the hills and trifling showers in Bijnor, Moradabad and Meerut. Elsewhere the week has been rainless. Need for winter rain is becoming urgent throughout the western submontane tract and in the whole of the upper and in most of the central Doab. In Muttra and Etah some damage has occurred. Budaun, Hardoi, Cawnpore and Jalaun also need rain and it is urgently required in the hilly tracts of Mirzapur. The general condition of standing crops is still good. Sugarcane is being pressed. Spring crops are flowering. Fodder and water are sufficient. In Mirzapur there are 520 persons on test works and 6,101 on ordinary canal works and in the Chakia district of the Benares State 2,603 persons are on relief works and 550 are receiving gratuitous relief. Cattle disease continues in the hills and in Bundelkhand. Disease is sporadic in seventeen other districts. Prices show an upward tendency.

Punjab.—The weather is dry, except in Rawalpindi and in parts of the Ambala and Lahore divisions where slight showers have fallen. More rain is urgently wanted everywhere. Picking of cotton, pressing of sugarcane and harvesting of toria continue with outturn average to good. Sowings of spring crops are generally finished. The condition of standing spring crops is generally average to good but unirrigated crops are suffering in some districts for want of rain. Cattle are generally healthy and fodder sufficient except in parts. Prices remain high.

North-West Frontier Province.—Slight showers fell in places in all districts except in Dera Ismail Khan. Rain is badly required throughout the Province. The weather is cool and at times cloudy. Standing crops are generally fair on irrigated lands but poor on unirrigated areas. Sugarcane is being pressed and the outturn is expected to be normal. Sowings of spring crops still continue in parts of the Peshawar district. The condition of cattle is good. Fodder and water are generally sufficient except in Dera Ismail Khan. Prices are high and rising.

Jammu.—There was slight rain during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 8 to 16 and maize from 13 to 25 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is below average. Cattle disease of mild type prevails in the Mirpur district. Fodder is insufficient.

Kashmir.—There was good rain and snowfall during the week. Prices have fallen in the City. Spring operations are finished. Cattle disease is prevalent in certain villages of Kulgam and Verinag. Fodder is average.

Rajputana.—The weather is clear and cold. Spring crops are being irrigated and doing well but rain is wanted in some places in the eastern States. Prospects are generally fair. Cattle are good. Fodder and water are sufficient. Prices are generally high and stationary. Irrigated cotton is doing well in Ajmer-Merwara.

Central India.—There was no rain during the week. The weather is clear and cool. Outturn of autumn crops is fair in Indore and Bhopawar and good elsewhere. Prospects of spring crops continue to be excellent. Cattle disease prevails in parts of Gwalior, Indore and Bhopal. The fodder supply is ample. Prices are normal in Bhopal, above normal in Baghelkhand, fluctuating in Bhopawar and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather has been clear and cool. Threshing and winnowing of autumn crops and picking of cotton are well advanced. Linseed in Drug and wheat and gram in Raipur are not thriving for want of moisture. The condition of spring crops otherwise is generally satisfactory. Fodder and water are sufficient. Agricultural stock is in good condition. Variations in prices are unimportant.

Feudatory States.—Prospects of spring crops are generally good. Rice in Udaipur and gram in Sirguja rose by two and four seers per rupee respectively.

Bombay.—Standing crops are generally in good condition except for slight damage by insects in parts of Dharwar. Crops are withering in Ahmednagar. Cotton is withering in parts of Bijapur. Picking continues in parts of Sind, Gujarat, Kathiawar and Baroda. The fodder supply is deficient in parts of Ahmednagar and Sholapur. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition and sufficient except in parts of Cutch. Stock is deteriorating in Ahmednagar. Drinking water is generally adequate except in parts of Ahmednagar and Sholapur. Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of Ahmedabad, Ahmednagar and Bijapur. Prices are high and stationary. The public health is generally good. Distribution of takavi continues. Grain stocks are sufficient. Emigration continues from Ahmednagar. The numbers on relief for the week ending 18th January in tracts where famine has not been declared were:—on gratuitous relief in the Deccan 12,470. Famine is being declared in Ahmednagar.

Hyderabad.—There was no rain during the week. Autumn cotton is being picked. Harvesting of spring crops has begun in parts and the crop is generally fair to good except in parts of the Aurangabad, Bir and Usmanabad Districts. The spring castor seed crop which is being picked, has suffered somewhat in parts of the Nalgonda District from insects and the spring cotton crop in parts of the Raichur District. The castor seed oil crop is light this year. Late rice sowings continue and the crop is being irrigated in parts. The plants show a good growth. Suspensions of revenue are being granted to rayats in distressed talukas in the Aurangabad and Bir Districts and ordinary public works have been increased for those in search of employment. Labourers employed during the week ending 28th December 1912 were: Aurangabad District 52,704, Bir district 12,205. The daily average was 7,844. Cattle disease prevails in 8 talukas, fodder scarcity in 10 and water scarcity in 7. Prices:—Wheat 6, coarse rice 5½ and jaur 10¾ seers per rupee. White jaur is selling in Hyderabad city at 12 seers. The highest price in districts is 7 seers in Karimnagar and the lowest 24 seers in Adilabad.

Mysore.—Prices of food grains are generally steady. Markets are well supplied. Harvesting operations are in progress. The outturn is fair to normal. Standing crops are in good condition. Prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Reaping of rice and picking of coffee continue. Prices of food grains have fallen slightly. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—Light rain fell in parts in the south. There was no rain elsewhere. Standing crops are fair to good. Harvesting of dry crops, paddy and sugarcane is proceeding in parts with outturn fair to normal. Sowings of dry crops and paddy are proceeding normally. The condition of cattle is generally good. Fodder and water are generally sufficient. Prices are generally satisfactory.

NOTICES.

THE PATENT OFFICE.

1, COUNCIL HOUSE STREET, CALCUTTA.

Public room, open 11 A.M. to 4 P.M.; Saturdays, 11 A.M. to 1 P.M.

1. All communications relating to applications for patents and for registration of designs under the Indian Patents and Designs Act (II of 1911), or in continuation of applications under the Inventions and Designs Act (V of 1888) should be addressed to the Controller of Patents and Designs, 1, Council House Street, Calcutta. Documents sent by post should be carefully packed.

2. Directions for the guidance of inventors and others are given in the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911 (price, 10 annas), and in the Indian Patents and Designs Rules, 1912 (price, 2 annas). These should be consulted before an application is made to the Controller.

3. Advice. The Patent Office cannot undertake (1) to give opinions on the interpretation of Patent Law, or on the advisability of protecting inventions and designs or on their infringement; (2) to make searches in respect of information available in the public room; (3) to recommend any particular agent; or (4) to assist in the disposal of inventions. Applicants are warned that the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, is in force in British India only, and patents granted under it do not extend to the United Kingdom or any of the British possessions. The International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property does not include India. Applications for patents in countries other than India should be made to the patent offices in the countries concerned.

4. Fees are payable in cash and must be received in the Patent Office within the time allowed by the Acts. When cheques are offered in payment of fees, it must be clearly understood that the office cannot hold itself responsible for any delay that may occur in the collection of cash on the cheques; any cheque not payable in Calcutta is subject to commission. In cases where it is not possible to have the fees handed in at the Patent Office, it is preferable to send them by money-order or postal order payable at Calcutta to the Controller of Patents and Designs, and to advise him that they have been so sent. Stamps will not be received in payment of fees.

5. Trade and property marks are not registered and medicines are not patented under the Indian Patents and Designs Act. There is no provision of Law in British India for their registration.

6. Printed Specifications of applications, which have been accepted, are published within about three weeks after acceptance has been notified in the Gazette of India. These specifications can be purchased at the Patent Office at a uniform price of 8 annas per copy; and may be seen free of charge, together with other publications of the Patent Office, at the following places:—

OPENING OF THE FIRST SESSION OF THE LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL IN DELHI.

His Excellency the President :—"Although I have not yet recovered from my wounds, and have been compelled under doctor's orders to abstain from all public business of every kind, I have felt not only a desire, but that it is my duty, to come here to-day to open the first Session of my Legislative Council in Delhi, and to give a cordial welcome to the newly elected and newly appointed Members of my Council. I am sure that at the same time none of you will begrudge me an expression of regret for those who have not returned; since after two years' loyal and active co-operation with my Government in the legislative work of the Government of India, I regard them not only as former Colleagues in Council but also as friends. I am delighted to see some of the former Members of my Council again in their places, and I am confident that they will again bring to our Council the same spirit of harmony, goodwill and legislative ability as during the past two years that I have had the honour of presiding over their deliberations. As regards the new Members of my Council, I bid them a cordial welcome, and I am sure that I can count on them to maintain the same high standard of dignity in debate as has so markedly distinguished our deliberations in the past.

"I feel deeply grateful to you all for the warmth of your reception here to-day. I always knew that I could count on your sympathy in the suffering that has been my lot during the past few weeks; and if there has been one thing that has tended to alleviate those sufferings, it has been the knowledge of the sympathy shown towards me by all classes, creeds and communities throughout the length and breadth of India. I should like to take this opportunity when addressing my Council, who represent the whole of British India, to express my profound gratitude for the genuine outburst of sympathy, the [illegible] prayers and good wishes that have been heard on every side; and if I may be allowed to say so, I feel convinced that those prayers have not been unanswered. When five weeks ago I had recovered consciousness and was able to think over what had passed, my feelings were, in the first instance, those of profound gratitude to Almighty God for His merciful protection of Lady Hardinge and myself, of [illegible] grief for the poor man who had lost his life in the performance of his duty, of very deep disappointment that it were possible that such misguided men as those who plotted and committed such a useless crime could now be found in India, and of sorrow at the thought of the injury to the sentiments of the whole of the people of India who would, I knew, regard with horror and detestation the perpetration of a crime which is contrary to their own precepts and instincts of humanity and of loyalty, as well as to their religious principles. The gratitude that I felt at the miraculous preservation by the Almighty of Lady Hardinge and myself from the hand of the assassin was, I know, also deeply felt throughout India, but words fail me when I think of the cruel murder of those humble people who were ruthlessly killed, and I deeply deplore the loss which their families have sustained. In my desire for kindly intercourse with the people and accessibility to them, I have always discouraged excessive precautions, and I trusted myself and Lady Hardinge more to the care of the people than to that of the police. If it was an error, it is an error that I am proud of, and I believe it may yet prove not to have been an entirely mistaken confidence, for out of evil good may come. Is it too much to hope that the storm of public indignation evoked at the outrage may give Indian terrorists cause for sensible and humane reflection and repentance? It is difficult to believe that these individuals are a class apart, and that they do not belong to communities and mix with their fellow-beings. Are they really susceptible to no influence and no advice? Have they no contact with moderate and wiser men? Still, whatever I may feel on the subject of the crime itself, I only wish to assure you and the whole of India that this incident will in no sense influence my attitude. I will pursue without faltering the same policy in the future as during the past two years, and I will not waver a hair's breadth from that course.

"What I have said so far has been somewhat of a personal character, but I have one word more to say to the people of India which I say with a profound sense of the gravity of the import of my words. I need hardly recall to the memory of anybody that the recent incident is not an isolated episode in the history of India, but that during the past few years both Indians and Europeans, loyal servants of Government and of India, have been less fortunate than I have been, and undeserving of the cruel fate meted out to them, have been stricken down by the hand of the assassin. These deplorable events cast a slur on the fair name of India and the Indian people, to whom I know they are thoroughly repellent; and I say to the people of India—not merely as a Viceroy intensely jealous of the honour of the country that he has been called upon to govern, but as one of the many millions in India of the fellow-subjects of our King-Emperor, and one who loves India and the Indian people amongst whom he is living—I say that this slur must be removed, and the fair fame of India must be restored to a high and unassailable plane. Knowing, by the kindly and genuine manifestations of sympathy received from every side, how profoundly repulsive such crimes are to the people of India, it may be asked what remedy can be applied to prevent their recurrence. To this I would reply that such crimes cannot be dismissed as the isolated acts of irresponsible fanatics, and that they are in most cases the outcome of organised conspiracies in which the actual agent of the crime is not always the most responsible. The atmosphere which breeds the political murderer is more easily created than dispelled. It can only be entirely and for ever dispelled by the display and enforcement of public opinion in a determination not to tolerate the perpetration of such crimes and to treat as enemies of society, not only those who commit crimes, but also those who offer any incentives to crime. Amongst such incentives to crime should be included every intemperance of political language and methods which are likely to influence ill-balanced minds and lead them by insidious stages to hideous crimes. The universal condemnation throughout the whole of India of the crime of the 23rd December, and the anxiety shown for the detection of the criminals, have however filled me with hope for the future, and have inspired me with confidence in the determination of the people of India to stamp out from their midst the fungus growth of terrorism and to restore to their beautiful motherland an untarnished record of fame. Imbued as I am with this hope and confidence, my faith in India, its future, and its people remains unshaken; and if, as I confidently anticipate, the realization of my faith is confirmed, then I may add that the two innocent lives so sadly lost on the 23rd December will not have been sacrificed in vain."

[The President; Sir G. M. Chitnavis.] [27TH JANUARY, 1913.]

The Hon'ble Sir G. M. Chitnavis:—"My Lord, on behalf of the non-official Members of this Council, I crave leave to say how sincerely gratified we all are, after the wicked attempt made upon Your Excellency's life, to see Your Excellency presiding over the first meeting of this Imperial Legislative Council in the new Capital of the Indian Empire. My Lord, never was the country more deeply shocked and stirred than when it heard of the dastardly outrage perpetrated on the occasion of your State entry into this Imperial city. Equally deep and wide-spread was the feeling of relief and thankfulness at the news that by the interposition of a merciful Providence the attempt of the miscreant had happily failed of its object, and Your Excellency's valuable life spared to the people and to the Empire. My Lord, millions of hearts have ached daily for one whole month to hear of the suffering to which Your Excellency has been so cruelly subjected and of the agony which Her Excellency Lady Hardinge has had to undergo. The daily bulletins have been anxiously awaited and closely scanned, and, as rightly said by Your Excellency, millions of men of all creeds have prayed from day to day and week to week, in different tongues and in diverse forms to the Father of all for Your Excellency's speedy restoration to health. Great has been the anxiety of the people for Your Excellency's recovery. Equally great will be the sense of relief and thankfulness and joy with which they will receive the reassuring tidings that Your Excellency has so far recovered as to be able to cheer us by your presence here to-day.

"My Lord, the calm and heroic courage which Your Excellency and Lady Hardinge displayed in the most trying circumstances, coupled with the knowledge that Your Excellency has not allowed this detestable crime to affect in any way your well-known sympathy and solicitude for the well-being of the people committed to your care, has deepened their grateful admiration and affectionate esteem for you. The noble words which have fallen from Your Excellency's lips to-day—your kindly appreciation of the sympathy which has been felt for Your Excellencies throughout the country and your large-hearted and statesmanlike declaration of your determination to adhere to your beneficent policy of administration and your solicitude for the families of the people who lost their lives will be received throughout the country with feelings of profound satisfaction and gratefulness.

"My Lord, I voice the feelings not only of the members of this Council but of the whole country in wishing that Your Excellency may soon be restored to perfect health and continue for the full term of your office—and more—to guide the destinies of the teeming millions of this great Empire, and we hope that before long the culprits will be found out and that this crime will be uprooted and the fair fame of India will be re established."

The Hon'ble Sir C. H. Armstrong:—"Your Excellency, on behalf of the European members of this Council, I venture to say how very pleased and thankful we are to see you here to-day, restored to health, after the awful crime perpetrated upon you on the day of the State entry. We have watched with the very greatest interest the daily reports of your health, and congratulate you most heartily on your wonderful recovery and escape. We earnestly hope that you may be spared to continue your good work amongst us, and that you may soon be restored to that perfect health without which the great work you have undertaken cannot be carried on. We deplore more than I can say the awful crime that was perpetrated against you, and can only hope that by firm and good government, deeds of this character will be completely wiped out. Let me assure you again what a very great pleasure it is to see you here again to-day."

His Excellency the President:—"I fear I shall not be able at present to preside further over your proceedings. I should have liked to shake you each personally by the hand, but you see my arm is still in a sling, so I am sure you will take the will for the deed, and will also forgive me for leaving you so soon on this occasion of my first public appearance."

[HIS EXCELLENCY THE PRESIDENT then withdrew, and the Hon'ble the VICE-PRESIDENT again took the Chair.]

STATEMENT LAID ON THE TABLE.

The Hon'ble Sir Harcourt Butler:—"Sir, I beg to lay on the table a further statement* showing the number of Fellows, members of Senate and members of the Syndicate in each University in India, whether elected or nominated, giving details of their nationality, which was promised in my reply given to the question put by the Hon'ble Raja Sir Muhammad Ali Muhammad Khan Bahadur, of Mahmudabad, at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 18th September, 1912.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Hon'ble Maharaj-Kumar Gopal Saran Narain Singh of Tikari asked:

"Will the Government be pleased to state what steps, if any, are being taken to build up the capital of Bihar and Orissa at Bankipore?

(a) Have any plans of the buildings required for the purpose been yet approved of, and, if not, what are the causes of the delay?

(b) Has any amount of money been sanctioned for the purpose? If so, what is the amount and in what time is it to be spent?

(c) Do the approved or proposed plans, if any, of the new capital include buildings for a High Court for Bihar and Orissa and a separate University for the Province?

"With reference to the reply given on the 18th September, 1912, to Mr. Sinha's question regarding the establishment of the capital of Bihar and Orissa at Patna, is it a fact that the delay in the building operations has caused grave apprehension in Bihar that the question of the capital of the Province has not been finally settled, and that it is yet possible that the capital may be located in some place other than Patna.

"Will the Government be pleased to make a definite statement of their intention on this head?"

* See Appendix A.

[Sir Robert Carlyle; Maharaj-Kumar Gopal Saran Narain Singh of Tikari; Sir Reginald Craddock; Sir Harcourt Butler; Mr. Clark] [27TH JANUARY, 1913.]

The Hon'ble Sir Robert Carlyle replied:

"The answer to the first paragraph of the Hon'ble Member's inquiry is that a scheme and preliminary estimate for the establishment of the head-quarters of the Government of Bihar and Orissa at Bankipore were submitted to the Secretary of State on the 19th December last. His Lordship was asked to communicate his orders by telegram, in order that the work may proceed without delay. The orders of the Secretary of State are awaited.

"The answer to sub-clause (a) of paragraph 1 is that no plans of buildings have as yet been approved, nor can they be approved until the general proposals have been sanctioned by the Secretary of State.

"The answer to sub-clause (b) of paragraph 1 is that so far the only expenditure that has been sanctioned in connection with the scheme is a sum of Rs. 13¾ lakhs on account of the acquisition of the land required. The expenditure will no doubt be incurred as soon as the formalities connected with the land acquisition have terminated.

"The answer to part (c) of paragraph 1 is that the scheme submitted to the Secretary of State does not include provision either for a High Court or for a University building. Provision has, however, been made for the acquisition of land for the former in case it should hereafter be decided to construct a High Court.

"The Government of India are not aware of the apprehension referred to, and have no intention of locating the capital of the Province elsewhere than at Patna."

The Hon'ble Maharaj-Kumar Gopal Saran Narain Singh of Tikari asked:

"Are the Government able to declare if the question of a separate High Court and University for the Province of Bihar and Orissa has yet been decided, and, if not, will they be pleased to state when these important questions are likely to be decided?"

The Hon'ble Sir Reginald Craddock replied:

"So far as the High Court is concerned the question of constituting a separate High Court for the Province of Bihar and Orissa has not yet been decided, and the Government of India are unable to say at present when a decision will be come to."

The Hon'ble Sir Harcourt Butler replied:

"The question of a University in the Province of Bihar and Orissa is under consideration by the Local Government. The Government of India are not aware when its recommendations may be expected."

INDIAN COMPANIES BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Clark moved that the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to trading companies and other associations be referred to a Select Committee, consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Syed Ali Imam, the Hon'ble Mr. Enthoven, the Hon'ble Mr. Kenrick, the Hon'ble Mr. Kesteven, the Hon'ble Mr. Meugens, the Hon'ble Mr. Carr, the Hon'ble Mr. Arthur, the Hon'ble Mr. Eales, the Hon'ble Mr. Macpherson, the Hon'ble Mr. Saunders, the Hon'ble Mr. Monteath, the Hon'ble Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, the Hon'ble Sir Charles Armstrong, the Hon'ble Mr. Fazulbhoy Currimbhoy Ebrahim, the Hon'ble Mr. Chakravarti Vijiaraghavachariar, the Hon'ble Rao Bahadur Vasudeo

[27TH JANUARY, 1913.] [Mr. Clark.]

Ramkrishna Pandit, the Hon'ble Rai Sitanath Ray Bahadur and the mover. He said :—" At this stage in our legislative procedure, as Hon'ble Members are aware, debate is restricted mainly to the discussion of the questions of principle underlying a Bill. The main principles which we have followed in framing this measure are simple enough. They are, first, the avoidance so far as possible of direct interference by Government in the management and control of Companies, and, secondly, to endeavour to safeguard the interests of investors and creditors principally by providing for a full measure of publicity regarding the promotion and operation of trading Companies. The only other basic principle involved is one of drafting rather than of policy, namely, to follow as closely as possible the English law as set forth in the Consolidation Act of 1908. In all the very voluminous opinions and suggestions which we have received in relation to the Bill, no one of these principles, I am glad to say, has been the object of animadversion or challenge. Indeed, only one question affecting fundamental issues has been raised, and that cuts deeper, for it questions the desirability of legislation at all. The Orissa Association, writing from Cuttack, consider that the Bill, if passed into law, will seriously hamper the formation and growth of indigenous trading Companies, and they ask Government to stay its hand. No doubt all regulative legislation is to some extent a restriction on the freedom of commerce. But society is not yet perfect; there are rogues, probably, even in the Arcadian groves of Orissa, and swindlers who are able to rob the ignorant with impunity form a far greater impediment to industrial progress than the trivial amount of trouble and expense involved in complying with the formalities imposed by a Bill of this kind. What is specially required now for the commercial development of India is that her people should gain confidence and learn to invest freely instead of hoarding. There are signs that the ancestral habit of hoarding is beginning to give way before modern influences, and to my mind it is a most important duty of Government that they should do what they can to prevent any shock to credit and any consequent set-back to that tendency. This Bill is a measure which will increase the security of shareholders and investors, and as such I see every reason to hope that its influence will be all in the direction of promoting genuine commercial enterprise in this country. I fear the Orissa Association must go disappointed.

"We have received, as I said just now, a very large number of opinions on the Bill. They relate to specific points which will be considered in Committee, and with which I cannot now deal; but I should like to take this opportunity of expressing on behalf of Government our appreciation of the amount of voluntary labour which has been expended on this measure. In particular Government owe their thanks to the two great Chambers of Commerce of Bengal and Bombay who have each appointed special committees and exhaustively examined all the provisions of the Bill. These Committees were also good enough to meet the Hon'ble Mr. Enthoven and myself during our recent tour, and to discuss very fully the points on which we required further elucidation. Many of the suggestions which we have received, not only from the Chambers but from other quarters, are of great value, and Government hope to be able to recommend not a few of them for the acceptance of the Select Committee.

"There are only two other points, Sir, to which I need refer to-day. When I introduced this Bill in Council last March, I mentioned two matters of great importance with which we had not at that stage attempted to deal. I mentioned that the question had been pressed upon us whether we could not include in the Bill some special provisions in relation to Banks, provisions calculated to afford an additional safeguard not only for the shareholders in Banking Companies but for the depositors. I referred to the very serious difficulties which surround legislation on the subject, but I said that Government would be very willing to consider any suggestions which might be made while the Companies' Bill was in circulation. Since then we have given the matter very careful examination, and have discussed it with many important authorities in different parts of the country. The dangers involved in the present indiscriminate use of the word 'Bank' by Companies engaged in all kinds of activities, working often on a preposterously small paid-up capital, while a large nominal capital is held out as a bait to depositors, are a very serious menace to credit. Government fully recognise these dangers, but they have come to the conclusion that it would be unwise to attempt to deal with the question in the present Bill. Though the subject is cognate with Company law, it can scarcely be said to fall within the scope of general Company legislation, and my Hon'ble Colleague, the Law Member, has pointed out that there are weighty technical objections to including it in a Companies' Bill. I need not enter into those now, but there is also the very serious practical objection that to attempt at this stage to include special provisions in regard to Banks would almost certainly render the passage of the Bill impossible during the present Session. That is, I think, very undesirable, and Government therefore have decided not to attempt to deal with any legislation for Banking Companies during this Session. They will not, however, lose sight of the matter, and now have under examination the question whether a special Act can and should be framed dealing with the evils which it is desired to repress.

"The other question to which I referred as one which we had to omit when the Bill was introduced, is the very important problem of Managing Agents and their relationship to the Companies they serve. I explained last year why we had not been able to deal with the subject prior to the introduction of the Bill, and at the same time I said that we had no desire to shut the door against legislation, if practicable suggestions were made to us before this Bill was passed into law We have now received, as will be seen from the papers, a considerable body of opinion on the subject, and Government have given very careful consideration to the question in light of these opinions and in light of the unofficial information and advice which I obtained when on tour While the importance and necessity of Managing Agents in this country is freely recognised on all hands, the opinion has been expressed pretty strongly in some quarters that their powers over the fortunes of the Companies they manage are insufficiently controlled, and that opportunity at least is afforded for their exercise to the detriment of the shareholders. It is clearly not for Government to step in and to say what arrangement a Company is to make with its Agents, which is what some of the suggestions made to us would amount to; but short of excessive interference of that kind, I do think, on the fuller information now before us, that there is scope for the legislature to assist in defining and regularising the relationship. We shall have, therefore, certain proposals to lay before the Select Committee, and I think it would be useful if I were to say something now as to the principles underlying them. Apart from the question of protecting the managed Company from the possibility of Managing Agents taking improper advantage of their position, some adjustment of the law would in any case appear to be necessary in order to fit in Managing Agents under this Bill. It must be remembered that the system of a Company being managed by a firm of Managing Agents is one which is to a large extent peculiar to this country. Consequently, it does not altogether fit in with the prescriptions of a law framed in England, with a view to English commercial custom. It is true, as I said last year, that in some cases Managing Agents, when this Bill becomes law, would be assimilated to Directors, and therefore would come under the provisions prescribing the various safeguards and penalties which apply in the case of Directors But their relationship to the Company they manage is clearly not the same as the relationship of a Director to his Company in England. Circumstances frequently arise in which the interests of the Managing Agents and of some of the businesses they manage are not necessarily identical. I hope I shall not be misunderstood I do not mean to suggest that in such a case Managing Agents as a body would be likely to sacrifice the interests of the Company they manage to those of their own firm: I merely cite the fact as indicating how difficult it is to fit them in within the scope of this Bill. In England, the Courts have laid down that a Director should not be placed in a position in which his interests might be prejudicial to those of his Company; in India, as I have said, it is clear that, in the case of Managing Agents who are also Directors, such a position might easily arise.

"The general principles that we propose to follow are these. We propose to adopt a very valuable suggestion made by the Bengal Chamber of Commerce, that it should be compulsory for all Companies to have Directors. We propose, at the same time, to provide that, if members of the Managing Agents' firm are also Directors of the Company they manage, they shall be in a minority on the Board. Managing Agents will, at the same time, be included in a definition of 'Manager' which will be inserted in the Bill. The effect of these proposals will therefore be that a Company managed by Managing Agents will have an independent Board, to whom Managing Agents will be responsible. I cannot think that anyone would dispute the reasonableness of such an arrangement. In the case of many Companies it exists already. It will, at one and the same time, safeguard the interests of the Company, and relieve Managing Agents of a degree of responsibility which should not be placed upon them. We also propose that the utmost publicity should be given to the provisions governing the relations between the Company and the Agents who manage it. If these relations are specified, as in many cases they are and as it is very desirable they should be, in the articles of association, there is no difficulty about the matter. If they are governed by a contract formed before the issue of the Company's prospectus, the contract would under the Bill have to be disclosed in the prospectus. We also propose to provide that, should they be governed by a contract made after the issue of the prospectus, or should they be subsequently modified by other contracts, the terms of all such contracts must be communicated to the shareholders. Lastly, we propose to deal with one other very important matter of principle. As things stand at present, it is open to a firm of Managing Agents to deal in the market, in some commodity in which their clients are also interested, and to treat the transaction subsequently, according to its success or failure, either as their own or as made on behalf of some business which they manage. It is open to them for instance to buy cotton or jute on a given day, and if the price rises to resell to their own profit, or if it falls, to transfer it to some mill they manage at the price at which they bought. I do not say that these things are often done, but no one familiar with business in India will deny that they do occur, and every one, I think, will agree as to the desirability of making their occurrence as difficult as possible. What we propose is that, when a Managing Agent makes a purchase on behalf of the Company he manages without disclosing the name of his principal, he shall record a memorandum of the transaction and forthwith communicate it to the company. The memorandum would be filed with the accounts, and would form a record of the transaction. Taking the case which I mentioned just now, this provision would render it impossible for the Managing Agent, after a fall in price, to transfer the cotton or jute to the managed Company at the price at which he bought, unless he were prepared to run an almost certain risk of detection. The provision, I should say, is taken mutatis mutandis from a similar provision in the English Stamp Act of 1891, which prescribes under penalty that a broker purchasing on behalf of an undisclosed principal shall forthwith communicate his action to his principal. The principle, it will be seen at once, is absolutely identical in both cases. So far as I can see compliance with this requirement will not impose any very serious burden on Managing Agents, especially as it will only be applicable in cases of purchases on behalf of an undisclosed principal. It can be avoided altogether if a Managing Agent buys as some of them do—specifically in the name of the Companies they manage, a practice which, in my humble opinion, is conducive to sound management and might well be more common. That, Sir, is what we propose in regard to Managing Agents, and let me repeat once more that these precautionary and regulative measures are in no way intended as a reflection on the great body of firms engaged in this particular type of business. They are no more a reflection on Managing Agents as a whole than our Life Assurance Act of last year was a reflection on the many admirably managed Insurance Companies who do business in India. So long as any malpractices exist, it is to the interest of the best and most scrupulously-managed firms that they should be put down, and I am sure that we shall have their support. I do not think that what we propose should interfere with legitimate business—that, of course, will be thoroughly threshed out in Committee—but I do think that it will do something to place the relationship between managers and managed on a more satisfactory footing."

The Hon'ble Sir C. H. Armstrong :—"I welcome the introduction of this Bill, and hope it will be passed very much on the lines on which it has been drafted. Many small alterations, to fit the special conditions in this country, are no doubt necessary, but on the whole, subject however to one or two alterations and additions of a more or less material character, the framers of the measure have done very well to follow on the lines of recent English legislation from which there should be as few variations as possible.

"An Act of this character can be looked at from two points of view; as a measure on the one hand fair to all concerned, neither hampering unduly promoters, Managing Agents and others whose initiative and industry ought to be encouraged in the interests of the community generally, or, on the other hand, putting shareholders and depositors, who are supposed to be men with a certain amount of common sense, in such a position of security as to make the lives of Directors and Agents almost a burden, and the difficulties of carrying on a joint-stock company so great as to discourage enterprise and so limit the field of investment, which at the present time in India ought most certainly to be encouraged in every way possible. The Bill now under discussion seems to take a middle course, and as it stands it will, I think, be generally approved by those whose judgment is not perhaps warped in favour of one point of view or the other.

"Many suggestions will no doubt be made to enlarge the scope of the Bill for the protection of shareholders and depositors who may be reckless in their investments—and unfortunately there are always many such—but I hope all attempts in this direction will be resisted and that the Bill will eventually emerge as a sound and prudent measure under which company management and the rights of shareholders and depositors will be more clearly stated and defined. It would be a mistake, I think, in a measure of this kind to legislate on the assumption that a large majority of Directors are careless or incapable, and that Managing Agents are seeking only their own good and are not studying the interests of their shareholders.

"Black sheep there will always be in every community, and in the nature of things losses will be incurred at times even by the most prudent investor; but this does not mean that the law should be so stringent that honest and well-managed concerns will be hampered in their management to the detriment of the business generally and of the shareholders in particular. The Bill as drafted meets with my approval because it is a moderate measure in every way, and this in my opinion is an essential characteristic of a Bill of this nature. It is certainly in my opinion and in the opinion of the Chamber I represent of first importance that the Indian Law should, as nearly as circumstances will admit, be uniform with the English Law, and if this is admitted additional clauses such as I understand may be suggested, severely regulating the status and position of Agents and Managing Agents and giving undue protection to unsecured creditors must be thrown out.

"The Bill as framed defines a clear course of management for Companies which, if adhered to, will form a sufficient protection to depositors and shareholders. In speaking as I do, I understand however that a Bill may shortly be introduced to deal specially with banking in this country, and if so there ought to be a clause in this measure dealing with the appointment of Officers and Managers and not permitting, as I noticed the other day in a prospectus of a new bank in Bombay with a large capital, the appointment of a particular firm as Agents and Managers for a term of several hundred years. A provision of this kind is so ridiculous that it ought to deter the general public from investing a single rupee, but unfortunately in this as in many other countries conditions of management and so forth are not studied by the ordinary investor, and the press as a rule does not keep the public fully informed on such matters.

[27TH JANUARY, 1913.] [Sir C. H. Armstrong.]

"A depositors' protection clause, which I understand may be suggested, is to the effect that no pledge charge mortgage or any interest in the moveable or immoveable property of the company can be created when the company has debts without the written consent of the creditors or without paying up those creditors who do not consent.

"Now the object of this clause, if suggested, is to protect imprudent lenders and under certain circumstances to give them security for their advances which at the time they were made they were content not to require; but what would be the position of companies if they could not promptly raise money on mortgage, often for temporary purposes, except with the practical certainty of having to pay off unsecured lenders. I am positive that under such circumstances company management in many cases would be quite unworkable, and I feel pretty certain that before very long it would be absolutely necessary to repeal any clause of this character.

"The question of Managing Agents and similar appointments will no doubt give rise to some discussion, but I submit that if the term 'Managers' is made to include persons actually managing, whether under the control of Directors or not, as also any person, firm or company appointed or acting as Agents of a company, it will provide sufficient protection to the investing public and that any extension regulating in greater detail their status and position would go beyond the scope of the proposed legislation. The Hon'ble Member has made certain suggestions in this matter with which so far as I can judge at the moment I quite agree.

"A clause I should be very glad to see inserted is one relating to company advertisements and to the amount of capital stated which should always clearly indicate the amount paid up, if the authorised or subscribed capital is also stated. I am quite aware that no similar clause exists in the English Act, and the reason probably is, that the need for it has not arisen, but in this country I have noticed in the last few years many advertisements of a very misleading character, and I think it very advisable that this objectionable practice should be stopped. It is a clause relating principally, no doubt, to banking advertisements, and if a Banking Bill is to be introduced later on, a clause of this character should also appear in it; but in the Companies' Bill it is also very desirable; and as this view is very generally held, I hope the Hon'ble Member in charge of this measure will introduce a clause of this nature when the Bill is before the Select Committee.

"Section 142, with reference to Auditors, I thoroughly approve, and regard it as one of the most important sections in the Bill. Here also I admit there is no similar clause in the English Act, but in England, with hardly an exception, shareholders take very good care that a thoroughly qualified Auditor is appointed.

"In India, it is different, but this to a large extent is probably because only a few really qualified Auditors exist, and in taking up the question as is now proposed and by agreeing to grant certificates to suitable men from amongst whom only may Auditors be chosen, the Bill is bringing into existence in this country a profession which is badly needed and which undoubtedly will be of the very greatest value and one of the greatest safeguards in the future. Schools of Accountancy should be started wherever possible, and all help should be given to those who are willing to enter this profession.

"In connection with the winding up of Companies, it should, I think, be enacted that where two or more indebted to each other, or closely connected in business whether by having the same Managing Agents or otherwise, are being wound up, either by the Court or in any other way, the same person shall not be appointed Liquidator for two or more such Companies; the reason for this being that the indebtedness of one Company to another means a clash of interests which only independent Liquidators should be allowed to deal with. I am certainly opposed to suggestions which may be put forward with reference to unduly limiting the powers of a Liquidator appointed by the Court, whose work at all times is subject to the direction of the Court. One sympathises no doubt with creditors, but it does not follow from this that the view of a majority is necessarily in the best interests of the whole body of creditors; nor do I think it in any way follows that an Advisory Committee would really help a Liquidator who was honestly striving to do his best for the creditors and shareholders of the firm he was winding up. I can well imagine that competent Liquidators would not act under such conditions, and if so, any material restrictions of this kind would probably in practice be very prejudicial.

"The form of balance-sheet subjoined to Table A ought also to receive attention. As it stands it is clearly a copy of an old form, and what is now wanted is information in some respects of a more definite character, though to a large extent this will come more appropriately in a Banking Bill. A point I would, however, particularly direct attention to, is the necessity for a more precise description of the character of the debts for which a company is liable, whether, for instance, they are secured on mortgages or debenture bonds or by a lien or charge on the property or assets of the company, so that it may be known at a glance what property and assets of a company are free and available for the general body of creditors. Information of this kind is very necessary, and should not be objected to by the management of any company. A balance-sheet without giving too much information away should show, as clearly as possible, to an intending investor or depositor the general position of the company, and if it does this a creditor in most cases will only have himself to blame if he takes undue risks. Another point, but this refers perhaps more particularly to banking, is that on the credit side there should be items for debts considered good for which the company holds personal security only and also for which the company holds other security. The word 'security' now-a-days very often means only 'personal', and this is apt to be misleading to the uninitiated. It should, as far as possible, be made perfectly clear whether the security is only a personal one or something more tangible.

"The only other point I need touch on is the omission in the Bill to exempt private companies from filing their balance-sheets, and this should be rectified not only because the exception appears in the English Act, but because a private company which cannot invite the public to subscribe for its shares or debentures is practically nothing more than a partnership concern which has become incorporated as a private limited company to facilitate the arrangement of capital for various reasons, for instance on account of the death or retirement of a partner, etc. It is very advisable, I think, that the formation of these private companies should be encouraged, but if their affairs have to be submitted to the public, there will be less inclination to adopt this system, and the result will be a continuation of privately-owned firms about which it is so very difficult to get any reliable information.

"It may and probably will be argued that the balance-sheets of private limited companies should be filed, but when the alternative is considered, it will, I think, be conceded that the English exemption is preferable. It should also be enacted that there is no restriction on such companies regarding the appointment of Auditors. The matter is one which really concerns only the firms themselves, and it may be taken for granted that they will do what they consider best for the interests and security of their business. This question of the filing of balance-sheets also applies to companies established outside British India, registered for instance, as many of them are at present, in the United Kingdom. No restriction of the kind should be placed on such companies; and on those registered in other countries, it will be sufficient if they file with the registrar under the Indian Act a copy of the balance-sheet required by the law of their country of origin, provided that, in the opinion of the Government of India, the company law of such country is established on a satisfactory basis. The wording in this section, No. 310, 'which establishes a place of business' is perhaps rather vague in its application to this country, for business methods in India differ in many ways from those of Great Britain. This point is one which seems to require a good deal of consideration, and what is necessary is, that the expression 'establishes a place of business in British India' should be defined with necessary limitations.

"To revert again to the subject of private companies, I should be glad to see the inclusion of a provision enabling a public company to become a private company if a suitable section could be framed; as the Bill stands at present if such a course is to be carried out, it can only be done at the expense of the public company going into liquidation, which in this country it is always desirable to avoid, the public being apt to look upon a liquidation as a sign that the company concerned is unable to meet its engagements.

"These, Mr. President, are the remarks I now wish to offer on the Bill as it stands. It is a piece of legislation which has been needed for a long time, and is all the more necessary now that company promoting is making such strides in this country. If in Select Committee it is carefully borne in mind that Directors, Agents and Managing Agents must not be unduly harassed, the measure no doubt will prove a workable one and of the very greatest value to traders in this Country and to investors here and elsewhere."

The motion was put and agreed to.

INDIAN EXTRADITION BILL.

The Hon'ble Sir Reginald Craddock:—"Sir, in moving to refer the Bill to amend the Indian Extradition Act to Select Committee, I have only a very few remarks to offer. The Bill was introduced in the last Simla Session as a purely formal measure to remove a doubt that had been felt, but was not shared by all High Courts even in India, as to whether, under section 7 of the Indian Extradition Act, the Chief Presidency Magistrate had the same powers to execute warrants received from Political Agents as District Magistrates all over India have. It was not intended to introduce any change in practice, but merely to make it clear that the machinery which applies and has applied to British India generally equally applied to similar cases in the Presidency-towns.

"The Hon'ble Sir Vithaldas Thakersey came up specially from Bombay, however, to represent that the powers which this section would confer on Chief Presidency Magistrates would be open to serious objection in the case of Bombay itself.

"The Hon'ble Member was not able to cite any concrete instances where abuses or hardships had occurred, and it seemed that his apprehensions were rather due to what might occur, and what had not occurred, than to any real experience of the abuses which he feared. But it has been a well-established usage that at a Simla Session, if opposition is raised to any measure which might possibly be thought to bring it into the nature of contentious legislation, that measure is not undertaken or passed into law at Simla. We, therefore, decided to postpone further consideration of the Bill until the current Session at Delhi. During the interval the opinions of Local Governments and Agents to the Governor General and Residents have been obtained. As was expected they are able to show that this particular power has been exercised not only by District Magistrates in India generally, but also by the Chief Presidency Magistrates themselves without any question, and that no cases of hardship or abuse have ever come to their notice. Possibly the Hon'ble Member and any who may have agreed with him were unaware to what extent the action of a Political Agent issuing a warrant under section 7 is guided and controlled by rules that were framed in 1904 for the purpose of carrying out the objects of that section. In these circumstances, the Government do not propose to make any alterations in the amendment that is already before the Council, but they propose that the Bill should be referred to a Select Committee, and that will give the opportunity for any safeguards, if any are possibly necessary, to be examined. I move therefore that the Bill to amend the Indian Extradition Act of 1903 be referred to a Select Committee, consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Syed Ali Imam, the Hon'ble Mr. Fazulbhoy Currimbhoy Ebrahim, the Hon'ble Nawab Saiyid Muhammad Sahib, the Hon'ble Sir G. M. Chitnavis, the Hon'ble Malik Umar Hyat Khan, the Hon'ble Mr. Arthur, the Hon'ble Mr. Saunders, the Hon'ble Mr. Wheeler, the Hon'ble Sir Henry McMahon, the Hon'ble Rai Sri Ram Bahadur and the mover."

The motion was put and agreed to.

ADMINISTRATOR GENERAL'S BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Syed Ali Imam:—"Sir, I have now to move that the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the office and duties of the Administrator General be referred to Select Committee. Hon'ble Members are aware that the Bill was introduced by me into this Council last September, and I then submitted to the Council the various reasons which have led the Government of India to take up this measure. At that time I also explained the main features of the Bill as also the principles governing it. Since then it has been before the country, and I am gratified to find that on the whole it has been favourably received. The opinions of Local Governments, public bodies and individuals having special knowledge of the subject with which we have been favoured have considerably added to the information in our possession. They will receive every consideration when the Bill is taken up in Committee. I should be taking up the time of Council unduly if I were to attempt to deal with all of them at the present stage, but I would fain refer to a few that appear to involve important questions of principle.

"One of the suggestions is that, as the office of the Administrator General and that of the Official Trustee are generally held by the same person, it is desirable that the law which regulates and prescribes the function of these officers should be combined in a single Act. This suggestion has received the support of no less eminent an authority than the Calcutta High Court. It will be seen from the List of Business that one of the motions standing in my name to-day is to move that the Official Trustee's Bill also should be referred to a Select Committee. The present Bill and that measure have much in common and are closely allied to each other in many respects. In matters of principle and of policy, there is a striking similarity between the two. For this reason the same members have been selected for service in both the Select Committees to report on the two Bills. In these circumstances, it is hoped that the Committees will have every facility for the careful examination of the suggestion to which I have referred.

"Another important point which calls for a careful examination is the question whether the restrictions contained in the Bill as to persons eligible for appointment to the office of Administrator General should be retained or not. The Upper India Chamber of Commerce has put in a plea in favour of the eligibility of business men, such as bankers and chartered accountants. It will be for the Select Committee to consider the suggestion.

"There is a point regarding the fees to be levied in respect of the duties of the Administrator General to which I should like to make a passing reference at the present stage. The Bill as drafted empowers Government to make rules prescribing the fees with the safeguard that in case of estates already in charge of the Administrator General, they shall not exceed those that are paid at present. There is also a clear provision that whatever fees are levied, they shall be prescribed with due regard to the fact that they shall not be in excess of the necessary expenditure which Government will have to incur in giving effect to the Act. In short there is no intention whatsoever to make the fees a source of revenue. A suggestion has, however, been made that a graduated scale of fees should be fixed. As against this the advantages of securing sufficient elasticity to enable Government to make rules to meet special cases arise. I feel sure that the Select Committee will approach this question with an open mind and a due regard to its importance.

"Finally, I may say that modifications in the drafting of clause 58 of the Bill have been proposed by various authorities. That clause empowers the Governor General in Council to constitute new provinces for the purposes of the Act and to appoint separate Administrators General for such provinces. Here again is a matter of much importance that is worthy of receiving a very careful consideration at the hands of the Select Committee.

[27TH JANUARY, 1913.] [Mr. Syed Ali Imam.]

"With these few words I move, Sir, that the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the office and duties of Administrator General be referred to a Select Committee, consisting of the Hon'ble Sir Reginald Craddock, the Hon'ble Sir William Vincent, the Hon'ble Mr. Chakravarti Vijiaraghavachariar, the Hon'ble Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, the Hon'ble Raja Jai Chand, the Hon'ble Raja Sir Muhammad Ali Muhammad Khan, the Hon'ble Mr. Arthur, the Hon'ble Mr. Walker, the Hon'ble Mr. Wheeler, the Hon'ble Mr. Qumrul Huda, the Hon'ble Mr. Kinney, the Hon'ble Mr. Kenrick, the Hon'ble Pundit Madan Mohan Malaviya and myself."

The motion was put and agreed to.

OFFICIAL TRUSTEES BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Syed Ali Imam: "Sir, I now move that the Bill to consolidate and amend the law constituting the office of Official Trustee be referred to a Select Committee. This Bill like the one which has just been discussed was introduced last September and has been before the country since then. It has been equally fortunate in having been well received. I may add that most of the opinions offered are by the same authorities that have criticised the other Bill, and on many points the suggestions made affect both the measures. Some of the common features are the suggestions regarding the amalgamation under a single Act, the eligibility of some business men to the post of an Official Trustee, and the fixing of a graduated scale of fees with all of which proposals I have already dealt in my submissions on the Administrator General's Bill. But apart from these suggestions there are some that have a particular bearing on the functions of the Official Trustee, and I propose to touch upon those which involve important questions of principle.

"Clause 6 (6) of the Bill provides that the Official Trustee shall not act as executor or as administrator of the estate of any person. The Government of Bombay puts forward certain objections; is not in favour of this prohibition, and urges the grant of discretion to the Official Trustee to do so if he thinks fit. The question is an important one and deserves to be examined with some degree of care and circumspection. Similarly, a judicial officer of considerable experience from the Province of Bihar and Orissa is of opinion that the Official Trustee may be permitted to manage property of a religious trust if its objects are mainly of a charitable as distinguished from sectarian nature. Another judicial officer of the same Province thinks that the Official Trustee should be allowed to act as custodian trustee of religious endowments as that would ensure greater security in settling property on religious trusts. These proposals are of considerable magnitude requiring very careful examination in all their bearings. It is indeed very doubtful whether the Government of India are prepared to accept any extensive and important modification of the policy which has hitherto been adopted in regard to such endowments. The provision that the Official Trustee shall be the sole trustee and that his association with any other person as trustee is undesirable has received some adverse criticism. So also there are some other important particulars in which the Bill has been criticised in the opinions that have been received, but I do not think it is necessary to place them all before this Council at present, as they have to be examined and threshed out at the Committee stage of this measure, as it is at that stage that they should be considered in the first instance. I desire, however, to acknowledge with gratitude the assistance which we have received from these criticisms, and to state that, as far as possible, the suggestions will receive the most careful consideration from Government.

"I move, Sir, that the Bill to consolidate and amend the law constituting the office of Official Trustee be referred to a Select Committee, consisting of the Hon'ble Sir Reginald Craddock, the Hon'ble Sir William Vincent, the Hon'ble Mr. Chakravarti Vijiaraghavachariar, the Hon'ble Sir Ibrahim Rahimtolla, the WHITE PHOSPHORUS MATCHES PROHIBITION BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Clark introduced the Bill to prohibit the importation, manufacture and sale of matches made with white phosphorus, and moved that it be referred to a Select Committee, consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Syed Ali Imam, the Hon'ble Mr. Monteath, the Hon'ble Sir Charles Armstrong, the Hon'ble Sir G. M. Chitnavis, the Hon'ble Mr. Arthur, the Hon'ble Mr. Carr, the Hon'ble Sir C. P. Lukis, the Hon'ble Mr. Walker, the Hon'ble Mr. Enthoven, the Hon'ble Rai Sitanath Ray Bahadur, the Hon'ble Rai Sri Ram Bahadur and the mover. He said:—"Hon'ble Members who were present in Council last year will remember the circumstances in which this Bill was withdrawn at the end of the Calcutta Session. The Hon'ble Sir Vithaldas Thackersey, whom we all regret to have no longer with us, the Hon'ble Sir Charles Armstrong and other Hon'ble Members objected that insufficient evidence had been laid before Council to justify the prohibition of the manufacture and importation of white phosphorus matches in India. Government were unable to accept this contention. I pointed out how the great majority of the important Governments of the world had found it necessary to prohibit the use of white phosphorus, and how the statistics showed that in those countries which had not prohibited, necrosis was very far from being stamped out. I also showed that other countries with a tropical rainfall, including our own Province of Burma, had proved themselves able to dispense with the white phosphorus match. The Hon'ble Sir Vithaldas Thackersey, however, made a suggestion the reasonableness of which Government at once recognised. He urged that, as the Bill was in any case not to come into force until July of this year and one section not until July of 1914, it would not be unfair that Government should postpone its passage until the present Session. Sir Vithaldas pointed out that this would not necessarily postpone the date on which the law actually came into operation, while it would give more time for the various parties interested to collect further information on the subject. In reply, I expressed on behalf of Government our willingness to agree to this arrangement. At the same time I made it quite clear that Government only agreed to this postponement, on the understanding that the Bill, if passed this Session, should come into force on the dates already specified—that is, that there should be no further delay in respect of stocks accumulated since March last. Sir Vithaldas entirely accepted this understanding, and the Bill accordingly was provisionally withdrawn. In the interval Government have acquired further information bearing on the subject which, for the convenience of Hon'ble Members, I have had printed in the Statement of Objects and Reasons.

"The main head, Sir, under which Hon'ble Members expressed doubts last year was whether the industry of manufacturing matches with white phosphorus was, under modern conditions, any longer a dangerous trade. They admitted, if I understood them correctly, that it had been so in the past and even in the quite recent past, but they contended that, at any rate in the last two or three years, it had been put on quite a different footing by the introduction of automatic machinery, the use of powerful ventilating fans, and strict sanitary control and inspection of the workmen. They swept aside the obvious conclusion to be drawn from the fact that the great majority of the important countries of the world had, either by joining the Berne Convention or on their own initiative, prohibited the use of white phosphorus within their borders. Up to last year, the latest country to take action was Austria in 1909.

[27TH JANUARY, 1913.] [Mr. Clark.]

The United Kingdom, Germany, France, Spain, Italy, Denmark, Switzerland, the Netherlands, Russia, Greece, Portugal, the Balkan States, almost all the French, Dutch and British Colonies including some of the self-governing Dominions,--had, in various forms, taken action already. Unless, therefore, we are able to believe that all these countries were acting under a delusion as to the true nature of the industry, it must be assumed that the conversion of this process from the category of dangerous trades, which Hon'ble Members would have us believe has taken place, has been effected since 1909. But is this the case? Up to last year there was a small minority of countries which held out against prohibition and which were cited as proof of the innocent nature of the industry. These included the United States of America, Japan, Sweden and Norway, Belgium and Hungary all countries which manufacture matches on a considerable scale Now, two or more of these nations have joined the list of prohibitory countries. Within a few weeks of our debate on this Bill last March, the American Congress passed a Bill imposing prohibitive taxation on matches made with white phosphorus in their country and forbidding their importation. This Bill received the Presidential assent on April 9th, 1912.* Hungary has also passed prohibitory legislation in the course of the year, leaving only Japan, Sweden and Norway, and Belgium outstanding. If the industry were not still a dangerous one, why should the United States and Hungary have prohibited it? The action of the United States of America is especially significant. In that country, as is well known, the predominant political power rests with the commercial and industrial interests The American Senate has proved itself, time and again, more tender to vested interests probably than any other legislative body in the world. Yet this same Senate has now compelled the match-making businesses of America to scrap their machinery and incur the expense of putting in the new plant required for the manufacture of matches by other processes Americans are not given to importing sentiment into matters relating to business There can be only one possible explanation. It is that all the elaborate precautions have broken down, and the conscience of the American people will not allow this industry to continue longer. The great Diamond Match Factory in Ohio is said to have been one of the finest equipped factories in the world. The most improved automatic machinery was used in it; it was admirably ventilated; the lavatory facilities were excellent; and the Company employed a dentist and a physician to look after the teeth and health of the employés. Yet it has been necessary to put an end to the industry which was conducted in it. The fact speaks for itself and disposes finally of the theory that the use of white phosphorus can now be rendered innocuous The case of Hungary is hardly less notable It is a country* which hitherto has resisted prohibition. It held out when Austria prohibited the use of white phosphorus in 1909. Yet in Hungary, as in America, the irresistible logic of facts has won the day. I will not weary Council with a recital of the other information we have collected in relation to other non-prohibitory countries It is printed in the prefatory Memorandum, and Hon'ble Members have no doubt read it for themselves I will only remark that it is very far from bearing out the contention that the factories in these countries are immune from necrosis To one significant fact, Sir, I would call especial attention. Both in Sweden and Norway, on two separate occasions, the factory inspectors have announced the extinction of the disease. In each case it has shortly afterwards re-appeared. The fact is that there is only one method by which it can be stamped out, and that is by prohibiting the use of white phosphorus altogether.

"It will probably, however, be objected that, whatever may be the experience of other countries, factories in India which use white phosphorus, enjoy an apparent immunity from necrosis. We have, no doubt, an absence of recorded cases, but I think I can show that the immunity which this absence would appear to indicate, is almost wholly illusory. Let Council consider what a genuine immunity would imply. Whatever difference of opinion there may be as to the degree of risk involved in the use of white phosphorus, one point at least is universally conceded--namely that it is essential in order to minimise the dangers of its employment to adopt elaborate automatic machinery, to enforce strict sanitary regulations, and to have frequent and thorough medical inspection. I have already referred to the elaborate precautions taken in American factories, and similar methods are employed in Sweden and Norway, and Belgium. Now, in India, neither the perfection of machinery nor sanitary control has been carried to anything approaching the same point. Yet the result is an apparent immunity. Are we then to hold that the ordinary laws of nature have become inverted, and that the degree of risk varies with the amount of precaution taken and not inversely to it—or in other words, that the less precaution you take, the less is the risk of contagion? For that, Sir, is what it amounts to, if we are to believe that Indian factories are practically immune from infection while in the United States, to take one example, all the skill and intelligence which has been brought to bear on preventive measures have only resulted in so many cases of necrosis that it has become necessary to tax the use of white phosphorus out of existence. No one could possibly maintain such a theory. The true explanation is simple and obvious enough. The very fact of strict sanitary measures being taken involves, when they fail, detection of their failure. Where the efforts to prevent infection are less vigorous and the control is less stringent, the means of detecting disease are proportionately less efficient. In England itself, the campaign against the use of white phosphorus was much hampered in its commencement by the difficulty of obtaining evidence. Naturally the difficulty must be much greater in India. We have here a more floating factory population who, if they are ill, simply desert the factory and return to their homes; we have a far smaller and far less organised industry. We have no such perfected system of medical inspection as has been imposed on the match-making industry in other countries. In a western country, the operatives now-a-days are thoroughly alive to the nature of the disease; they are ready to complain and demand compensation, and thus aid in its detection. Nothing of this kind, of course, would happen in India, where the workmen could not be expected to have sufficient knowledge to trace the disease to its source. There is ample evidence now in the recent action of the United States and Hungarian Governments that the most elaborate preventive measures have broken down. Can we possibly rest easy that, with our far more imperfect methods, which affect detection as well as prevention, the mere absence of recorded cases is a real guarantee of immunity? No one, I suppose, would contend in so many words that white phosphorus, a deadly poison in the west, becomes an innocent component of manufacture in the east. Yet we are in effect committed to such a paradox, if we are to believe that Indian match factories, less well regulated, less well equipped than those of Europe and America, are really immune from necrosis. It has been urged that Government should delay action until some number of well-established and authenticated cases of necrosis have occurred in India. This seems to me very extraordinary doctrine. It means in plain, unvarnished language, a purely gratuitous sacrifice, if not of human life, at least of human health and welfare. There are two ways, Sir, of acquiring knowledge: one by personal experience, the other by benefiting from the experience of others. In this imperfect world, where experience is so often synonymous with suffering, there is in most cases everything to recommend the latter. Especially is it the duty of Government to adopt it, when it is a question of protecting those for whom they are responsible from the infection of a terrible disease.

"We have then, Sir, clear and convincing evidence of the failure in other countries of all efforts to make the industry a safe one by regulation: we have further the certainty that the same causes must produce the same results in India. Against these motives for prohibition, there must be set whatever measure of inconvenience the prohibition may cause to the lower classes, especially in agricultural districts, who have become accustomed to the use of these matches—inconvenience which, it was urged last year, might amount to positive hardship during the rains and in the damper parts of India. Clearly this inconvenience—or hardship if you like—is not susceptible of exact measurement. But I have had some information collected which at any rate throws some light on the subject. We have obtained figures from the Indian

Custom houses which show the proportion borne by white phosphorus matches to the total imports of matches at each of the principal ports. The results are interesting. The figures show that the proportion of strike-any-where matches imported was, in round figures 75 per cent. at Madras, 60 per cent. at Bombay, 50 per cent. at Karachi, 25 per cent. at Calcutta, and nil at Rangoon. Now of the areas served by these ports clearly one of the dampest is that served by Calcutta including, as it does, Assam, which boasts of some of the heaviest rainfall in India, and the waterlogged districts of Eastern Bengal. Yet the proportion of white phosphorus matches imported at Calcutta represents only 25 per cent. of the total imports at the port, while at Karachi, which feeds the rainless plains of the Punjab and the North-West, the proportion is 50 per cent. Again the proportion at Bombay, which has for its hinterland the area of heavy rainfall in the Western Ghats, is but little in excess of that in Karachi. I venture to think, Sir, that there is very little justification in these figures for establishing a ratio between rainfall and the demand for matches made with white phosphorus. To my mind it is much more a question of custom, based on the white phosphorus match having been the first in the field, than of any absolute necessity. The change will cause some inconvenience, no doubt, but not hardship in the sense which was urged last year. I referred just now to the fact that no strike-any-where matches are imported at Rangoon. That port stands on a different footing from the others owing to white phosphorus matches having been prohibited in Burma since 1890, so that the question of personal taste does not come in. But this prohibition, which has lasted for so long, is a very significant fact; and I confess I cannot understand how any one can seriously urge that these matches are a necessity of life in a damp climate when the dwellers in the swamps of the Irrawaddy delta or the rain-swept jungles of Upper Burma, have managed perfectly well without them for the last 23 years. The Government of Burma a few years ago were invited in another connection to express their opinion on this subject. They replied that the exclusion of non-safety matches from the Province had caused no public inconvenience and had not been received by the public with any protest. Why should what is possible in Burma be impossible in Bombay? We had no answer to that question last year, for the best of all reasons, that there is no answer. If all that is wanted is a strike-any-where match, so that the raiyat may continue to follow the practice to which he is said to be addicted on the Bombay side, of carrying a few loose matches in his turban instead of a whole box, I think there is very little doubt that it will be forthcoming. Any number of brands of strike-any-where matches made without white phosphorus are now on the market. The figures quoted in the Statement of Objects and Reasons show that out of 271 brands recently tested at the English Custom houses, only 11 were found to contain white phosphorus. If the safety match does not achieve general popularity, I venture to prophesy that a strike-any-where match manufactured without white phosphorus will very soon appear and capture the Indian market.

"It is an admirable thing, Sir, to wish to save the raiyat from all possible hardships, but it is the duty of Council also to weigh in the balance the price which may have to be paid for his convenience. I cannot help thinking that, if Hon'ble Members knew more clearly the nature of the dangers to which those engaged in this industry are exposed, they would have no further hesitation about supporting this Bill. It is not a pleasant subject, nor have I any desire to shock Council with physical horrors; but after all this is a most important factor in the case, for it is precisely owing to the terrible effects of necrosis that one by one the vast majority of the greater nations of the world have decided to extirpate the use of white phosphorus in the manufacture of matches. The disorder is trifling in its beginnings and not easily distinguished from other less pernicious affections of the teeth or jaw. But as it develops, the gums fall away; the teeth become loose and drop out; portions of the jaw decay and either break off of themselves or have to be removed by the surgeon's knife. The patient is left horribly and permanently disfigured. Usually, no doubt, he recovers his health, but the risk of returning to work in a match factory is or should be prohibitive—and he has to seek other employment with the handicap of a repulsive disfigurement upon him. I received recently from Vienna photographs of necrosis patients who had passed through the hospital there, and if any Hon'ble Member has need of further witness, I shall be glad to show them to him. They exhibit the faces of men and women, scarred, brutalised, barely human And all this suffering is incurred, not, which alone could justify it, for some high object of human welfare, as when men in pursuit of knowledge risk and often fall victims to some horrible disease, but simply and solely for the production of an article which is convenient no doubt, but which is in no sense a necessity, and for which adequate and efficient substitutes exist I cannot believe, Sir, that, knowing these things, Council will be content that Indian operatives should be exposed to this contagion for so trivial and unjustifiable an end I go further. I am confident that they would wish India to take her part in aiding other nations to put an end to this industry in their lands. Ours is one of the few markets left to bolster it up Some countries, such as Australia, have prohibited white phosphorus matches although there is no manufacture in their own borders and their own people are not affected. In India, we have the double motive Whatever degree of immunity our factories may be thought to enjoy at present it cannot last for long You cannot escape from inexorable laws of cause and effect. These are the reasons, Sir, which have led Government to wish that India should join the Berne Convention I do not regret the delay caused by the postponement of this measure from last year, since its only result has been greatly to strengthen the case for legislation, but the time has now come when it must be passed into law. I beg, therefore, to re-introduce the Bill."

The Hon'ble Sir C. H. Armstrong :—" Sir, this question has already been discussed more than once in this Council, and on this occasion I have only a very few remarks to offer. The Bill comes before us again in its original form, but with a full Statement of Objects and Reasons which I have perused with very great interest. When the Bill was first introduced in September, 1911, I contended that, owing to vastly improved machinery in Norway and Sweden, from which countries India draws its supplies of these matches from Europe—the disease of necrosis has been almost stamped out. In March last, I gave some figures in support of this statement. From the information that we have now before us, it appears that in nine years in Sweden the number of admitted cases was less than two per annum, and that in Norway where there are, I admit, a less number of workers, there were two cases in three years. Now the American figures, I admit, are not so favourable, but if I am correctly informed, the match that has lately been prohibited in America differs in some respects from the match which this Bill asks us to prohibit as it is made very largely by hand Now, that there should be any risk of disease in this or in any other industry, is of course very much to be regretted and I do regret it. But I think that after all the case of India should be considered mainly from the point of view of Norway and Sweden mainly from the figures that we have before us for Norway and Sweden— which perhaps do not show that the risks incidental to this industry are any greater than the risks in other industries, notably those where lead and arsenic are employed, and where workers are subjected to risks fully as great as those to which the workers in match factories in Norway and Sweden are now exposed. If, however, notwithstanding this, this Bill should become law, I can only hope that at no very distant date, a 'strike-any-where' match will be made to suit the needs and climate of this country, at a cost which will not be greater than the price of these matches which have been bought so largely by agricultural and other labourers in this country for a great many years. There is one alteration I would ask the Hon'ble Mr. Clark to make in this Bill, and that is to extend the date by 12 months. I am quite well aware of the understanding that was arrived at in March last when this question was postponed for further consideration, and if this point had been realized by those who are engaged in the trade, I would not of course have referred to it. I find, however, on making inquiries at the ports that merchants had not fully realized that this understanding had been arrived at, and I am told that the usual contracts for a year or more have already been made. It would therefore be a very great convenience to all concerned if the date mentioned in the Bill could be extended by 12 months; and in the meantime, I can only hope that some suitable match will be made to get over the present difficulty."

The Hon'ble Sir Charles Pardey Lukis:—"Sir, I should like, with your permission, to make a few remarks on the medical aspects of this Bill. I can fully confirm all that has been said by the Hon'ble Member in charge of the Bill as regards the impossibility of enforcing in India that strict observance of personal hygiene or of securing that skilled attention which is necessary if the manufacture of white phosphorus matches is to be carried on with safety. It must be remembered, moreover, that the mere fact that cases of Phossy jaw have not been reported in this country does not justify our holding that the disease does not actually exist. It is quite possible that without any wish for or attempt at concealment such cases may have escaped notice. The so-called 'Phossy jaw', which the Hon'ble Member has described to you, is merely a severe form of necrosis. Now necrosis of the jaw is by no means an uncommon disease in India. For instance, I find from the dispensary reports that during 1912 in the districts in which at the present moment match factories are working, eight cases of necrosis of the jaw were treated, namely, three in Ahmedabad, four in Belgaum, and one in Dharwar. There is no evidence to connect these cases of necrosis of the jaw with the match-making industry, but I submit that for two very good reasons such connection might exist without having been discovered. In the first place, the Indian labourer knows nothing whatever about Phossy jaw, and it is extremely unlikely that he would ever associate the disease from which he is suffering with the occupation in which he is engaged; and secondly, owing to the fact that the match-making industry is now in its infancy, it is extremely unlikely that the medical officer would make any inquiries on this point. For these reasons, therefore, and in view of the extreme difficulty, if not the impossibility, of securing adequate safeguards, I am very strongly of opinion that from the point of view of the health of the community, the case ought to be taken in hand now, and that we ought not to wait till the danger assumes alarming proportions."

The Hon'ble Mr. W. H. Clark:—"Sir, there is only one point I need refer to, and that is, the suggestion made by the Hon'ble Sir Charles Armstrong that we should extend the date of operation of this Bill by 12 months. I shall be very glad to take what he has said into consideration before we go into Committee. The matter is one on which no doubt he will not expect me to make any statement now, but Government will consider it and the point can be discussed in Committee."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Monday, the 17th February, 1913.

W. H. VINCENT,
Secretary to the Government of India,
Legislative Department.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Rainfall summary for the seven days ending at 8 hrs. on Thursday, the 30th January 1913, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. A disturbance appeared in Persia on the 25th and travelled eastwards, but gave no precipitation of importance in northwest India. It however occasioned slightly unsettled weather in the central parts of the country, and a few falls of rain occurred in Central India East and in Chota Nagpur and the adjoining districts.

Some little rain also fell in Burma, Assam and the south of the Peninsula, but on the whole weather was dry throughout the week.

2. Burma.—Local showers occurred in the Bay Islands and south Tenasserim, and on the 29th light rain fell at a few places in the northern half of the province.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—Sibsagar, Balasore, Chaibassa and Ranchi had light falls of rain.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—Light rain fell at Sutna on the 28th and at Jubbulpore on the 29th.

Northwest India.—Light precipitation occurred at Srinagar and Dras.

The Peninsula.—Nagapatam, Tinnevelly and Kodaikanal had light rain on the 24th.

3. The chief daily falls were as follows :—

January 25th, Mergui 1·00″.
" 27th, Port Blair 0·50″.
" 28th, Sutna 0·36″.

4. The rainfall of the week was in excess in the Bay Islands and normal in Burma and Central India East. No rainfall usually occurs at this time of year in Gujarat, Central India West, Berar, the Konkan, the Bombay Deccan, Hyderabad and the Madras Deccan; in the rest of the country the week's rainfall was in defect.

The seasonal rainfall up to date is more than 20 per cent. in defect in almost every division. The only exceptions are Upper Burma, Kashmir, Baluchistan and Malabar where it is practically normal, and Gujarat where the absence of rainfall is the normal feature of the season.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 25th January 1913.

Burma. There was no rain during the week. Harvesting of winter rice is nearly finished. Threshing and winnowing are advancing. Agricultural operations for spring rice and miscellaneous crops are progressing. The condition of standing crops is good. Fodder and water are sufficient. The price of unhusked rice has fallen slightly in Rangoon.

Assam.—The weather is seasonable. Slight rain fell in places. Harvesting of winter rice is over and the outturn is good. Gathering of mustard and pulses, crushing of sugarcane, plucking of tea and picking of cotton are going on. Transplanting of spring rice is proceeding. Winter potato in the Khasi and Jaintia Hills has been harvested and land is being prepared for summer potatoes. Prospects of standing crops are good. Fodder is scanty in the Surma Valley. The price of common rice is stationary. Cattle disease prevails in three districts.

Bihar and Orissa.—During the week there was no rain throughout the Province. The weather was seasonable. Harvesting of paddy is over and threshing still continues in some districts. Pressing of sugarcane is in progress. Standing spring crops and vegetables are doing well. The average price of common rice is almost stationary. The condition of cattle is good. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient. Agricultural prospects in the Feudatory States of Orissa are on the whole good.

United Provinces.—With the exception of light rain in the Himalayan and western submontane districts the week has been rainless. Rain is urgently needed in the whole of the western submontane tracts, the Upper Doab and most of the Central Doab. It is also needed in the hills and in Rampur. In Sitapur, Pilibhit and Cawnpur and in the uplands of Mirzapur, slight damage by frost is reported. The condition of standing crops is so far good. Sugarcane is being pressed and the spring crop irrigated. Fodder and water are sufficient. In Mirzapur there are 1,060 persons working on test works, 8,332 on ordinary canal works and 948 on waterworks, while in the Chakia district of the Benares State there are 1,347 persons on regular works and 550 on gratuitous relief. Cattle disease continues in the hills and in Bundelkhand and is sporadic in nine other districts. Prices show a tendency to rise in the west. Elsewhere prices are stationary.

Punjab. The weather was dry except in parts of Hissar, Ambala, Sialkot and Rawalpindi where slight rain has fallen. Rain is urgently wanted everywhere. Pressing of sugarcane and harvesting of toria continue with outturn average to good. The condition of irrigated spring crops is generally average to good but unirrigated crops are suffering in most districts for want of rain. Sowings of extra spring crops have commenced. Cattle are generally healthy but fodder is becoming scarce except in the Ambala division. Prices remain high.

North-West Frontier Province.—No rain fell except slight showers in the Marwat tahsil in the Bannu district. Rain is badly wanted throughout the Province. The weather is cool and at times cloudy. The condition of standing crops is generally fair on irrigated but poor on unirrigated areas. Pressing of sugarcane is in progress and the outturn is normal. Planting of sugarcane has commenced in the Bannu district. The condition of cattle is good. Fodder and water are scarce in Dera Ismail Khan and generally sufficient elsewhere. Prices are high and rising.

Jammu.—The rainfall during the week was average in some tahsils and slight in others. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 8 to 16 and maize from 13 to 25 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is below average. Cattle disease of mild type prevails in the Riasi tahsil. Fodder is insufficient in some tahsils.

Kashmir.—It rained twice during the week. The rain was beneficial to crops. Operations for spring crops are in progress. Prices are unchanged. Cattle disease prevails in the southern parts. Fodder is average.

Rajputana.—The weather was clear and cool. Slight rain fell in Bikaner. Rain is badly wanted in some places in the eastern States. Spring crops are being irrigated and are doing well. Prospects are generally fair. Cattle are generally in good condition. Fodder and water are sufficient. Prices are generally high and steady.

Central India.—The weather is cool and occasionally cloudy. The unusual cold of last week did some damage to gram and linseed and to the final picking of cotton. The wheat crop is however in excellent condition. Cattle disease prevails in parts of Gwalior, Indore, Bhopal and Bhopawar. The fodder supply is ample. Prices are normal in Bhopal, above normal in Baghelkhand and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather has been cool and occasionally cloudy. Threshing and winnowing of autumn crops are approaching completion. Picking of cotton still continues in several districts. Prospects of spring crops are generally favourable. The supply of fodder and water is adequate. Cattle are in good condition. Juar in Chhindwara has fallen by 2½ seers per rupee. Elsewhere prices are almost steady.

Feudatory States.—The condition of spring crops is generally satisfactory. Rice fell by 2 seers per rupee in Udaipur.

Bombay.—Standing spring crops are generally in good condition except for slight damage by frost in Larkana and by cold winds in Kolhapur. Crops are withering in parts of West Khandesh, Ahmednagar and Sholapur. Cotton is withering in parts of Bijapur. The crop is suffering from cold winds in Belgaum. Picking continues in parts of Sind, Gujarat, Kathiawar and Rewa Kantha. The fodder supply is deficient in parts of Ahmednagar and Sholapur. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition and sufficient except in parts of Cutch. Stock is deteriorating in Ahmednagar. Drinking water is generally adequate except in parts of Ahmednagar and Sholapur. Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of Ahmedabad, West Khandesh, Ahmednagar and Bijapur. Prices are high and stationary. The public health is generally good. Distribution of takavi continues. Grain stocks are sufficient. Emigration continues from Ahmednagar. The numbers on relief for week ending the 25th January in tracts where famine has not been declared were :—on gratuitous relief in the Deccan 13,531.

Hyderabad.—There was no rain during the week. Picking of autumn cotton continues. Spring crops are generally fair to good except in parts of the Aurangabad, Bir and Usmanabad districts. The cotton crop is not so good as was anticipated. In parts of Raichur castor seed is being picked. Other oil crops are light this year. Late rice is being sown and the crop is being weeded and irrigated in parts. Germination is satisfactory. Distribution of takavi continues. The health of cattle is good. Cattle disease prevails in 7, fodder scarcity in 13 and water scarcity in 6 talukas. Prices :—Wheat 6, coarse rice 5¼ and juar 10¾ seers per rupee. White juar is selling in Hyderabad City at 12 seers per rupee. The highest price in districts is 7 seers in Karimnagar and the lowest 24 seers in Adilabad.

Mysore.—Prices of food grains are generally steady. Markets are well supplied. Harvesting operations are in progress with outturn fair to normal. Prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Reaping of rice and picking of coffee continue. Prices of food grains have fallen slightly. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—Light rain fell in Ramnad and Tinnevelly. There was no rain elsewhere. Standing crops are fair to good. Harvesting of dry crops, paddy and sugarcane is proceeding in parts with outturn fair to normal. Sowings of dry crops and paddy are proceeding normally in parts. The condition of cattle is generally good. Fodder and water are generally sufficient. Prices are stationary.

Nepal.—Report for the quarter ending 15th January 1913.—The rainfall for the period was 2·50 against 3·07 for the corresponding period of last year.

October and November 1912.—Millet and autumn rice were harvested and the outturn was good. Peas and wheat were sown. Oranges began to ripen in Nepal and in the hills.

December 1912.—The orange crop was gathered and the outturn was fairly good. The first crop of potatoes was dug up and the outturn is stated to be normal. Sowing of winter vegetables began in the Valley.

January 1913.—The standing spring crop is doing well and lands are being prepared for the sowing of the second crop of potatoes.

The health of livestock is reported to be good. The market is well stocked and prices of food grains continue normal.

ORDER IN COUNCIL.

At the Court at Buckingham Palace, the 25th day of May 1911.

PRESENT :

The King's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by section 84, sub-section (1), of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, it is enacted that whenever it appears to His Majesty the King in Council that the tonnage regulations of the said Act have been adopted by any foreign country, and are in force there, His Majesty in Council may order that the ships of that country shall, without being re-measured in His Majesty's dominions, be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in their certificates of registry or other national papers in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes as the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of a British ship is deemed to be the tonnage of that ship.

And whereas it appears to His Majesty that the tonnage regulations of the said Act have been adopted by the Government of His Majesty the King of Spain, and are now in force in that country:

Now, therefore, His Majesty is pleased, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, to order that the merchant ships of the said Kingdom of Spain, the certificates of registry or other national papers of which are dated on or after the 1st April 1910, shall be deemed to be of the tonnage denoted in such certificates of registry or other national papers in the same manner, to the same extent, and for the same purposes as the tonnage denoted in the certificate of registry of a British ship is deemed to be the tonnage of that ship.

And His Majesty is further pleased to direct that the Orders of Her late Majesty in Council, dated respectively the 17th day of March 1875, and the 5th day of August 1875, together with the Order of His late Majesty in Council, dated the 29th day of January 1904, be, and the same are hereby revoked.

GAZETTE OF INDIA.

NOTICE.

The 12th November 1912.

On and after the 14th December the complete Gazette of India will be published at Delhi. All notifications and other matter intended for publication in the Gazette should be addressed to the Publisher at Delhi.

Attention is invited to the following Circular Memorandum of the Government of India, Home Department, of August 1901:—

"It has been brought to the notice of this Department that matter for the Gazette of India is sometimes sent to the Press late on Friday evenings for publication in the next day's Gazette, and that this involves considerable inconvenience to the Press and expense to Government. In the Circular Memorandum of this Department, No. 777—79, dated 9th February 1870, the Government of India directed that all notifications or other matter intended for insertion in the Gazette of India should be delivered at the Press not later than 2 P.M. on Friday, and that any papers sent thereafter must be certified to be extremely urgent in order to ensure their appearance in the next day's Gazette. The undersigned is directed to request that these orders may be more strictly observed in future, and that Departments will refrain from sending to the Press as extremely urgent any papers which can without harm or inconvenience be held over for the next Gazette."

J. P. HEWETT,

Secretary to the Government of India.

To the President, Municipal Commission,
Civil and Military Station, Bangalore.

No. 8226.—In exercise of the powers conferred on them by Section 137 (1) (i) of the Bangalore Municipal Law 1897, the Municipal Commission for the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore having made the following Bye-law relating to the Assessment and collection of "Tax on Sowcars, Money lenders and Pawnbrokers" and published it under this office Notification No. 873, dated 7th May 1912, and the same having been confirmed by the Hon'ble the Resident in Mysore as required by Section 44 (5) of the Law, the Bye-law is hereby notified for public information under Section 180 (3) of the said law :—

CHAPTER II—TAXATION.

BYE-LAW NO. 6—ASSESSMENT AND COLLECTION.

Tax on Sowcars, Money lenders and Pawnbrokers.

B. M. L. Section 137 (1) (i).

1. No person shall exercise the profession of a Sowcar, Money lender or Pawnbroker in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore without first getting his name registered in the office of the Municipal Commission and taking out a certificate of registration.

Note.—In this Bye-law, the terms Sowcar or Money lender means every person who lends money on or without security.

Pawnbrokers includes every person who carries on the business of taking goods and chattles in pawn.

2. Every person wishing to exercise the profession of a Sowcar, Money lender or Pawnbroker in the Station, shall apply to the President in writing in the form given in Schedule A for a certificate of registration. The President or some officer duly authorised by him in that behalf shall after due inquiry, grant the certificate of registration asked for, in the form given in Schedule B, on payment of the undermentioned tax:—

		Yearly.
Sowcar, Money lender or Pawnbroker in receipt of an estimated or actual income of Rs. 1,000 or less per annum		Rs. 12
Do.	over Rs. 1,000 up to „ 3,000	„ 25
Do.	over „ 3,000 up to „ 5,000	„ 50
Do.	over „ 5,000 „	„ 100

3. The President or the officer duly authorised by him may, if he deems it necessary in any particular case, refuse to grant the certificate of registration.

4. Every person shall when engaged as a Sowcar, Money lender or Pawnbroker have in his place of business the certificate of registration granted and produce the same when required by any Police Officer on duty or any officer or servant employed by the Municipality.

5. The certificate of registration shall not be transferable. In the case of certificates actually lost, Duplicates may at the discretion of the President or the Officer authorised by him, be issued on production of satisfactory evidence.

6. Every Registered Sowcar, Money lender or Pawnbroker, who ceases to exercise his profession in the course of the year for which he has paid the tax, shall be entitled to a refund of one-fourth of the tax for every complete quarter of the year in which he did not exercise his profession.

7. Every registered Sowcar, Money lender or Pawnbroker who paid the tax on an estimated income may, within 3 months after the close of the official year for which he has paid the tax, claim a refund of excess tax paid on proving to the satisfaction of the Commission that his actual income during the year was less than the estimated income. If the claim is admitted and passed, the excess tax paid shall be refunded.

8. Every registered Sowcar, Money lender or Pawnbroker whose actual income during the year is found to exceed the estimated income on which the tax was originally levied shall be liable to the payment of any excess tax recoverable.

9. Applications for renewals of certificates of registration shall be made within 30 days from the commencement of each official year in the form given in Schedule A.

10. Breach of any of these rules shall render the offender liable to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50 and to a further fine which may extend to Rs. 5 for every day after such conviction during which the breach continues, in addition to the payment of the tax.

NOTICES.

THE PATENT OFFICE, 1, COUNCIL HOUSE STREET, CALCUTTA.

Public room, open 11 A.M. to 4 P.M.; Saturdays, 11 A.M. to 1 P.M.

1. All communications relating to applications for patents and for registration of designs under the Indian Patents and Designs Act (II of 1911), or in continuation of applications under the Inventions and Designs Act (V of 1888) should be addressed to the Controller of Patents and Designs, 1, Council House Street, Calcutta. Documents sent by post should be carefully packed.

2. Directions for the guidance of inventors and others are given in the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911 (price, 10 annas), and in the Indian Patents and Designs Rules, 1912 (price, 2 annas). These should be consulted before an application is made to the Controller.

3. Advice. The Patent Office cannot undertake (1) to give opinions on the interpretation of Patent Law, or on the advisability of protecting inventions and designs or on their infringement; (2) to make searches in respect of information available in the public room; (3) to recommend any particular agent; or (4) to assist in the disposal of inventions. Applicants are warned that the Indian Patents and Designs Act, 1911, is in force in British India only, and patents granted under it do not extend to the United Kingdom or any of the British possessions. The International Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property does not include India. Applications for patents in countries other than India should be made to the patent offices in the countries concerned.

4. Fees are payable in cash and must be received in the Patent Office within the time allowed by the Acts. When cheques are offered in payment of fees, it must be clearly understood that the office cannot hold itself responsible for any delay that may occur in the collection of cash on the cheques; any cheque not payable in Calcutta is subject to commission. In cases where it is not possible to have the fees handed in at the Patent Office, it is preferable to send them by money-order or postal order payable at Calcutta to the Controller of Patents and Designs, and to advise him that they have been so sent. Stamps will not be received in payment of fees.

5. Trade and property marks are not registered and medicines are not patented under the Indian Patents and Designs Act. There is no provision of Law in British India for their registration.

6. Printed Specifications of applications, which have been accepted, are published within about three weeks after acceptance has been notified in the Gazette of India. These specifications can be purchased at the Patent Office at a uniform price of 8 annas per copy; and may be seen free of charge, together with other publications of the Patent Office, at the following places :—

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Rainfall summary for the seven days ending at 8 hrs. on Thursday, the 6th February 1913, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. A local disturbance gave fairly general rain in Upper Burma on the 30th January, and several falls of rain occurred on the following day in deltaic Bengal. A depression appeared over Persia on the 2nd February and advanced slowly eastwards. On the 4th it gave nearly general rain in Baluchistan and showers in the hills of the North-West Frontier Province, and on the following day precipitation extended into Kashmir and eastwards along the Himalayas as far as Chakrata. It gave no rainfall of importance in the plains.

2. Burma.—Light rain fell at Toungoo and at most stations in Upper Burma on the 30th January.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—Narayanganj, Barisal, Jessore and Balasore had light rain on the 31st January.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—Light rain fell at Pendra on the 31st January and at Chakrata on the 5th February.

Northwest India.—Nearly general rainfall occurred in Baluchistan and the hills of the North-West Frontier Province on the 4th February, and on the 5th precipitation continued in the latter area and extended into Kashmir and along the Punjab Himalayas. Lahore also reported a light shower.

A

The Peninsula.—Light rain fell at Ootacamund, Madras and Nellore.

3. The chief daily falls of rain were as follows :—

January 31st, Barisal 0·70″, Balasore 0·92″ and Pendra 0·81″.

February 4th, Pasni 1·13″.

February 5th, Sonamarg 1·48″, Murree 0·63″ and Lahore 0·13″.

4. The rainfall of the week was more than 20 per cent. in excess in Upper Burma, Orissa, and the Central Provinces East. It was normal in Lower Burma, Bengal, and Central India East, and was in defect in all other divisions, except Rajputana East, Gujarat, Central India West, Berar, the Konkan, the Bombay Deccan, Hyderabad, Mysore and the Madras Deccan, where rainfall is usually absent at this time of year.

The seasonal rainfall up to date is in large defect (in most cases ranging between 80 and 100 per cent. of the normal) over by far the greater part of the country. The only divisions in which rainfall is not in defect are Upper Burma which shows an excess of 20 per cent.; Kashmir, Baluchistan and Malabar, where rainfall varies by less than 20 per cent. from the normal; and Gujarat which is usually rainless at this season of the year.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 1st February 1913.

Burma.—Light rain fell in fourteen districts and in the Shan States. Threshing and winnowing of the main winter rice crop are progressing. Cultivation of spring rice and island crops is proceeding. Standing crops are generally doing well. Prices of unhusked rice have again fallen in Rangoon.

Assam.—The weather was seasonable. Slight rain fell in places. Pruning of tea still continues. Pressing of sugarcane and gathering of mustard and pulses are nearing completion. Transplantation of spring rice is in progress. Ploughing for early rice and jute has commenced in places. Fodder is insufficient in Sylhet and Cachar. The price of common rice has risen by about one per cent. Cattle disease is prevalent in the Khasi and Jaintia Hills.

Bengal.—During the week light showers were reported from places in the Presidency, Burdwan, Dacca and Chittagong divisions. There was no rain in the Rajshahi division except in parts of Darjeeling and Pabna. Harvesting of spring crops continues. Prospects of standing spring crops are good. Transplantation of summer rice and pressing of sugarcane are in progress. Preparation of fields for autumn crops is going on. The average price of common rice for the Province has fallen slightly as compared with that of the previous week. Cattle disease is reported from places in Khulna, Midnapore, Malda, Tippera and Noakhali.

Bihar and Orissa.—Light rain fell in the greater part of Chota Nagpur and in parts of Orissa. There was no rain in Bihar. Threshing of winter rice still continues in some districts and pressing of sugarcane is going on. Preparation of lands for the next season's crops has commenced in some districts. The condition of standing spring crops and vegetables is good. The average price of common rice has risen slightly as compared with that of the previous week. The condition of cattle is on the whole good. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient throughout the Province. Prospects of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa are reported to be good.

United Provinces.—With the exception of light showers in Mirzapur and the Benares State the week has been rainless. Rain is urgently required in the whole of the Himalayan, the western submontane, the upper and central Doab and the north central and central submontane tracts. Some deterioration to standing crops in these tracts is reported. Rain is also needed in Cawnpore, Fatehpur, Allahabad and Jalaun. Slight damage by frost especially to arhar and rape, is reported from twenty-two districts. The condition of standing crops is so far good. Pressing of sugarcane, irrigation of spring crops and preparation of land for the next sugarcane crop are in progress. Fodder and water are sufficient. In Mirzapur there are 1,479 persons on test works and 10,504 on ordinary canal works and water works, while in the Chakia district of the Benares State there are 5,334 persons on regular works and 2,512 on gratuitous relief. Cattle disease is widespread in Bundelkhand and sporadic in seventeen other districts. Prices are rising in the hill, central submontane and lower Doab districts and are stationary elsewhere.

Punjab.—The weather is dry. Rain is urgently wanted everywhere. Pressing of sugarcane and harvesting of toria continue with outturn average to good. The condition of irrigated spring crops is generally average to good but unirrigated crops are in many districts in a precarious condition for want of rain. Sowing of extra spring crops continue. Cattle are generally healthy but fodder is becoming scarce except in the Ambala division. Prices have risen slightly.

North-West Frontier Provinces.—The week was rainless. Rain is required badly throughout the Province. The weather is cool and at times cloudy. Standing crops are generally fair in irrigated but poor on unirrigated areas. Sugarcane is being pressed and the outturn is normal. Planting of sugarcane is in progress in Bannu. Cattle are in good condition. Fodder and water are generally sufficient but are scarce in Dera Ismail Khan. Prices are high and rising.

Jammu.—Slight rain fell during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 8 to 16 and maize from 13 to 25 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is below average. Cattle disease of mild type prevails in the Riasi tahsil. Fodder is insufficient in some tahsils.

Kashmir.—There was no rain during the week. Operations for spring crops are in progress. Prices are unchanged. Cattle disease prevails in certain villages of Kulgam and Verinag. Fodder is average.

Rajputana.—The weather was cloudy and cold. Slight rain fell in Bikaner. Rain is badly wanted in some places in the eastern States. Spring crops are being irrigated and are doing well. Prospects are generally fair. Cattle are generally in good condition Fodder and water are sufficient. Prices are generally high and steady.

Central India.—Light rain fell in Baghelkand. The weather is warm and cloudy. Grain crops have been damaged slightly in Rampura Bhanpura of Indore and in parts of Gwalior by the last week's cold. Cotton has been damaged in Jaora in the Malwa Agency and in Manpur in the Bhopawar Agency. Prospects of spring crops are generally excellent. Cattle disease is reported in parts of Gwalior, Bundelkhand and Bhopawar. The fodder supply is ample. Prices are normal in Bhopal, above normal in Baghelkhand, fluctuating in Malwa and Bhopawar and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The weather continues to be cold and occasionally cloudy. During the week Jubbulpore and Bilaspur received light showers amounting to 16 and 34 cents respectively. In Jubbulpore and in the interior of Mandla hail is reported to have fallen but to have caused no damage. Threshing and winnowing of autumn crops are nearly completed. Picking of cotton continues in a few districts. Frost in the Vindhyan districts and Jubbulpore and cloudy weather in Bilaspur caused slight damage to pulses and linseed. The condition of spring crops is otherwise generally satisfactory and prospects are favourable Fodder and water are sufficient but the former is either scarce or dear in Saugor, Akola and Amraoti. Cattle are in good condition. The price of juar rose by 2 seers per rupee in Yeotmal Elsewhere prices remained fairly steady.

Feudatory States.—During the week four States had rain nowhere exceeding 25 cents. Prospects of spring crops are generally good.

Bombay.—Harvesting of spring crops is in progress in parts of the Deccan, the Karnatak, Baroda, Rewa Kantha and Kolhapur. Standing crops have been damaged slightly by locusts in parts of Karachi, by cold winds in Kolhapur and by insects in Dharwar. Crops are in good condition elsewhere. Cotton is withering in parts of Bijapur and is suffering from cold winds in Belgaum and Dharwar. Picking continues in parts of Sind, Gujarat, Kathiawar and Rewa Kantha. The fodder supply is deficient in parts of Ahmednagar. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition and sufficient except in parts of Cutch. The condition of stock is deteriorating in Ahmednagar. Drinking water is generally adequate except in parts of Ahmednagar and Sholapur. Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of Ahmedabad, West Khandesh, Ahmednagar and Bijapur. Prices are high and have risen slightly. The public health is generally good. Distribution of takavi continues. Grain stocks are sufficient. Emigration continues from Ahmednagar. The numbers on relief for the week ending 1st February in tracts where famine has not been declared were :—on gratuitous relief in the Deccan 14,702.

Hyderabad.—No rain fell during the week. Autumn cotton is being picked in parts. The spring crop is being harvested in many parts and its condition is generally fair to good except in parts of Aurangabad. Spring cotton picking has commenced in Raichur. The crop is not so good as was anticipated. Castor seed picking continues. The spring crop has been damaged somewhat by insects in parts of the Karimnagar district. Late rice sowings are progressing and the crop is being weeded and irrigated in parts. Fodder is being imported into the affected talukas of the Aurangabad and Bir districts. Ordinary public works have been increased and distribution of takavi continues. The health of cattle is generally good. Cattle disease is reported in 8, fodder scarcity in 14 and water scarcity in 7 talukas. Prices :— wheat 6, coarse rice 5½ and juar 11 seers per rupee, showing a fall of ¼ seer in the price of juar. White juar is selling in Hyderabad city at 12 seers per rupee. The highest price in districts is 7 seers in Karimnagar and the lowest 24 seers in Adilabad.

Mysore.—Prices of food grains are generally steady. Markets are well supplied. Harvesting operations are in progress with outturn fair to normal. Prospects of the season are generally good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Reaping of rice has been completed and threshing has commenced. Picking of coffee continues. Prices of food grains have fallen slightly. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—The rainfall during the week was light in Madras, fair in the Nilgiris and nil elsewhere. Standing crops are fair to good. Harvesting of dry crops, paddy and sugar-cane is proceeding with outturn fair to normal. Sowings of dry crops and paddy are proceeding normally in parts. The condition of cattle is generally good. Fodder and water are generally sufficient. Prices are falling.

B.—Erratum.—In the list of notifications cancelled by Notification No. 5041-I.C., dated the 20th December 1906, delegating powers to Local Governments under the Epidemic Diseases Act, 1897, as applied to territories in India which are under the administration of the Governor General in Council, but are not British India, notification "No. 4374-I.A., dated the 1st December 1897" should be inserted.

The 3rd February 1913.

No. 207-I. B.—In exercise of the powers conferred by the Indian (Foreign Jurisdiction) Order in Council, 1902, and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, the Governor General in Council is pleased to direct that the following amendment shall be made in the Berar Patels and Patwaris Law, 1900, namely :—

1. After Section 6 of the said Law, the following sections shall be inserted, namely :—

Filling of vacancies in office of patel in Izara villages.

6A. (1) Where a village originally leased under the Waste Land Rules of 1865 has been settled under the said rules either in proprietary right or patelship, and such proprietary right or patelship is held by more persons than one, such person shall, on the occurrence of a vacancy, nominate one of their number to be malik and patel, or to be patel, as the case may be, and the Deputy Commissioner shall appoint such nominee.

(2) If the sharers fail to agree on, or to make a nomination within a reasonable time, the Deputy Commissioner shall proceed to appoint one of their number to be malik and patel, or to be patel, as the case may be.

(3) If a sharer in such village held in proprietary right withholds payment of the emoluments of the malik and patel, the Deputy Commissioner may, on complaint being made to him, enforce payment of such emoluments by any of the means by which an arrear of land revenue may be recovered :

Provided as follows :—

(a) if the rate of such emoluments has been determined by mutual agreement between the parties, the Deputy Commissioner shall enforce payment at such rate; and

(b) if no rate has been agreed upon, the Deputy Commissioner shall fix a fair rate according to the circumstances of the case, and enforce payment accordingly, subject to the condition that the Deputy Commissioner shall not fix a higher rate than that payable in a Khasla village.

(4) In a village leased under the Waste Land Rules of 1865, and in which a settlement has been made in patelship, the emoluments of the patel shall be paid at the rate of 25 per cent. on the collections of land revenue. The Deputy Commissioner shall determine the share of the emoluments to which the sharer appointed to be patel shall be entitled as his remuneration as patel, subject to the condition that the Deputy Commissioner shall not fix a higher rate than that payable in Khalsa villages; and notwithstanding anything in Section 9, the balance of the emoluments shall be divided by the patel, in proportion to their shares, among all sharers (including himself) in the patelship.

Filling of vacancies in office of patwari in Izara villages.

6B. (1) In a village originally leased under the Waste Land Rules of 1865, and in which the settlement has been made under those rules either in proprietary right or patelship, the malik and patel, or the patel, as the case may be, shall, on the occurrence of a vacancy in a patwariship, nominate a person qualified in accordance with the rules framed under this Law to be patwari, and the Deputy Commissioner may appoint the nominee.

(2) If the malik and patel, or the patel, as the case may be, nominates a person not qualified to perform the duties of the office, the Deputy Commissioner shall refuse to appoint the nominee, and, if a person is not nominated within fifteen days of the date of the notice of the refusal being given to the malik and patel, or the patel, as the case may be, shall himself appoint a person to the office as though the village were not held on proprietary or patelki tenure, as the case may be.

(3) If the proprietors withhold payment of the emoluments of a patwari of any village held in proprietary tenure, the Deputy Commissioner may, on complaint being made to him, enforce payment of such emoluments by any of the means by which an arrear of land revenue may be recovered:

Provided as follows :—

(a) if the rate of such emoluments has been determined by mutual agreement between the parties, the Deputy Commissioner shall enforce payment at such rate; and

(b) if no rate has been agreed upon, the Deputy Commissioner shall fix a fair rate according to the circumstances of the case and enforce payment accordingly, subject to the condition that the Deputy Commissioner shall not fix a higher rate than that payable in a Khalsa village.

2. After section 21 of the said Law the following section shall be inserted, namely :—

Saving of the Waste Land Rules of 1865.

21A. Save as is hereinbefore otherwise expressly provided, nothing in this Law shall be deemed to affect the provisions of the Waste Land Rules of 1865.

No. 197-I.B.—In exercise of the powers conferred by the Indian (Foreign Jurisdiction) Order in Council, 1902, and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct that the following further amendments shall be made in the Notification of the Government of India in the Foreign Department, No. 507-I., dated the 6th February 1896, as subsequently amended, providing for the administration of the railway lands in the Mysore State over which the Governor-General in Council exercises jurisdiction, namely :—

(1) In Part I for the words "All Laws" to "provided" the following shall be substituted :—

"All enactments which are now or may hereafter be in force in the Civil and Military station of Bangalore, and all notifications, rules, orders or bye-laws made or which may hereafter be made under such enactments shall, unless otherwise declared by the Resident in Mysore, be deemed to be in force in the said lands in so far as they are applicable thereto :—

Provided, firstly, that for the purpose of facilitating the application of any of the aforesaid enactments, notifications, rules, orders or by-laws, any Court in the said lands may construe them with such alterations not affecting the substance as may be necessary or proper to adapt them to the matter before the Court :

Provided secondly,"

(2) In Part II, clause (5) shall be omitted.

No. 199-I.B.—In exercise of the powers conferred by the Indian (Foreign Jurisdiction) Order in Council, 1902, and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, and in substitution for the Notification of the Government of India in the Foreign Department, No. 2367-I.B., dated the 14th November 1912, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct that the following further amendment shall be made in the like Notification No. 5022-I., dated the 24th December 1891, providing for the exercise of civil jurisdiction within certain Administered Areas in Central India, namely :—

In clauses (2) and (3) of Part III for the words "First Assistant for the time being to the Agent to the Governor-General in Central India" and "First Assistant to the Agent to the Governor-General in Central India" the words "Resident at Indore for the time being" and "the Resident," respectively, shall be substituted.

No. 123-1284.—Rules regulating appointments to Executive and Judicial posts in Ajmer-Merwara are published for general information:—

Resolution by the Government of India in the Home Department, No. 1046—1058 of the 19th August 1910.

The Governor-General in Council has had in consideration the recommendation made by the Royal Commission on Decentralization at the end of paragraph 128 of their report on the subject of framing rules for the recruitment of Provincial Services. The majority of the Commission consider it unnecessary that rules for the recruitment of these services should, as is now the case, require the sanction of the Government of India, and they express the opinion that the functions of that Government should be limited to laying down a few general principles as to eligibility for appointment etc., on which detailed provincial rules would be based.

II.—In the present resolution the Governor-General in Council, proposes to deal only with the Provincial Civil Services (Executive and Judicial). The case of other Provincial Services, will be separately considered.

III.—The present system under which the previous sanction of the Government of India is required to making or altering the rules, for the recruitment of Provincial Civil Services, was introduced in 1892, as the result of the report of the Public Service Commission. The Governor-General in Council has now decided to accept in substance, the recommendation of the Decentralization Commission, and is pleased accordingly to invest Local Governments with the power to make rules for the recruitment of the Provincial Civil Services without the previous sanction of the Government of India, but subject to their general control. The general conditions which should govern such recruitment have been already fully considered in connection with the inquiries made by the Public Service Commission, and the Governor-General in Council, upon a further consideration of the subject, sees no reason to modify the conclusions then arrived at. It will, however, be convenient to re-state then in the present connection, as follows :—

1. The rules must be adapted on the one hand to obtain thoroughly efficient candidates and on the other, to secure the due representation in the Public Service of the different classes of the community.

2. Every candidate for appointment by recruitment, must furnish satisfactory evidence—

   (a) that he is not over 25 years of age, except in the case of Barristers, Advocates or Pleaders appointed to the judicial branch : these excepted cases will be governed by article 51 of the Civil Service Regulations ;

   (b) that he has attained a prescribed preliminary standard of general education to be fixed by Local Governments, with reference to local conditions, the object being to secure men qualified by as high a standard of general education as the conditions and requirements of the Local Administration permit. In particular, qualification in one or more of the Vernacular languages of the province in which he is to be employed is to be insisted on. The Vernacular standard should be a high one, involving a thorough knowledge and ability to read and write the written character with facility ;

   (c) that he is of sound health, good physique, and active habits ;

   (d) that he is of good character.

3. Every person appointed to the Provincial Civil Service by direct recruitment shall be subject to a period of probation or training during which time his appointment will be probationary only, unless in special cases the Local Government declares such probation or training to be unnecessary.

4. The subjects of Native Princes in alliance with His Majesty shall be eligible for appointment, provided they are qualified in other respects.

5. Admission to the Provincial Civil Service should usually be confined to persons who are natives of the province or have definitely settled in it ; in the case of candidates who are not natives of the province recent, residence of at least three years in the province should, as a general rule, be an essential condition of admission. No Barrister, Advocate or Pleader should be appointed as such, unless he has been at least three years actually practising his profession in India and can speak the provincial vernacular.

6. Europeans who are not statutory natives of India shall be eligible for appointment, if qualified according to the above conditions, with the sanction of the Government of India.

7. The Local Government should reserve to itself the right to make promotion to the superior grades of the Provincial Civil Service without regard to seniority, and seniority alone should not give a claim to appointment to the grade of Rs. 300 a month and higher grades.

8. The Government of India retain power in very special cases to make direct appointments to offices in the higher grades of the Provincial Civil Services, and whenever the Government of India exercise this power in the case of Judicial Officers, it will be confined to Barristers, Advocates, or Pleaders of the High Courts who have shown distinguished ability in the exercise of their profession for not less than ten years and have a thorough knowledge of the vernacular.

9. No member of the Provincial Civil Service shall be dismissed otherwise than on the result of a judicial or formal departmental enquiry.

IV.—The Governor-General in Council directs that any change made in the rules from time to time should be forthwith communicated to the Government of India in the Home Department, in order that they may be in a position to exercise effective general control. His Excellency in Council considers it desirable, moreover, that this resolution should be published by the Local Governments and Administrations as part of the respective provincial rules.

Rules made by the Local Administrations.

1. Appointments to all Executive and Judicial posts in Ajmer-Merwara, carrying pay of Rs. 100 and above shall be made :—

(a) by direct recruitment, on the nomination of the Local Government;
(b) by promotion from the subordinate judicial, clerical, revenue, excise, jail or police establishments; or (c) by promotion of an officer already occupying one of such posts.

2. The qualifications for an appointment by recruitment shall be :—

Appointment by recruitment.

(1) that the candidate is a native of India as defined by 33 Victoria, Chapter III, section 6, or that he is a subject of a Native Prince in alliance with His Majesty; or if he is a European other than a native of India, that the previous sanction of the Government of India has been obtained to his appointment in accordance with the Government of India's (Home Department) Notification No. 22-747, dated the 18th April 1879;
(2) that he is not under 20 or ordinarily over 25 on his last birthday (subject to the provisions of Article 51, Civil Service Regulations);
(3) that he is of sound health and good physique;
(4) that he is of good character;
(5) that he has a thorough knowledge of the vernacular and can read and write Urdu, Hindi and English; and
(6) that he belongs to one of the following classes of persons :—
(i) Advocates, Attorneys or Vakils on the rolls of and entitled as such to practice in any High Court; provided that they have actually practised their profession for at least three years in India;
(ii) persons who
(a) have obtained the degree of Bachelor of Law, Science or Arts of any University or a diploma of the Mayo College, Ajmer, which is recognised as equivalent to such degree;
(b) have obtained a certificate of the Examination Board that they have qualified for admission as Vakils of a High Court and have for a period of three years practised as Vakils or as Pleaders in any Courts in Ajmer-Merwara; or (iii) have passed the Ajmer-Merwara Judicial and Revenue Examination by the higher standard, or, subject to the special permission of the Local Government, by the Lower Standard.

3. In making nominations and appointments the Local Government will endeavour to secure the due representation of the different classes of the community and will give preference, in selecting from among qualified candidates, to—

(a) Natives of and persons domiciled in Ajmer-Merwara;
(b) persons of superior educational attainments, such as graduates of an Indian University, or persons who have passed the Ajmer-Merwara Judicial and Revenue Examination;
(c) Members of families of tried loyalty and distinguished service, good social status and influence in the country;
(d) Natives of the Rajputana States.

4. Candidates appointed by recruitment shall be considered to be on probation for one year and shall during that period draw such pay as may be fixed by the Local Government. At the end of that period or at any previous time during the period should the report of their probation be unsatisfactory, their further service may be discontinued. Should the report be satisfactory they will be confirmed on its expiration.

Appointment by promotion from subordinate service.

5. Appointments by promotion from the subordinate service shall be by selection on the recommendation of the Commissioner and subject to the approval of the Local Government.

6. Promotion from the subordinate service to one of the posts referred to in Rule I, or from one of such posts to another such post, shall, in no case, be regulated by seniority alone.

7. No officer permanently appointed to a post referred to in Rule I, above, shall be dismissed otherwise than on the result of a judicial or formal departmental enquiry.

By order,

H. WILKINSON,

First Assistant to the Chief Commissioner of Ajmer-Merwara.

CHIEF COMMISSIONER, DELHI.

NOTIFICATIONS.

Delhi, the 31st January 1913.

No. 865-C. & I.—In exercise of the powers conferred by section 37 of the Indian Factories Act, 1911 (XII of 1911), the Chief Commissioner is pleased to make the following rules for the better control of factories situated within the Province of Delhi :—

RULES.

1. These rules may be cited as the Delhi Factory Rules, 1913.

2. In these rules—

(a) words and expressions which are defined in the Indian Factories Act, 1911, have the same meaning as in the said Act :

(b) "The Act" means the said Act :

(c) "Inspector" means an Inspector appointed under section 4, sub-section (1), of the Act. It includes also the District Magistrate and the Additional Inspector.

Register of factories.

3. The Inspector shall keep a register of factories in form A attached to these rules, and shall furnish a copy thereof to the District Magistrate on the 1st February of each year. He shall also intimate to the District Magistrate at the time they are made all changes in the register which are made in accordance with the two next following rules.

Directions for compiling register of factories.

4. (1) When the Inspector receives notice under section 33 of the Act of a factory being occupied, he shall, if he has not already done so, include such factory in his register.

(2) When the Inspector has reason to believe that any premises, situated within the local limits for which he is appointed and not already registered as a factory, ought to be included in his register, he shall send to the occupier of the premises a notice intimating his intention of placing such premises on his register of factories.

(3) Any person served with a notice under clause (2) above may, within 15 days of the receipt of such notice, forward to the Inspector a statement setting forth his objections to the registration of his premises as a factory. The Inspector shall consider and dispose of such objections, after making such enquiry as he may deem necessary, and shall make up his register of factories accordingly, and shall communicate his decision to the person concerned.

Notice when factory ceases to be occupied.

5. When any premises cease to be occupied as a factory, the occupier may give notice of the fact to the Inspector, who shall, if satisfied that the Act is no longer applicable to such premises, remove them from his register of factories. The Inspector may without such notice of his own motion at any time remove any factory from his register if satisfied that it is no longer used as such :

Provided that seasonal factories shall not be removed from the register if there is a probability of their again starting work within a reasonable time.

Inspection.

6. The Inspector shall be primarily responsible for the administration of the Act within the area for which he is appointed. He shall inspect every factory, other than a seasonal factory, within that area at least twice yearly, and every seasonal factory within that area at least once during each season of work. He shall also make such further inspections as may appear to be necessary to him, or to the authority to whom he is subordinate, in order that he may satisfy himself that the provisions of the Act and of these rules are duly observed.

7. The Inspector shall at each inspection of a factory satisfy himself that the provisions made in the Act and rules to secure the health and safety of the operatives are observed; that the children employed in the factory have been duly certified and the register of children properly maintained; that the hours of employment of women and children and of persons working in shifts are properly recorded : that the periodical stoppages of work and the holidays provided by the Act are granted, and that the limits of hours of work laid down therein are not exceeded : and that the abstract and notice prescribed by section 36 of the Act are duly maintained and affixed. He shall further enquire into the cause of all accidents which have taken place since the last inspection. Finally he shall note how far defects pointed out at previous inspections have been removed and how far orders previously issued have been complied with. Any defects which have come to light at the present inspection as well as any orders passed by him under the Act shall then be recorded. An extract from such record containing the orders of the Inspector and such remarks on defects found to exist as the Inspector may wish to bring to the Manager's notice shall be sent to the Manager, and a copy of the said extract shall be sent to the District Magistrate.

Proviso.—When the inspection is made by the District Magistrate or the Additional Inspector he shall send a copy of the orders and remarks aforesaid to the Inspector appointed under section 4, sub-section (1), of the Act.

8. The Inspector shall keep a register of his inspections of each factory in form G appended, in which he shall record all orders and remarks made by him on each occasion of his inspection.

Duties of Certifying Surgeon or person authorised to exercise his functions.

9. (1) The duties of a Certifying Surgeon, as such, and of a person authorised under section 8 of the Act to exercise his functions, shall comprise the examination of persons desirous of being employed in a factory, and the grant to them of certificates of age and of physical fitness. No fee shall be charged for such examination or for the grant of a certificate in pursuance thereof.

(2) The Certifying Surgeon or person authorised as aforesaid shall fix such place and such times as may be proper for the attendance of persons wishing to obtain certificates of age and physical fitness. Notice of the place and the times thus fixed shall be given to the Managers of factories within the local limits for which he is appointed.

10. (1) Every Certifying Surgeon shall keep a bound book containing forms in foil and counterfoil as in form B attached to these rules. The forms shall be numbered consecutively and shall be printed on cloth-backed paper.

(2) Every certificate granted under section 7 of the Act to a person desirous of being employed in a factory shall be prepared by filling up the foil and counterfoil, on which shall also be impressed the left thumb mark of the person in whose name the certificate is granted.

(3) The Certifying Surgeon shall, when satisfied as to the correctness of the entries made therein, sign the foil and initial the counterfoil, and shall deliver the foil to the person in whose name the certificate is granted. The foil so delivered shall be the certificate granted under section 7 of the Act.

(4) If the Certifying Surgeon refuses to grant to any person a certificate under this rule, no fresh application for a certificate shall be made on behalf of such person until a period of three months has elapsed, unless the Certifying Surgeon otherwise gives permission in writing at the time of refusing to grant the certificate.

Grant of provisional certificates under section 8.

11. Every person authorised under section 8 of the Act to exercise provisionally the functions of a Certifying Surgeon shall grant certificates in the manner provided for in the last foregoing rule. The word "Provisional" shall however be printed or stamped in red ink at the top of each foil and counterfoil.

Grant of duplicate certificates.

12. (1) When a person to whom a certificate under section 7 of the Act has been granted loses such certificate, he may apply to the Certifying Surgeon for a copy of the certificate, and the Certifying Surgeon, after making such enquiry as he deems fit, may grant a duplicate thereof. The word "Duplicate" shall be clearly written in red ink across such certificate and initialled by the Certifying Surgeon. The counterfoil in the bound book of forms shall be similarly marked "Duplicate" and initialled.

(2) For every copy of a certificate granted under clause (1) of this rule, a fee of four annas shall be charged, which shall be credited to Government. The Certifying Surgeon shall maintain a register in form C of all fees paid for the issue of copies of certificates, and shall initial each entry made therein.

(3) No second certificate under section 7 of the Act shall be granted to any person otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of this rule.

13. (1) The Certifying Surgeon shall visit every factory within the local limits for which he is appointed at least once in each quarter the factory is working, and shall give previous notice of his visits. At each of these visits the Manager shall produce before him at such time as the Certifying Surgeon may fix all children employed in the factory, whether actually at work or not, who are not in possession of certificates granted under section 7 of the Act. If any child so employed has been unavoidably prevented from being present at the visit of the Certifying Surgeon, he shall not be further employed at the factory until he has obtained the necessary certificate :

Provided that children employed solely in the places mentioned in section 3, sub-section (2), of the Act need not be produced before the Certifying Surgeon.

(2) The Certifying Surgeon shall personally examine every child, who is in possession of a "Provisional" certificate granted under section 8, and shall, if satisfied as to the correctness of the "Provisional" certificate, countersign the same and return it to its owner.

(3) If on such examination the Certifying Surgeon is of opinion that the person in possession of a "Provisional" certificate granted under section 8 is under the age of nine years or is not fit for employment in a factory, he shall retain the certificate, write on it the word "Cancelled" and sign the same, and shall return the certificate with such remarks, if any, as he may offer to the person who issued it.

Sanitary provisions.

14. (1) In every factory all the inside walls of the rooms and all the ceilings or tops of such rooms (whether such walls, ceilings, or tops be plastered or not), and all the passages and staircases shall be lime-washed at least once in each year, dating from the period when last lime-washed.

(2) The Chief Commissioner may be special order exempt any class of factories or parts thereof from the provisions of this rule, on the ground that the said provisions are not necessary to satisfy the requirements of clause (a) of section 9 of the Act as to cleanliness or are, by reason of special circumstances, inapplicable.

15. All the beams, rafters, doors and other wood work in every factory shall be kept in a cleanly state.

16. (1) No Manager of a factory shall cause or suffer any rubbish, filth or débris to be accumulated or to remain on any premises under his control of such a nature or in such a position as that effluvia therefrom can arise within the factory.

(2) All latrines and urinals shall be kept in a sanitary state.

Standards of space.

17. (1) There shall be provided for each person employed in any room of a factory a floor area of at least 36 superficial feet and a breathing area of at least 500 cubic feet.

(2) The Manager of every factory shall maintain a register showing the measurements and cubical contents of each room in the factory, the area of the floor space in each room occupied by machinery or other fixtures, and the area provided for ventilating openings as required by the next following rule.

Standard of ventilation.

18. In every room of factory ventilating openings shall be provided in the proportion of ten square feet for each person employed in such room, and the openings shall be such as to admit of a continued supply of fresh air :

Provided that, subject to the control of the Chief Commissioner, the Inspector may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, relax the conditions of this rule where in his opinion this may be done with due regard to the health of the persons employed in any room.

Latrine accommodation

19. (1) Every factory, which has not been exempted under the proviso to section 13 of the Act, shall be provided with latrine accommodation, which shall be in a place detached from the other factory buildings and on the following scale, viz:—

	Seats.
Where the number of operatives does not exceed 50	3
Where the number of operatives exceeds 50, but does not exceed 150 .	4
Where the number of operatives exceeds 150, but does not exceed 200 .	5
Where the number of operatives exceeds 200	1 seat for every 50 or fraction of 50.

(2) If females are employed, separate latrines screened from those for males and marked in the vernacular in conspicuous letters "For females only" shall be provided.

Those for males shall be similarly marked "For men only."

Drinking water.

20. (1) In every factory a supply of water fit for drinking consisting of at least as many gallons per diem as there are persons employed in the factory shall be provided.

(2) Such supply shall be derived either from a public supply of drinking water, or from one or more wells or springs so situated as not to be polluted or contaminated with organic matter or other impurities.

(3) Proper arrangement shall be made for maintaining in drained and cleanly condition the area round the place where the water is distributed.

(4) The water shall be supplied to the operatives free of cost.

21. All belts shall be regularly examined to see that they are kept at proper tension.

Notice of accidents.

22. (1) Notice of accidents resulting in death, or causing such severe injury that there is no reasonable hope that the injured person will be able to return to work within 48 hours, shall be sent by telegraph, or telephone where this is possible, and otherwise by messenger or registered post within 12 hours of the occurrence to—

(a) the Inspector ;

(b) the District Magistrate.

(2) In case of any accident resulting in death, notice shall also be sent within the same time and by similar agency to the officer in charge of the police station for the area in which the factory is situated.

(3) If the notice is sent by special messenger, it shall be in form D attached to these rules, and if it is sent by telegraph or telephone, it shall be confirmed by a written report in that form.

23. Notice of accidents less serious than those referred to in rule 22, but which nevertheless prevent the injured person from returning to work within 48 hours of the occurrence, shall be sent by post within twenty-four hours of the expiry of that time to the authorities mentioned in rule 22 (1) (a) and (b) in form D attached to these rules.

24. In every factory where children are employed there shall be correctly kept up to date and written afresh from January 1st, in each year, a Register of Children in form E attached to these rules.

25. In every factory the muster roll shall, in the case of every woman and child, show the time of beginning and ending of each period of employment during the day, and opposite the name of the each child, shall be recorded his number in the Register of Children.

26. In every factory where a child, when at work, carries, instead of his certificate, a token giving reference to the same, such token shall have the number of the child in the Register of Children stamped upon it.

27. In order to enable the Inspector to see that the provisions of the Act for a weekly holiday are observed, the Manager of every factory, in which Sunday is not observed as the weekly holiday, shall keep a register showing the dates, whether Sundays or week days, on which the factory or any department thereof is closed.

Abstract of Act and rules.

28. (1) The abstract of the Act and of these rules required by section 36 of the Act to be affixed shall be, for textile factories, in form F attached to these rules.

(2) The abstract of the Act and rules required by section 36 of the Act to be affixed shall be, for non-textile factories, in a form similar to form F attached to these rules, but with necessary alterations approved by the Inspector.

(3) If the abstract of the Act and rules becomes illegible or defaced, a fresh copy shall be affixed.

Procedure in Appeals

29. (1) An appeal presented under section 50 of the Act shall lie to the Chief Commissioner, and shall be in the form of a memorandum setting forth concisely the grounds of objection to the order and bearing a court-fee stamp in accordance with article 11 of schedule II of the Court-Fees Act and shall be accompanied by a copy of the order appealed against.

(2) On receipt of the memorandum of appeal the appellate authority shall, if it thinks fit, or if the appellant has requested that the appeal should be heard with the aid of assessors, call upon the body, if any, declared to be the body representative of the industry concerned under sub-section (3) of section 50 of the Act, to appoint an assessor within a period of 14 days. If an assessor is nominated by such body, the appellate authority shall appoint a second assessor itself. It shall then fix a date for the hearing of the appeal, and shall give due notice of such date to the appellant and to the Inspector whose order is appealed against and shall call upon the two assessors to appear on such date to assist in the hearing of the appeal.

(3) An assessor appointed in accordance with the provisions of clause (2) shall receive, for the hearing of the appeal, a fee to be fixed by the Chief Commissioner, subject to a maximum of Rs. 50. The fee shall be paid by Government. But where assessors have been appointed at the request of the appellant and the appeal has been decided wholly or partly against him, the appellate authority may direct that the fees of the assessors shall be paid in whole or in part by the appellant.

Manner of service of notices

30. The despatch through the post, under registered cover, of any notice, order or extract of an Inspector's report sent under the Act or under these rules, shall be deemed a sufficient service on the occupier or Manager of the factory of such notice or order or of any directions contained in such extract.

31. Copies of the abstract of the Act and rules can be obtained in the English and Urdu languages from the Inspector at the price of two annas each. Copies of the Act and these rules can also be obtained from him in the English and Urdu languages at the price of four annas each.

ABSTRACT OF ACT AND RULES.

The Act.

All persons.

1. No person shall be employed before 5-30 A.M. or after 7 P.M. unless he is employed in a system of shifts approved by the Inspector.

2. There shall be after each six hours of work a stoppage of half an hour during which all work shall be discontinued except by persons employed in a system of shifts approved by the Inspector.

3. No person shall be employed in any factory on a Sunday unless he has had or will have a holiday on one of the three days immediately preceding or succeeding the Sunday.

Exceptions to (1), (2) and (3) –

(a) work by the supervising staff—clerks, watchmen or messengers;

(b) work in the mechanic shop—the smithy or foundry, the boiler house, the engine-room or power-house or in connection with the mill-gearing, the electric driving or lighting apparatus, mechanical or electrical lifts, or the steam or water pipes or pumps;

(c) work on the cleaning of walls, ceilings or other portions of factory buildings, tanks, wells, humidifying or ventilating apparatus, tunnels, blow-room flues or line shaft alleys or of galleries in ginning factories;

(d) work by persons engaged in oiling, examining or repair or in supervising or aiding in the oiling examination or repair of any machinery or other thing whatsoever which is necessary for the carrying on of the work in a factory:

Explanation.—Periodical cleaning is not included in the terms "examining" or "repair";

(e) work on the processes of packing, bundling or baling of finished articles or the receiving or despatching of goods:

Further exceptions to (1) and (2) –

(f) work on sizing, calendering, finishing, sewing and tailoring;

Further exceptions to (1)—

(g) work on cloth-printing, bleaching and dyeing.

4. No woman shall work before 5-30 A. M. or after 7 P. M. or for more than eleven hours on any one day.
Women only.

5. No child shall be employed before 5-30 A.M. or after 7 P.M. or for more than seven hours on any one day, and in the case of textile factories, no child shall be employed for more than 6 hours.
Children only.

6. No child shall be employed unless he is over 9 years of age and has obtained a certificate of age and physical fitness.

7. Every child when at work must have in his possession either his certificate or a token giving reference to such certificate.

8. No child shall use or attempt to use as his own a certificate granted to another child.

9. No child shall obtain two certificates under section 7 or section 8 of the Act, but if he loses his certificate, he may apply to the Certifying Surgeon for a duplicate certificate, the fee for which shall be four annas.

10. When a child goes to work in a new factory he must give up his token (if any), but must show his certificate to the Manager of the new factory.

11. No person shall employ or permit to be employed any woman or child in more than one factory on any one day.

The Rules.

1. All factories must be lime washed once in each year, and all wood work kept in a cleanly state.

2. The compound of all factories must be kept clear of all rubbish, filth or debris from which effluvia can arise; and all latrines must be kept in a sanitary condition.

3. For each operative must be provided at least 36 superficial feet of floor area and a breathing area of at least 500 cubic feet. Ventilating openings must be provided in the proportion of ten square feet for each operative.

The Manager of each factory must maintain a register showing the area of ventilating openings, and of floor space occupied by machinery and other fixtures, and also the measurements and cubical contents of each room in his factory.

4. Sufficient latrine accommodation must be provided; that for women being apart from that for men.

5. A supply of pure drinking water consisting of at least as many gallons per diem as there are operatives must be provided, for which no charge shall be made to employés.

6. Serious accidents must be reported within twelve hours of occurrence to the Inspector and the District Magistrate; less serious accidents within 24 hours.

7. Where children are employed, a register of children must be duly maintained, a fresh register being started on January 1st of each year.

In every factory the muster roll shall, in the case of every woman and child, show the time of beginning and ending of each period of employment during the day, and opposite the name of each child shall be recorded his number in the register of children. In every factory where a child when at work carries instead of his certificate a token giving reference to the same, such token shall have the number of the child in the Register of Children stamped upon it.

8. Where Sunday is not observed as a weekly holiday a register shall be maintained showing the dates, whether Sundays or week days, on which the factory or any department thereof is closed.

CIVIL AND MILITARY STATION, BANGALORE.
Municipal Office.

NOTIFICATION.

The 18th January 1913.

No. 8204.—In exercise of the powers conferred on them by Section 137 (1) (n) of the Bangalore Municipal Law, 1897, the Municipal Commission for the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore having made the following Bye-law for the "Regulation of grant of licenses for (1) digging for gravel or sand and (2) brickmaking within the limits of the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore" for use in the said Station and published it under this office Notification No. 6077, dated 12th October 1912, and the same having been confirmed by the Hon'ble the Resident in Mysore as required by Section 139 of the Law, the Bye-law is hereby notified for public information under Section 180 (3) of the said Law:—

CHAPTER III.—SANITATION AND OTHER PURPOSES.

BYE-LAW NO. 23—REGULATION OF GRANT OF LICENSES FOR (1) DIGGING FOR GRAVEL OR SAND AND (2) BRICKMAKING.

Bangalore Municipal Law, Section 137 (1) (n).

1. No person shall without a license from the President of the Municipal Commission dig for gravel or sand or for earth for making bricks or quarry stone.

2. A person who has obtained a license for digging or quarrying shall fill in all the pits dug by him and shall be held responsible for properly levelling the site on which he digs or quarries in such a manner that no injury is thereby caused to public works or public health. No digging shall be allowed below the level of the nearest drain.

3. Licensees under this Bye-law shall be granted only to approved applicants on their depositing with the Commission a sum of rupee one for every 100 square feet of the superficial area of the ground covered by the license as security for the proper filling in of the pits dug, and for levelling the ground.

4. In case of failure of a license holder to fill in the pits properly and level the ground to the satisfaction of the Municipal Engineer, the work may be carried out by the Municipality and the cost thereof recovered from the deposit made by the license holder, the balance of which shall also be liable to be forfeited to the Commission. Should the cost exceed the deposit amount, the excess shall be paid by the license holder or recovered from him in the manner provided by the Municipal Law for the recovery of the taxes imposed under that Law.

5. Licenses granted under this Bye-Law for digging or quarrying on Municipal land shall be for the official year, and a fee not exceeding annas 4 per 100 square feet may be charged for digging for gravel or sand and not exceeding annas 2 per 100 square feet for quarrying stone or for digging earth for brickmaking. Licenses for digging or quarrying on private land will be granted free.

6. The President may cancel a license granted under this Bye-law at any time during its currency, for a good and sufficient reason and the license holder shall not be entitled to any compensation therefor.

7. Breach of any of these rules shall render the offender liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding Rs. 50 and to a further fine which may extend to Rs. 5 for every day after such conviction during which the breach continues.

A. R. COX,
President, Municipal Commission,
Civil and Military Station Bangalore.

CHIEF CLERK'S OFFICE, HIGH COURT;

Fort, Bombay this 1st day of February 1913.

R. B. PATEL,

Chief Clerk.

THE CHIEF COMMISSIONER OF ASSAM, REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION.

Shillong, the 6th January 1913.

No. 40-R.—The following is published for general information with reference to section 42 of the Land Acquisition Act, I of 1894 :—

AGREEMENT.

Memorandum of Agreement made this 20th day of August 1912 between the India General Navigation and Railway Company, Limited, and the Rivers Steam Navigation Company, Limited, Companies (registered under the Indian Companies Act, 1892) and having their respective registered offices at Orient House, New Broad Street, London, and at Winchester House, Old Broad Street, London, (hereinafter called the Companies), of the one part and the Secretary of State for India in Council (hereinafter called the Secretary of State) of the other part.

Whereas for the purpose of the construction of a permanent steamer ghat land, etc., the Companies have applied to the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner of Assam for the acquisition under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, of the piece or parcel of land containing 3 bighas 17 cottahs and 8 chhataks or thereabouts, situate in the village of Kholacherra on Kusiarkul in the district of Sylhet and more particularly described in the schedule hereto and delineated in the plan hereunto annexed ;

And whereas the said the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner of Assam, being satisfied by an enquiry held under section 40 of the said Act that the proposed acquisition is needed for the aforesaid purpose and that the said work is likely to prove useful to the public, has consented to acquire on behalf of the Companies the piece or parcel of land hereinbefore described;

And whereas the said the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner of Assam has required the Companies under the provisions of Section 41 of the abovementioned Act to enter into the agreement with the Secretary of State hereinafter contained; Now this Indenture witnesseth that it is hereby agreed and declared as follows :—

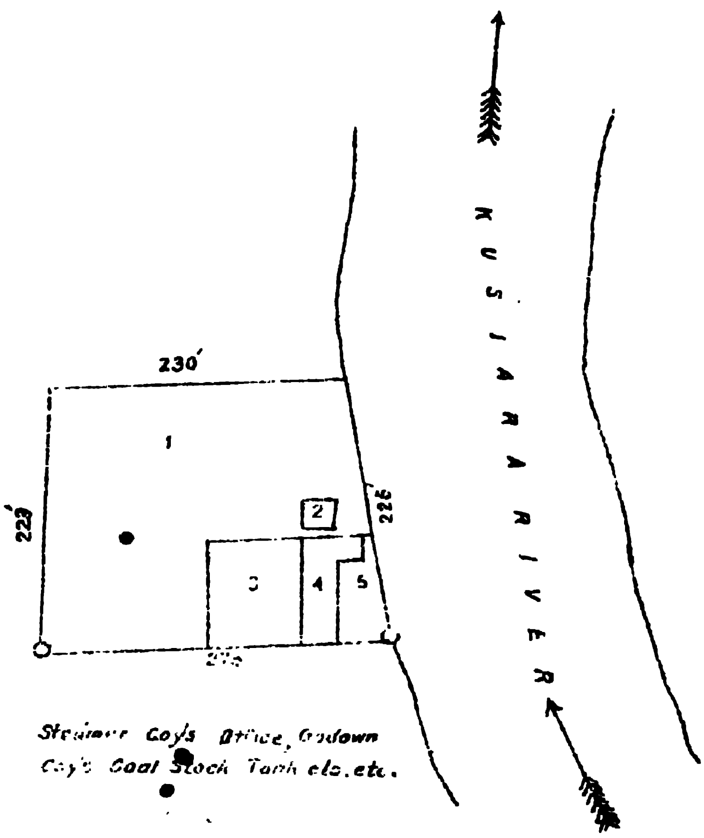
1. On demand the Companies shall and will pay to the said the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner of Assam all and every compensation in respect of the said land tendered, paid or awarded or to be tendered, paid or awarded, by the Collector under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, or by the Court to which a reference under Part III of the said Act may be made, or by the Court or Courts to which an appeal from the award of the said Court may be preferred, and all costs, charges and expenses of the proceedings in the aforesaid Courts, or otherwise incidental to the proposed acquisition or payable in respect thereof under the provisions of the said Act.

2. On demand made by the said Collector the obligations of the Companies under the last preceding clause not being thereby limited, the Companies shall and will deposit with the said Collector such sum or sums of money as in his discretion the said Collector may in anticipation estimate to be necessary for the purposes mentioned in the last preceding clause.

3. On payment by the Companies of all demands under the foregoing first clause, or in the discretion of the said the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner of Assam (on deposit by the Companies of all estimated amounts as provided in the 2nd clause), but not before possession shall have been taken under the provisions of the abovementioned Act, the Secretary of State shall make over possession of the said land to the Companies and shall execute and do all such acts and deeds as may be necessary and proper for effectually vesting the same in the Companies.

4. The said land shall be held by the Companies for the purpose of a permanent steamer ghat land, etc., as is hereinbefore mentioned and without the sanction in writing of the said the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner of Assam first had and obtained for no other purpose whatsoever.

5. The said permanent steamer ghat land, etc., shall be completed (and fully equipped in all respects ready for use) within one year from the date on which possession of the said land shall have been given to the Companies.



6. Should the said permanent steamer ghat land, etc., not be completed (and fully equipped in all respects ready for use, within the period stated in the last preceding clause or within such further period as in its discretion may be prescribed or allowed the said the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner of Assam, or should the said land at any time thereafter cease for a period of twelve consecutive months, to be held, and used, or cease to be required for the purpose or purposes provided for in the foregoing fourth clause, then and in any such case, the said Government may summarily re-enter upon and take possession of the said land and thereupon the interest of the Companies in the said land shall absolutely cease and determine.

No. 3.—The Resident in Mysore is pleased to direct that the following additions be made in the rules issued with his Notification No. 48, dated the 27th June 1912, for the grant of licenses for the sale of spirits, fermented liquors and intoxicating drugs in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore:—

Add the the following to rule 3 :—

"(19) License for the possession of toddy by persons using it in the manufacture of bread—Free of fee."

2. The annexed form of license (Bakery Toddy License) will be addded as form 19 of the forms appended to the rules referred to io the preceding paragraph.

FORM 19. Free.

BAKE Y TODDY LICENSE.

License for the possession of toddy by persons using it in the manufacture of bread.

I   , Collector of the Civil and Military Station, Bangalore, hereby license you   , residing at   to possess fresh fermented toddy in quantities not exceeding   gallons at a time purchased from toddy shop No.   for use in the manufacture of bread in premises No.   , from the 1st day of   191 , to the day of   191 , subject to the following conditions and stipulations to be observed by you, the said Conditions.

(1) This license extends only to the possession for use in the manufacture of bread of fresh fermented toddy in quantities not exceeding gallons at a time obtained by you from the shop aforesaid.

(2) The toddy obtained by you under this license shall not be sold or utilised otherwise than in the manufacture of bread, nor shall it be transferred to any other baker.

(3) As only fresh fermented toddy is suitable for the manufacture of bread, no stale toddy can be retained in the premises used for the manufacture of bread, under this license.

Any toddy which you may not use in the manufacture of bread must be destroyed before it becomes stale.

(4) The general transport permit granted to you along with this license shall be carried with every consignment of toddy obtained and transported by you from the licensed shop specified above.

(5) The premises used for the manufacture of bread shall be open to inspection by any Excise Officer not below the rank of Sub-Inspector and you shall be bound to furnish the Superintendent of Excise with such information regarding the quantity of toddy used in such manufacture as may be required by him.

(6) You shall also, if the Collector shall so order, maintain correct accounts showing day by day, the quantity of toddy received by you, the quantity used in the manufacture of bread, the quantity of flour operated upon, the quantity of bread outturned and the quantity of toddy remaining unspent at the end of each day, or such other particulars as the Collector may from time to time prescribe.

(7) You shall, at your cost, maintain intact an inspection note book with pages numbered consecutively, so that officers who may inspect the bakery may enter their remarks therein. The note book shall be handed over to the Superintendent of Excise or any officer authorised by him to receive it at any time, at such officer's request on receipt being given therefor.

(8) Any contravention of the above conditions will render you liable to a penalty not exceeding Rs. 20 or forfeiture of this license at the discretion of the Collector.

(9) The imposition of a fine or the cancellation of the license under the last preceding clause shall not be held to prevent your being prosecuted for any offence which may have been committed against provisions of the Excise Act, XII of 1896 or other law for the time being in force in this Station and relating to the Excise Revenue.

(10) This license may be revoked by the Collector without assigning any cause whatever on giving 15 days notice of such revocation.

Dated the day of 191 .

Collector.

Note.—This license is annual and a fresh one should be issued if the source of supply is altered.

No. 262-I.B.—Whereas the Governor-General in Council has full and exclusive power and jurisdiction of every kind over the railway lands specified in notification No. 261-I.B., dated the 10th February 1913, and over all persons and things whatsoever therein:

In exercise of the powers conferred by the Indian (Foreign Jurisdiction) Order in Council, 1902, and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to apply to the said lands (hereinafter styled "the Rajputana and Central India Railway Lands") the enactments specified in the first schedule hereto annexed, in so far as the same may be applicable thereto and subject to any amendments to which the enactments are for the time being subject in British India.

Provided, first, that in the enactments as so applied references to a Local Government, the Chief Commissioner, or the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority shall be read as referring to the Agent to the Governor-General in Rajputana or the Agent to the Governor-General in Central India, as the case may be, according as the said lands are situate in Rajputana or in Central India: references to a Secretary to the Local Government as referring similarly to the First Assistant to the Agent to the Governor-General in Rajputana or the First Assistant to the Agent to the Governor-General in Central India: references to a High Court as referring similarly to the Court of the Agent to the Governor-General in Rajputana or the Court of the Agent to the Governor-General in Central India: references to a province or the territories subject to a Local Government as referring to such of the said lands as are situate in Rajputana and in Central India, respectively: and, except where the context or the modifications hereinafter referred to otherwise require, references to British India as referring to all the said lands.

Provided, secondly, that the further modifications and restrictions set forth in the said schedule shall be made in the said enactments as so applied.

Provided, thirdly, that for the purposes of facilitating the application of the said enactments any Court in the Rajputana and Central India Railway Lands may construe the provisions thereof and any notifications, orders, rules, forms or bye-laws thereunder, with such alterations, not affecting the substance, as may be necessary or proper to adapt them to the matter before the Court.

Provided, fourthly, that subject to the provisions of this notification the Agent to the Governor-General in Rajputana and the Agent to the Governor-General in Central India, as the case may be, may direct by what officer any authority or power under the said enactments shall be exercisable in Rajputana and Central India, respectively.

II. The notifications of the Government of India in the Foreign Department mentioned in the second schedule hereto annexed are hereby cancelled to the extent noted against each.

Provided that all civil and criminal proceedings pending at the date of this notification shall be carried on as if this notification had not been issued, but that, save as aforesaid, all proceedings commenced, officers appointed or authorized, jurisdictions or powers conferred or confirmed, notifications published, rules or bye-laws made, orders passed and things done under any of the enactments specified in the notifications hereby superseded in the Rajputana and Central India Railway Lands, shall be, as far as may be, deemed to have been respectively commenced, appointed or authorized, conferred or confirmed, published, made, passed and done under the corresponding enactments specified in this notification.

Public Debt.

Delhi, the 7th February 1913.

No. 146-A.—In pursuance of Rule 22 of the Rules made by the Government of India under section 14 of the Indian Securities Act, XIII of 1886, and published in the Gazette of India of the 7th January 1888, page 6, the following list is hereby advertised of Securities lost or destroyed, in respect of which an order has been made for payment of interest pending the issue of a duplicate Security, or for the issue of such duplicate Security. All persons, other than the respective claimants named below, who have any claim upon these securities should communicate immediately with the Comptroller General, the Treasury, Calcutta.

The list is divided into two parts,—Part A being the list of Securities now advertised for the first time, and Part B the list of Securities previously advertised.

N.B.—Under section 18 of the said Act, Government will be discharged from all liability in respect of these original Securities after the lapse of six years from (a) the several dates stated against them in the last column of the list, or (b) the last payment of interest on them, whichever date is the later.

LIGHTING OF COASTS.

The 15th February 1913.

No. 950-1.—The following paper is published in the Gazette of India, Part I, for general information :—

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.

ORDINANCE No. XVII OF 1912.

An Ordinance to repeal in part Indian Act No. XIII of 1854 and make new provision for the maintenance of the light-houses of the Straits of Malacca.

(23rd December 1912.)

L. S.

ARTHUR YOUNG,

Governor and Commander-in-Chief.

Preamble.

Whereas with the view of abolishing the tolls leviable under the provisions of Indian Act No. XIII of 1854 upon ships departing from or entering the ports, harbours or roadsteads of the Colony an arrangement has been made between the Governments of the Federated Malay States and the Colony whereby the Government of the Federated Malay States has agreed to contribute to the cost of maintaining the Straits lights. And whereas it is expedient to abolish the said tolls :

It is hereby enacted by the Governor of the Straits Settlements with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council thereof as follows :—

Short title.

1. This Ordinance may be cited as " The Light-houses Ordinance, 1912 " and shall come into force on the first day of January 1913.

Repeal.

2. Indian Act No. XIII of 1854 and " The Light Tolls Act Amendment Ordinance, 1910 " are hereby repealed save in so far as the provisions of Indian Act No. XIII of 1854 relating to the collection of light dues are made applicable for the collection of light dues under " The Light Dues (Imperial) Ordinance, 1882 " by section 5 of that Ordinance for which purpose such provisions shall remain in full force and effect.

The Horsburgh Light-house and other light-houses to remain vested in the Government.

3. The light-house known as the Horsburgh Light-house situate on the Island rock called Pedra Branca at the eastern entrance of the Straits of Singapore and all such other light-houses as are now established in or near to the Straits of Malacca or Singapore together with the appurtenances thereof and all the fixtures, apparatus and furniture belonging thereto shall remain the property of and be absolutely vested in the Government.

4. The light maintained at the Horsburgh Light-house and all such other lights or beacons as are now or shall hereafter be maintained by the Government in or near to the Straits of Malacca or Singapore shall as heretofore be called "The Straits Lights."

"The Straits Lights."

5. (1) The management and control of the Horsburgh Light-house and other light-houses established in or near to the Straits of Malacca or Singapore as aforesaid and of the Straits Lights shall remain vested in and be maintained by the Government.

Management, control and maintenance of light-houses.

(2) No tolls shall be paid for any of the Straits Lights in respect of any vessels entering or departing from any port, harbour or roadstead of the Colony whether such vessel has passed or would pass any of the said lights or not but all necessary sums of money required to pay the cost of their maintenance shall, after taking into account the amount of any contribution paid towards such cost by the Government of the Federated Malay States, be provided for out of the revenues of the Colony.

6. The Governor may appoint an officer at each of the Settlements to collect the light dues required to be collected in the Colony by the provisions of "The Light Dues (Imperial) Ordinance, 1882."

Officer to be appointed to collect light dues Ordinance VIII of 1882.

Passed this 13th day of December 1912.

P. F. DAVID,
Acting Clerk of Councils.

AJMER; 11th February 1913.

HARNAM DAS,
Assistant Commissioner, Ajmer.

CIVIL AND MILITARY STATION, BANGALORE.

NOTIFICATION.

REGISTRATION RULES.

Bangalore, the 8th January 1913.

No. 2.—In supersession of the late Chief Commissioner's Notifications No. 202, dated the 14th August 1871, and No. 233, dated the 18th October 1877, the following revised rules, prepared under the provisions of section 69 of the Indian Registration Act, 1908 (XVI of 1908), as in force in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore, and approved by the Hon'ble the Resident in Mysore, are hereby published for general information.

These rules shall take effect from the 1st February 1913.

Rules under section 69 of the Indian Registration Act, 1908, as in force in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore.

PART I.

GENERAL RULES.

Languages. Section 19.

1. (1) Kanarese, Tamil and English shall be deemed to be commonly used in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore.

(2) The stamp vendor's endorsement on a document shall be considered to be a part of the document and, if it is in a language not understood by the registering officer, the party concerned shall be required to file a translation.

(3) When a power-of-attorney is presented for attestation or when an attested power-of-attorney is produced by an agent with, or in connection with, a document presented for registration and the power-of-attorney is written in a language not commonly used in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore, the registering officer may, if he does not understand the language, demand of the presentant a true translation of the power in English or in a language commonly used in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore.

(4) The translation shall be certified to be a true translation and shall be signed by the presentant.

(5) No fee is leviable for filing a translation in cases falling under this rule.

Territorial Division. Section 21.

2. The term "territorial division" in the Indian Registration Act, XVI of 1908, as in force in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore, shall mean the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore and shall, as far as practicable, include the town, village, hamlet, suburb or other well-known division in which the property referred to in a registerable document is situated. But if the property is described in the document relating thereto by a specific reference to a registered instrument, in which the above particulars and sufficient description of the property are already given, they need not be repeated.

Time.

Fines for delays in presentation and appearance. Sections 25 and 34.

3. The fines for delays in presentation and appearance under sections 25 and 34 shall be regulated as follows:—

When the delay does not exceed one week after the expiration of the time allowed for presentation or appearance.	A fine equal to the proper registration fee.
When the delay exceeds one week but does not exceed one calendar month.	A fine equal to twice the proper registration fee.
When the delay exceeds one month but does not exceed two months.	A fine equal to five times the proper registration fee.
When the delay exceeds two months but does not exceed four months.	A fine equal to ten times the proper registration fee.

Presentation.

Presentation of documents. Sections 32 and 52.

4. All parties bringing documents for registration shall take them with the fees payable direct to the registering officer and not to one of his clerks or peons. If there is any informality attendant on this presentation of a nature which can be remedied, the registering officer shall give the parties such information as may be necessary and return the fees and the document with a view to its being presented again in due form. If, for instance, the document is presented in the wrong office, he will inform them where they should go. If the parties have come without the prescribed fee, if an agent has come without a power-of-attorney or without such a power as the Act requires, if the description of the property is insufficient to identify the same, if the document is one which ought to be accompanied by a translation and copy, or if it contains a map of which copy is required for filing in the file book, or if there are interlineations, alterations, erasures or blanks which are not attested, the registering officer will explain what is wanted. If, however, there are none of these obstacles to the reception of the document, or if the document is presented again after these objections have been removed, he shall at once endorse on it the date, hour and place of presentation and take the signature of the presenting party to such endorsement. He shall also examine the date of the document. If the prescribed period is passed, but the document is still admissible on payment of a fine, he shall, if he is a Sub-Registrar, suspend its registration, pending a reference to the Registrar. If the document is one chargeable with duty under the Indian Stamp Act, II of 1899, as in force in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore, and is not duly stamped, it must be impounded under section 33 thereof and dealt with as required by section 38, sub-section (2), registration being suspended. Prior to sending it to the Collector, however, the registering officer shall be at liberty to record the admission of the executant and the examination of his witnesses, if any, in cases in which the document may be presented by the executant himself or in which he may be present at the office at the time of its presentation. If the document is one dutiable under the Court Fees Act, VII of 1870, and is unstamped or is insufficiently stamped, it should be simply returned to the party presenting it (vide section 6 of the Act), in order that the stamp duty or the deficiency in the stamp duty may be made good.

Information regarding stamp.

5. If the executant of a deed who is in doubt about the proper stamp consults a registering officer on the subject before formal presentation, the required information may be given to him without impounding the deed. It will be explained to the executant at the same time that if he wishes to obtain an authoritative opinion, he must apply to the Collector under section 31 of the Indian Stamp Act, II of 1899, as in force in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore.

Executing parties. Sections 32 and 34.

6. Any person who becomes surety for the repayment of a loan or the fulfilment of a contract and in that capacity affixes his signature to a document;

Any person who endorses a negotiable document;

And any person who signs a receipt or discharge endorsed on a document, shall be held to be an executing party.

In the case of documents purporting to be executed by an attorney, such attorney shall be held to be the executing party for the purpose of sections 32, 34, 35 and 58; but for the purposes of section 55, the principal and attorney shall be considered to be executing parties.

Identification of parties admitting execution. Section 34.

7. The identity of the parties appearing before the registering officer, should, if possible, be proved by the testimony of persons who are personally known to himself, or when this is not procurable, by the most trustworthy evidence which may be available. The attesting witnesses to a document need not necessarily be examined at all, as what is ordinarily required is not proof of execution but proof of identity. It may often be inconvenient to such persons to come in from their villages and they may, after all, be strangers or obscure persons with whose testimony the registering officer ought not to be satisfied.

Identification by finger prints. Sections 34 and 35.

8. The impression of the left thumb of the executant or executants of documents to be registered shall be taken in printer's ink off a flat piece of tin, copper or glass properly prepared for the purpose, and transferred both to the documents and to a blank register kept in the Registration Office. Against each impression in this register, the name of the party, the number of the deed in Books I, III, IV or V and the date shall be entered. The registering officer may require every executant and identifying witness who is not personally known to himself to affix such an impression both to the deed and to the register in his presence whether he can write his name or not.

Representatives. Section 34.

9. The term "representative" as used in the Indian Registration Act, 1908, as in force in the Civil and Military Station of Bangalore, includes not only the guardian of a minor and the committee or other legal curator of a lunatic or idiot but also the executors, administrators and heirs of a deceased person. Satisfactory proof of the right of any person to appear in any of these capacities must be adduced before he is permitted to admit or deny execution of any document presented for registration.

Enquiry before registration. Section 34.

10. It shall form no part of the registering officer's duty to enquire into the validity of the documents brought to him for registration or to attend to any written or verbal protest against the registration of a document, based on the ground that the executing party had no right to execute the document tendered for registration. But registration may be objected to on any of the following grounds :—

(a) That the parties appearing or about to appear before the registering officer are not the persons they profess to be.

(b) That the document is forged.

(c) That the person appearing as a representative, assign or agent has no right to appear in that capacity.

(d) That the executing party is not really dead, as alleged by the party applying for registration.

(e) That the executing party is a minor, an idiot or a lunatic.

Enquiry to be generally public. Section 34.

11. As a general rule, registration shall take place in public, but the registering officer may, on the application of the parties, and if he shall think proper, exclude the public during the course of any enquiry.

Enquiry relating to documents executed by persons unable to read or understand the language used. Section 34.

12. Documents executed by persons who are unable to read shall be read out, and, if necessary, explain to the parties. Documents written in a language not understood by the executing party, shall, in like manner, be interpreted to him.

Enforcement of appearance.

Summonses. Sections 36, 37 and 39.

13. Any person requiring a summons to be issued under section 36 shall deposit the process or peon's fee payable in such cases, as well as the amount of expenses to be paid to the person summoned. The sum so deposited shall be remitted by the registering officer to the District Judge, Civil and Military Station of Bangalore. If the person, without lawful excuse, fails to comply with the summons, the registering officer shall report the fact to the District Judge, Civil and Military Station of Bangalore, in view to steps being taken to enforce the attendance of such person under Order XVI, rules 10 to 13 and 17 and 18 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Receipts for documents and for fees Sections 52 and 61.

14. (i) A receipt shall be granted for each document presented for registration, for each power-of-attorney presented for attestation and for each sealed cover deposited and for every fee or fine levied by a registering officer.

An application for transfer of revenue registry presented with a document shall be acknowledged in the receipt for the document.

(ii) When the fees consist of several items, each item shall be separately entered both in the receipt and in the counterfoil so as to admit of any overcharge being traced. In the case of copying fees, the number of works shall be entered and, in the case of mileage, the number of miles.

(iii) The requisite entries shall be made both in the counterfoil and in the receipt, which shall be respectively initialled and signed by the registering officer.

(iv) The receipt for a document shall be handed to the person presenting the document or to his nominee, after obtaining in the counterfoil the signature of the presentant to the endorsement of nomination, and also the signature of the nominee if he can write, for the purpose of comparison when the nominee appears to take back the document.

(v) A separate receipt shall be given for each document even when two or more documents are presented simultaneously by the same person.

(vi) If a document is ready for transcription on the day of its presentation, the day and hour when it will be ready for return shall be endorsed on the receipt. In the case of a document retained pending an enquiry or a reference, the day and hour of return shall be communicated to the presentant or his nominee by a separate notice issued on the day when the document becomes ready for transcription. If, however, in the latter case the receipt is produced on the day when the document is ready for transcription and the document cannot be returned on that day, the information may be endorsed on the receipt itself. When a document is not ready for return on the date entered on the receipt or in the notice, the entry of that date shall, if the receipt or notice is produced before the registering officer, be cancelled and the probable later date on which the document will be ready shall be entered under the initials of the registering officer. Corresponding entries and corrections shall be made in the counterfoil.

(vii) A document shall, if possible, be returned on the date of its admission to registration.

(viii) In order to obtain delivery of a document the person entitled to claim back the same shall produce the receipt, and the registering officer shall thereupon obtain his signature to the acknowledgment in the counterfoil and return both the document and the receipt after endorsing on the latter the date of its return and initialling this entry. A person entitled to claim back a document who is known to the registering officer may obtain the return of a document by sending the receipt to the registering officer through a messenger with a requisition endorsed on the receipt and signed by himself for the delivery of the document to the messenger. The document may then be handed over to the messenger after his acknowledgment and thumb impression have been taken in the counterfoil of the receipt, the receipt being retained in the office and pasted to the counterfoil.

(ix) In the event of a receipt being lost, the person who should have produced it may receive the document on making and signing on the counterfoil a declaration of the loss and, if required by the registering officer, affixing his thumb impression thereto.

(x) When a nominee fails to take back a document within seven days from the date noted on the receipt as that on which it will be ready for delivery, the nomination may be revoked by the person by whom it was made, by an entry signed by him to that effect in the counterfoil and he shall in that case receive the document himself.

When a party to a document objects to its being returned to a person in whose favour the receipt has been drawn up, the objection shall not be allowed to prevail, unless such party can satisfy the registering officer, that he has applied to a competent court for an injunction to restrain the registering officer from returning the document.

(xi) When an impounded document is received back from the Collector after adjudication of stamp duty, the registering officer shall immediately give notice in writing to the presentant or to the person authorised to take delivery of the document either to take steps to complete the registration of the document, or to take delivery of the document.

(xii) When proceeding to attend at a private residence the receipt book shall not be taken by the registering officer, but the requisite receipt may be detached from the counterfoil for issue to the party concerned, the entries in the counterfoil being made after return of the registering officer to his office. In such a case any nomination to take delivery of a document shall be obtained on a slip which shall be initialled and dated by the registering officer and pasted on to the counterfoil.

(xiii) Clauses (iv) to (xii) of the rule do not contemplate the return of a document by post but a document may be so returned if a presentant desires this course to be followed and at his own risk, subject to the following conditions :—

(a) The presentant shall sign an endorsement on the counterfoil of the receipt authorising the return of the document by registered post and address to be specified and shall deposit with the registering officer a suitable envelope on which shall be superscribed the address and to which the postage stamps are affixed sufficient to cover the registration fee, the postage and the fee for obtaining the acknowledgment of the addressee.

(b) The registering officer shall secure the envelope after causing the requisite entries to be made in a register maintained for the purpose.

(c) When the registration of the document has been completed, the registering officer shall enclose the document in the envelope and post it and shall note the fact on the counterfoil.

(d) The acknowledgment of the addressee shall, on receipt, be pasted to the counterfoil.

(e) At each stage the corresponding entries shall be made in the register referred to in sub-clause (b).

Searches. Section 57.

15. The fee for a search shall entitle the applicant to read the entry for the finding of which the fee has been paid, or to have it read to him, but it shall not entitle him to take a copy of the entry. If a search should prove fruitless, the fee shall not be refunded, but the applicant shall, if he wishes it, receive a certificate stating that the entry sought for has not been found in the books.

Certified copies. Section 57.

16. In a certified copy every figure shall count as a word. If initials or abbreviations are used instead of words, every initial or abbreviation shall count as a word. Thus "A. D. 1866" will be equivalent to six words; "Bounded on the N. E." to five words; and "A. R. Thompson" to three words.

Searches by Government officers. Section 57.

17. Government officers who may require to search the registers or to take copies of entries for bonâ fide public purposes shall be permitted to do so without payment of any fee.

Requisitions from the Courts for searches and copies or the production of documents and registers. Sections 46 and 57.

18. In complying with any requisition made by a Court which involves a search or the preparation of a copy of any document, the registering officer shall forward to such Court a memorandum of the fees payable on that account, in view to the amount of such fees being remitted by the court to the registering officer. In like manner, when a registering officer receives a summons to produce any register books in Court, he shall apply to the Court issuing the summons for the payment of the travelling and other expenses to be defrayed by him, or by any of his clerks, in passing to and from the Court.

Hours of office. Section 69.

19. The office of the Sub-Registrar shall be open for six hours daily, Sundays and holidays excepted. The usual hours shall be from 11 A.M. to 5 P.M., and if it be found necessary to change these hours a notice to that effect shall, with the approval of the Inspector-General, be affixed in the office for the information of the public.

Any registration office may be open, if necessary, for more than six hours.

Residence of Registering Officers.

20. A notice showing where the registering officer lives must be affixed outside every office.

Holidays. Section 69.

21. The same holidays shall be allowed in Registration offices as in all other Government offices.

Destruction of unclaimed documents. Sections 85 and 69.

22. All unclaimed documents, other than wills, may be destroyed with the sanction of the Inspector-General when the period allowed, viz., two years, has been exceeded, unless the officer in whose custody they are should see some special reason for keeping them. In the event of a registered instrument being destroyed, a note showing the date on which it was destroyed shall be entered in the page of the volume in which it has been copied. In the event of the instrument being one of which registration has been refused, a similar entry shall be made in the page of Book II containing the order of refusal. Lists of documents lying unclaimed shall be hung up in every Registration office, and shall from time to time be published in the local Gazette. Notice shall also be given by letter, service bearing, addressed to the persons entitled to receive the documents lying unclaimed.

Refusal to register. Sections 71 and 76.

23. When registration is refused because the document has been presented in the wrong office or in an office in which the acceptance of the document is left to the discretion of the Registrar, no order of refusal shall be entered in Book II. In all other cases the reason, or if there is more than one reason, all the reasons for refusal shall be at once recorded. They will usually come under one or more of the following heads:—

Section 19.

I. That the document is written in a language which the registering officer does not understand and which is not commonly used in the Station, and that it is unaccompanied by a true translation and a true copy.

Section 20.

II. That it contains unattested interlineations, blanks, erasures or alterations.

Sections 21 (1) (2) and Section 22.

III. That the description of the property is insufficient to identify it.

Section 21 (3).

IV. That the document is unaccompanied by copy or copies of any map or plan which it contains.

Sections 23, 24, 25, 72, 75 and 77.

V. That it is presented after the prescribed time.

Sections 32, 33, 40 and 43.

VI. That it is presented by a person who has no right to present it.

Section 34.

VII. That the executing parties or their representatives, assigns, or agents have failed to appear within the prescribed time.

Sections 34 and 43.

VIII. That the registering officer is not satisfied as to the identity of any person appearing before him, and alleging that he has executed the document.

Sections 34 and 40.

IX. That the registering officer is not satisfied as to the right of any person appearing as a representative, assign or agent so to appear.

Section 35.

X. That execution is denied by any person purporting to be an executing party or by his agent.

Section 35.

XI. That the person purporting to have executed the document is a minor, an idiot, or a lunatic.

Section 35.

XII. That execution is denied by the representative or assign of any deceased person by whom the document purports to have been executed.

Sections 35 and 41.

XIII. That the alleged death of any person by whom the document purports to have been executed has not been proved.

Section 41.

XIV. That the registering officer is not satisfied as to the fact of execution, in the case of any will or authority to adopt, presented after the death of the testator or donor.

Section 42.

XV. That a cover containing a will is not sealed, or is not superscribed with the name of the testator and that of his agent (if any), and the nature of the document.

Sections 80, 25 and 34.

XVI. That the prescribed fees or fines have not been paid.

24. The Sub-Registrar is not authorized by law to refuse to register a document which has been executed by himself or in his own favour or because he is a party interested remotely or indirectly, in the transaction to which such document relates; nor is he authorized to refuse to authenticate powers-of-attorney granted for the registration of such documents; but he will always recommend the parties to present such document or power-of-attorney to the Registrar, who will, as provided in the table of fees, register such document without charging the usual extra fee. If the parties, after being recommended as above, insist on the Sub-Registrar registering a document in which he is interested, he must register it. In this case, he will immediately report the fact for the information of the Registrar.

Registration of documents in which Sub-Registrar is interested. Section 30 (1).

FEES AND FINES.

25. It is for the registering officer, who is responsible for levying the fee, to determine in the first instance what fee should be paid. After it has been paid, the presenting party may, if he is dissatisfied, refer the question to the Registrar who shall, if he thinks there has been an overcharge, order the Sub-Registrar to refund any excess. If the decision is adverse to the party, he may make a further reference to the Inspector-General.

Sections 78, 79 and 80

26. (i) In the event of registration being refused, any fee or fine which may have been levied shall be refunded except fees for commissions, summonses, attendances and travelling allowances where such fees and allowances have been earned.

(ii) Every application for the remission of a fine or fee shall be lodged in the first instance with the registering officer who levied it, for submission to the sanctioning authority through the proper channel.

(iii) The Registrar may himself dispose of applications for the refund of fees or fines collected in excess or for work not performed by the department.

27. (i) Whether a document is admitted to registration or not, all fees or fines shall be at once brought to account and the collection shall be remitted to the Honourable the Resident's Treasury whenever they reach Rs. 100 and always on the last working day of the month.

(ii) A remittance to the treasury shall be accompanied by the chellan book, duly filled up in duplicate, in view to one copy of each chellan being returned signed by the treasury officer.

28. (i) A separate attestation fee shall be levied on every signature requiring authentication in a power-of-attorney executed by several persons provided that only one attestation fee shall be levied when a person executes a power-of-attorney both for himself and as guardian or agent of one or more other persons.

(ii) The duplicate or triplicate of the power-of-attorney presented for authentication shall be treated as a separate power and a separate attestation fee levied thereon.

29. If the registering officer is required to attend at the same time and place for the purpose of attesting several signatures to a joint power-of-attorney, or of attesting several powers-of-attorney executed by one person, only one attendance fee shall be levied.

Fees for attending at private residences. Sections 78, 79 and 80.

30. Documents executed by a Government officer or by any one of the public functionaries named in section 88, as well as documents executed on the one part by such Government officer or public functionary and on the other part by any other person, shall not be admitted to registration unless they are presented at the proper Registration office by such other person or by a person claiming under the same or by the agent, representative or assign of any of these persons, respectively, or unless they are forwarded for registration by the Government officer or public functionary executing the same.

Documents executed by Government officers and other public functionaries. Section 88.

PART II.

DEPARTMENTAL RULES.

31. The seal shall always remain in the personal custody of the registering officer. Care shall be taken to produce a distinct and legible impression with it, and for this purpose the pad and printing ink supplied for the purpose shall be used. The seal shall be used in authenticating :—

Seals. Section 15.

(a) The certificate endorsed on a registered instrument under section 60.

(b) Powers-of-attorney attested by a Registrar or Sub-Registrar under section 33.

(c) Commissions issued under sections 33 and 38.

(d) Certified copies of entries under section 57.

(e) Copies of orders of refusal to register, granted under sections 71 and 76.

(f) Copies granted to parties, of entries other than those above referred to.

(g) Certificates granted to applicants as regards registered transactions affecting immoveable property.

If a registering officer should find himself temporarily unprovided with the prescribed seal, registration shall nevertheless go on as usual, and such documents as may be admitted to registration shall remain in the registering officer's custody until the seal can be affixed to the certificate.

Forms, paging, etc., of registers. Sections 16 and 51.

32. The registers shall be prepared in the forms hereunto appended. Books I and IV shall ordinarily contain 500 pages each; in other cases the Inspector-General shall certify the number of pages. Where necessary more than one volume may be used simultaneously for the registration of the documents, and the order in which documents shall be entered in each volume shall be determined by the registering officer with reference to such general instructions as may be given by the Inspector-General from time to time. Books II, III and V shall contain 120 pages each, except in cases where the Inspector-General certifies the number of pages. A file book shall also be supplied, corresponding with Book I and similarly paged. In it shall be filed all true copies and translations of documents received under sections 19 and 62, all copies of maps and plans mentioned in section 21 and copies of certificates received under section 89. This volume shall have a number assigned, to it in the general series of Book I, as soon as it is brought into use and when complete, it shall, if necessary, be bound.

Supply of books and forms. Section 16.

33. Books for registers and indexes will be supplied for the use of the Registrar and Sub-Registrar from the Office of the Inspector-General, by whom the number of pages contained in each book will be certified on the fly leaf. Every Registrar and Sub-Registrar shall, at all times, have a reserve supply consisting of one additional copy of each book, except register Nos. II, III, and V, and will submit timely indents for further supplies. Every blank book shall be carefully examined by the registering officer on receipt, and if found incomplete it shall at once be returned to the officer from whom received, with a memorandum stating in what particulars it is defective. No officer should ever be unprovided with the requisite registers, but, if owing to any unavoidable accident, such a contingency should arise, instruments tendered for registration shall, nevertheless, be received as usual, the necessary inquiries shall be held, and the prescribed endorsements shall be made. But as the certificate cannot be added until the instrument is copied into the register, the instrument must remain in the registering officer's custody until the process of registration has been completed.

Notes of interlineations, erasures or alterations. Section 20.

34. Notes of interlineations, erasures or alterations in documents or in endorsements thereon must be so prepared as to show precisely what word or words have been interlined, erased or altered. In the majority of cases, the simplest plan will be to underscore the particular word or words and to write the letters a, b, c, d, above with corresponding footnotes, preceded by the expression "in document," interlineations, etc.

(a) interlineation (or erasure, etc.)

Notes of clerical errors. Section 20.

35. If a word in the original is misspelt, or if a word is by mistake repeated, or if some word necessary to complete the sense is omitted, the error or omission may be indicated by underscoring the word or words in which it occurs and by writing a letter or figure above, with a corresponding footnote,— but no attempt shall be made to correct the error or supply the omission.

Notes of blanks. Section 20.

36. Sometimes a space is left in a document for a name, date or word which is never filled up. In such cases a letter or figure may be entered in the blank space with a corresponding footnote,—

Notes of interlineations, etc., in the copy made in the register.

37. Notes, similar to those mentioned in Rules 34 to 36, should be made also in regard to interlineations, erasures, alterations, etc., made in the copies of documents entered in the registers. The particular word or words interlined, erased, altered, etc., in the copy should be bracketted in black ink and the figures (1), (2), (3), (4), entered above them with corresponding footnotes, preceded by the expression, "in register, interlineations, etc."

Re-registration. Sections 24, 72, 75 and 77.

38. In all cases of re-registration under section 24 and of registration ordered under sections 72, 75 and 77, the document shall be copied in the register in the column headed "copy of document" and the endorsement and certificate and registration as well as the endorsements of previous presentation and refusal, and certificate of registration shall be transcribed in the column of endorsement, so as to show in chronological order the several stages of procedure gone through in regard to it.

Attendance at private residences. Section 31.

39. If a registering officer acts under section 31, he must go in person, provided that it does not interfere with the regular business of the office. The Sub-Registrar shall report every such attendance to the Registrar, who shall satisfy himself that the special cause assigned was a sufficient cause, and that the Sub-Registrar's absence from his office was not longer than was necessary.

Powers of attorney. Section 33.

40. (a) If a power of attorney is executed before a registering officer, he shall, after satisfying himself of the identity of the party appearing, authenticate it in the following form :—

Executed in my presence this day of 19 , by A. B., who is personally known to me, or whose identity is proved by C. D., (addition), and E. F. (addition).

Seal. Signature.

(b) If the power-of-attorney has not been executed before the registering officer, but has been ascertained to have been voluntarily executed in the manner prescribed in section 33, the form of authentication shall be as follows :—

I certify that I have satisfied myself that this power-of-attorney has been voluntarily executed by the person purporting to be the principal.

Seal.

Date. Signature.

(c) If a document is presented for registration under a special power-of-attorney, the power shall be retained and filed in the office with the following endorsement :—

No. of 19 .

Presented with document No. of 19 , of Book , Vol.

A. B.,
Sub-Registrar.

Date.

(d) If a document is presented for registration under a general power-of-attorney, the power shall be returned with the following endorsement :—

Presented with document No. of 19 , of Book , Vol. .

A.B.,
Sub-Registrar.

Date.

(e) If the execution of a document, presented for registration by the claimant thereunder, is admitted by an agent under a power-of-attorney, the following endorsement shall be made on the power which will be retained and filed or returned according as it is a special or general power :—

Presented in connection with document No. of 19 , of Book , Vol.

A.B.,
Sub-Registrar.

Date.

(f) Although a power-of-attorney may be registered like any other instrument, it is not valid for registration purposes unless attested. When powers-of-attorney are brought to a Registration office by persons who do not understand the distinction between attestation and registration it will be the duty of the registering officer to explain the difference and to give such information as may be necessary to prevent the parties from being subjected to unnecessary expense by the registration of powers which need only to be attested.

(g) All special powers-of-attorney filed shall either be pasted in successive order into a book or bound up together, when sufficient in number to constitute a volume.

Abstracts of powers-of-attorney. Section 33.

41. Abstracts should be retained in every Registration office of all powers-of-attorney attested by registering officers under section 33, whether such powers are general or special, registered or not registered.

Notes of interlineations, etc., in powers-of-attorney.

42. All interlineations, blanks, erasures or alterations in powers-of-attorney authenticated under section 33, should, at the time of authentication, be detailed in a foot-note signed by the registering officer. When there are no interlineations, etc., the fact should be noted in the same way. This foot-note will be copied in every case in the abstract kept under rule 41.

Persons exempt from personal attendance. Sections 33 and 38.

43. Persons exempt by law from personal attendance in Court are, under sections 132 and 133 of the Civil Procedure Code, Act V of 1908 :— .

(a) Gosha women, or women who according to the customs and manners of the country ought not to be compelled to appear in public.

(b) Persons of rank specially exempted by Government.

A list of persons so exempted shall be obtained from the Resident's Court by the Registrar, and communicated to the Sub-Registrar.

Commissions.

44. Commissions issued under section 33 and section 38 shall be prepared in the form hereunto appended and shall ordinarily be addressed by the registering officer to one of his clerks—vide also sections 76 and 76 and Order XXVI rules 1—8 of the Civil Procedure Code.

(a) When the commission has been executed, the Commissioner shall return the document to the office from which it was issued with a report, which shall be endorsed on the document, in the following terms :—

" Having visited the residence of A.B., son of C.D., at I have this day examined the said A.B., who has been identified to my satisfaction by E.F., son of G.H., etc., residents of , and the said A.B., admitted (or denied) the execution of this document."

Thumb impression. Full Signature of Executants.
Do. of Witnesses.
Do. of Commissioner.

(i) Where receipt of consideration is acknowledged before the Commissioner, he shall add the following clauses to his above report :—

" And acknowledged receipt of Rs. (or goods to be specified) being consideration in whole (or in part).

(ii) Where consideration is paid in the presence of the Commissioner, he shall add the following to his report :—

" I also certify that Rs. (or goods to be specified) were paid (or delivered) in my presence to the said A.B., by..........................

The signature of the payer also should be taken below this report, as provided in the specimen form of endorsement in Appendix II B. and C.

On receiving the Commissioner's report, the registering officer shall, if satisfied as to the execution, make the following endorsement below it :—

" From the above report, I am satisfied that this document has been voluntarily executed by the said A. B."

Q. R.,

Date. Registrar.

In the cases (i) and (ii) referred to above, the registering officer shall add to his endorsement the following :—

" For consideration of Rs. acknowledged to have been received by him (or* for consideration of Rs. paid to him by in the presence of the Commissioner)."

Sections 33 and 38 of the Registration Act, and Order XXVI, rule 17 of the Civil Procedure Code.

(b) A Commissioner may examine witnesses in the same manner as a registering officer, and persons refusing to give testimony to a Commissioner on being required to do so shall be subject to the penalties and punishments which they would incur for the same offence if committed in a registration office.

(c) It shall be competent to a registering officer to examine the Commissioner personally in his office touching any of the circumstances connected with the discharge of his commission, especially with reference to the voluntary nature of the admission of execution.

Deposit and withdrawal of sealed covers. Sections 43 and 44.

45. Every entry made in Book V under section 43, shall be dated and signed by the Registrar. When a sealed cover is withdrawn under section 44, the entry relating thereto, made in Book V, shall be signed by the person by whom the withdrawal is made as well as by the Registrar.

46. When a sealed cover containing a will is opened under section 45 the following endorsement shall be made on the will:—

"Having satisfied myself that the testator hereof is dead, the sealed cover containing this will is opened on the application and in the presence of (name and address) this day of 19 ."

A. B.,
Registrar.

"This will has been registered in Book III as No. of 19 , volume pages

Date. A. B.,

Registrar.

47. When a sealed cover is opened under an order of a Civil Court under section 46, the fact shall be noted in Book V in the column headed number of document in Book III, and the following endorsement made on the will itself:—

"Opened and registered in Book III as No. of 19 , volume , page , and removed into Court pursuant to order of Court, dated

Date. A. B.,
Seal.
Registrar.

Copying of documents. Section 52.

48. The registers shall be maintained in accordance with such instructions as the Inspector-General of Registration may from time to time prescribe, provided that no erasures shall be permitted and that every page shall contain a uniform number of lines.

Registration of duplicates of documents.

49. When two or more copies of the same document are brought for registration simultaneously it shall not be necessary to enter the document more than once in the register, but all the endorsements shall be written upon each copy.

Note in Book I of the last previous registration. Section 62.

50. Book I shall be so prepared as to admit as far as possible of the various conveyances, mortgages, leases, etc., of any property entered in it being traced back in successive order through the different volumes in which they appear. When therefore a document is admitted to registration, the registering officer shall ascertain from the parties the number or date of the last registration affecting the property to which it relates, and if the registration can be traced either by the production of the last instrument registered or by the number or date given by the parties, a note shall be entered in the register referring to the number, page and volume of this last previous registration. The information given should be verified, if necessary, by a reference to the records of the office, free of charge.

Authentication of registers. Sections 52 and 69.

51. After a document and the endorsement and certificate on it have been copied into the register, the registering officer shall personally ascertain the correctness of the copy and of the notes of interlineations, etc., by having the original read aloud to him by some person other than the copyist, while he has the register before him. He shall initial every page and affix his signature at the foot of the copy of the instrument, before the original instrument is returned to the party. He shall also initial all corrections, interlineations and erasures. In the event of the registering officer being prevented by pressure of business or any other cause from personally comparing the original with the copy in the register, he may delegate this duty to one of his clerks. Both the copyist and the examiner shall sign the record and enter the words "copied by" or "examined by." If a register is under any special circumstances closed before it is full, a certificate shall be entered at the foot of the last entry stating that the book ends there. If one or more pages are by oversight left blank in any part of a volume, a certificate to that effect shall be entered in each page so left. And no additional pages shall on any pretence be inserted in any volume.

Registration of receipts, discharges and transfers endorsed upon registered documents. Section 53.

52. When an instrument is executed in the form of an endorsement written across or at the foot or back of any previously registered document, as in the case of an assignment of a lease or the transfer of any other interest, or of a receipt or discharge acknowledging the receipt of consideration money or the receipt of any principal, interest, annuity or other periodical payment secured by the registered intrument, such endorsement shall, if presented for registration, be numbered, and registered as a separate instrument and a note shall be entered in the register showing that it was written across, or at the foot or back of such previously registered instrument. If the endorsement was made on an unregistered instrument, the instrument as well as the endorsement shall be copied in the register and a note entered below the certificate of registration and above the registering officer's signature to the effect that the endorsement alone was registered.

53. The endorsements prescribed in sections 52 and 58 and the certificate prescribed in section 60 shall be written in the registering officer's own hand in the form hereunto appended, or as near thereto as circumstances permit, unless he has been specially authorized by the Inspector-General to use endorsement stamps under rule 54. An executing party sha required to use the same language in signing the endorsement which he has used in signing the instrument.

Endorsements and certificates. Sections 3, 52, 58, 59 and 60.

If there is not sufficient blank space in the instrument for the endorsements and certificate they may be entered on a covering slip or rider. In that case, a note to that effect shall be entered on the instrument itself and signed by the registering officer.

When a document occupies more than one sheet of paper, the number of the sheet, the number of the document of which the sheet forms a part, the seal and signature of the registering officer, shall be endorsed on every sheet.

54. The Inspector-General may specially authorize any registering officer to use stamps for making, on documents presented for registration, the endorsements and certificate prescribed by sections 52, 58 and 60. The stamps to be used must be obtained on indent from the Inspector-General's offic ad must be kept in the personal custody of the registering officer and be kept in a sealed ; when not in use. The endorsements must be impressed on the documents by the registering officer himself, and no one else may, on any account whatever, be allowed to handle them. The endorsements and certificate must be signed and the blank spaces therein must be filled in by the registering officer in his own hand and stamps may not be used for affixing signatures.

Endorsement stamps. Sections 3, 52, 58, 59 and 60.

55. Indexes Nos. I, II, III and IV shall be prepared, lettered alphabetically, and shall contain the particulars shown in the forms hereunto appended. They may be prepared either in English or the Vernacular at the option of the registering officer, but no change shall be made in a language once adopted except at the beginning of a calendar year. If the indexes are kept in English, the transliteration of native names of persons and places shall be regulated by the transliteration table hereunto appended, except in the case of names which have become stereotyped by long usage in a conventional form. All names shall be entered in full. Initials shall not be used. If a person is known under two names each shall be separately indexed. All names of persons shall be indexed with reference to the initial letter of the surname or house-name, where such exists. When it does not exist, the indexing must be regulated by the initial letter of the person's name, his village name, or any other distinguishing name which he bears being entered afterwards if he is a Hindu, and if a Muhammadan any such prefixes as Syed, Mir, Shaik, Ghulam or such affixes as Beg, Khan, Shareef. If a native woman bears the house-name of her husband, father, etc., the indexing shall be with reference to the initial letter of the house-name, otherwise with reference to the initial letter of her own name. The names of companies, banks, etc., shall be entered under the initial letter of the first word of the name omitting "The" as "The Land Mortgage Bank of India" under L. All instruments to which Government is a party shall be indexed together under the letter G, one or more pages being specially set aside for these entries. English names if indexed in the vernacular shall be indexed as they would be written in the vernacular, as Wilson under V., Wright under R., Knox under N. The names of all persons executing documents shall be entered in one column and the names of all persons claiming under documents in another column. In indentures, deeds of partition, and similar instruments, the fact that the party claiming under the document is also an executing party shall be indicated by writing the name across both these columns. In the case of instruments executed by, for, or in favour of Government, or a Company, Bank, Religious Society, Pagoda, etc., in the name of any person representing or acting on behalf of Government, or the Company, Bank, etc., shall be entered in the column headed Addition of Person. Index II shall also contain a reference in red ink to the last previous registration of any instrument affecting the same property, if such previous registration be known.

Indexes. Section 55.

In the case of a will or an authority to adopt, the names of the testator or the donor shall be entered in column 1, and of the executors or other persons appointed thereunder in column 2, followed by the words "Executor or Person appointed thereunder" in brackets.

56. A copy of Indexes I, II, III and IV shall be prepared by the Sub-Registrar simultaneously with the original, and sent to the Registrar not later than the 15th of the following month, who shall ascertain that it is properly prepared and legibly written, and, if necessary, return any of the sheets for correction or explanation. If there are errors which he has power to rectify under section 68, he shall issue the necessary order. If there are errors which can not be remedied, he shall nevertheless point them out in order that they may not be repeated. The Registrar shall then forward not later than the 15th of the next following month the Sub-Registrar's index sheets in original to the Inspector-General's office for inspection and such further orders as may be deemed necessary, together with a copy of his instructions as also a copy of his own index entries for the past month, accompanied by a memorandum specifying the number of sheets belonging to each office. The indexes will, after examination in the Inspector-General's office, be returned to the Registrar to be recorded in his office.

Copies of Indexes. Section 56.

When all the indexes of the Sub-Registrar have been examined and arranged in order, they shall be bound in volumes containing each about 500 pages. The set of volumes containing Index I shall be distinct from the set of volumes containing Index II. If an index is bound up in parts, the title page shall show which part and what letters the volume contains. If several sets of indexes are bound up in a single volume, each shall be preceded by a title page showing the number of the index, the year and the office to which it relates. The same particulars shall also be shown on a label affixed to the back of each volume.

57. If in any special case an oath appears necessary, it may be administered to Christians, Jews and Parsees in the following forms :—

Oaths. Section 63.

"The evidence which you shall give shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. So help you God."

The following form of affirmation may be administered to Hindus and Muhammadans under the Indian Oaths Act :—

"I solemnly affirm in the presence of Almighty God that what I shall state shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

58. When execution is admitted and the endorsement is signed by the party admitting execution, and when witnesses are examined merely with reference to the identification of the parties appearing, the prescribed endorsement is itself a sufficient record. But a record of substance of statements shall be kept in the following cases :—

Record of substance of statements. Section 63.

(a) When execution is denied.

(b) When a person admitting execution refuses to sign the endorsement.

(c) When any enquiry is held as to the death of a deceased executing party.

(d) When any enquiry is held as to the right of any person to appear as the executor, administrator or heir of a deceased person or as the guardian of an infant or to the curator of a lunatic or idiot.

(e) When any enquiry is held as to the age of any person appearing to be a minor or the sanity of any person appearing to be a lunatic or an idiot.

(f) When any enquiry is held regarding the cause of presentation of documents or the appearance of parties after the prescribed period.

(g) When any enquiry is held as to the addition of any person owing to the addition not appearing either in the document or in the endorsement.

(h) When any enquiry is held under the second clause of section 41 as to the facts specified therein, in respect of a will or authority to adopt, presented for registration after the death of the testator or the donor as the case may be.

(i) When any enquiry is held under section 74 as to the fact of the execution of a document.

(j) And generally in all cases in which a record may seem necessary.

All such notes, with the exception of those under (h) and (i) which will be kept with the record of the enquiry, shall be recorded in a book, which shall be kept for that purpose in every registration office.

59. In the event of the Sub-Registrar failing to forward his returns of copies of indexes on the prescribed date or allowing any other arrears to accrue, the payment of pay to his office may be suspended.

Arrears of work. Sections 68 and 69.

60. In the event of any registering officer registering a document without collecting the prescribed fee or fine, he shall, unless specially exempted by the Inspector-General, be required to make good any amount which he may fail to recover from the parties.

Neglect in collecting fees or fines. Sections 68 and 69.

61. In the event of a document being inadvertently registered in a wrong book, the registration shall stand, but the Registrar may direct that the document with endorsement and certificate thereon shall be copied into its appropriate register without further charge.

Registration in a wrong book. Section 68.

A certificate should be endorsed on the document below the former certificate to the following effect :—

"Registered again under rule 61 in Book I, Volume , pages .

62. The office of the Registrar and that of the Sub-Registrar shall be provided with one or more good almirahs, substantially made and fitted with locks. Except during office hours, all registers, indexes, documents and other records shall be locked up in these almirahs, and the key shall remain in the possession of the registering officer. No person shall be permitted to remove any of the registers from the office, and every precaution shall be taken to protect them from the ravages of white ants, accidents from fire and injury from damp.

Custody of books and other records. Section 69.

Custody of sealed covers and wills which have been opened. Sections 16 and 60.

63. The key of the fire-proof safe in which sealed covers and wills which have been opened are deposited shall remain in the personal custody of the Registrar. Every officer assuming charge of a Registrar's office, either permanently or temporarily, shall compare the sealed covers and wills which have been opened with the entries in the Register of Deposits of Wills and Authorities to adopt, and shall report either that they all are correct, or that certain sealed covers or wills are missing.

64. The following records may be destroyed after the expiration of three years from the period to which they relate.

(1) Receipts for documents under sections 52 and 61.

(2) Monthly returns and routine correspondence.

The sanction of the Inspector-General must be obtained for the destruction of all books or papers, and no books, papers or documents shall be destroyed either under this rule or under rule 22 without the sanction of the Inspector-General being obtained.

Prosecutions. Section 83.

65. The Sub-Registrar shall forward to the Registrar a full report of every prosecution instituted by him under section 83.

Inspection of Sub-Registrar's books, etc.

66. The Registrar shall once in a year about six months after the annual inspection which shall be held in April every year, send for the registers and indexes of the Sub-Registrar for examination in his office, noting the date of examination after the last entry with his signature. The books should not be detained beyond 3 or 4 days, and until they are received back by the Sub-Registrar he shall receive and retain in his personal custody any document that may have been presented in the interval for registry, making on it the requisite endorsements, etc., without delay. The Registrar will forward to the Inspector-General copies of the notes made, and of the orders issued by him with reference to such examinations.

67. The forms appended hereto shall be adopted in the respective offices as far as possible.

P. B. WARBURTON,

Inspector General of Registration.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Rainfall summary for the seven days ending at 8 hrs. on Thursday, the 13th February 1913, based on the Indian Daily Weather Reports of the period.

1. The chief feature of the weather of the week was a series of thunderstorms in the central parts of the country and northeast India. Some precipitation also occurred along the western Himalayas, but over the rest of the country weather was practically dry.

2. Burma.—Mergui and Tavoy were the only stations which received rain.

Northeast India, including Orissa.—Thunderstorms occurred in Bihar and Orissa, Lower Bengal and Upper Assam. They were most numerous in Chota Nagpur.

The United Provinces, Central India and the Central Provinces.—There was but little precipitation over the western parts of the division, but in the north and east of the Central Provinces, Central India East and the east of the United Provinces showers were fairly numerous.

Northwest India.—There were local falls in the hills in the north of the division.

The Peninsula.—Nizamabad had a light fall on the 11th.

3. The chief daily falls were as follows :—

February 8th, Dehra Dun 0·48″ and Sutna 0·46″.

„ 10th, Mergui 1·06″, Allahabad 0·65″, Cawnpore 1·90″, Lucknow 0·55″, Jubbulpore 1·46″, Seoni 0·81″ and Pendra 0·50″.

„ 11th, Burdwan 0·35″, Berhampore 0·40″, Sambalpur and Chaibassa each 0·32″, Agra 0·24″, Jubbulpore 0·45″, Pachmarhi 1·00″, Pendra 1·24″ and Raipur 0·78″.

„ 12th, Tezpur 0·71″, Chaibassa 0·40″, Ranchi 1·47″, Hazaribagh 0·73″ Darbhanga and Allahabad each 0·41″, Cawnpore 0·48″, Jhansi 0·34″, Nowgong 0·38″, Sutna 0·35″ and Chanda 0·89″.

4. The rainfall of the week has been more than 20 per cent. in excess in Lower Burma, Chota Nagpur, the United Provinces East, Central India East and the Central Provinces; and has been equal to the normal in Assam, Bihar, Rajputana East and Hyderabad North. It has been more than 20 per cent. in defect in all the remaining divisions, with the exception of the following, where the absence of rain is a normal feature at this time of year :—Upper Burma, Central India West, the Konkan, the Bombay Deccan, Mysore and the Madras Deccan.

The rainfall of the season up to date is more than 20 per cent. in excess in Upper Burma and the Central Provinces East, and differs from the normal by less than 20 per cent. in Lower Burma, Kashmir and Malabar. In the rest of the country it is 20 per cent. or more in defect.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 8th February 1913.

Burma.—Light rain fell in two districts of Upper Burma. Threshing and winnowing of winter rice are nearly completed Agricultural operations for spring and summer rice and miscellaneous crops are proceeding. Standing crops are generally doing well. The price of unhusked rice has risen slightly at Rangoon.

Assam.—The week has been dry in Jorhat, Dibrugarh and Shillong where slight rain fell. Ploughing of land for early rice is going on in the Assam Valley and that for broadcast winter rice has commenced in Sylhet. Plucking of cotton is finished and the outturn is estimated at three-fourths of the normal. Gathering of mustard and crushing of sugarcane are still proceeding. Pruning of tea is still in progress. Fodder is insufficient in three districts and water is insufficient in the Khasi and Jaintia Hills. Cattle disease is reported from Sylhet, Sibsagar and Manipur. The average price of common rice has risen by about one per cent.

Bengal.—No rain fell except some light showers in parts of Khulna and Darjeeling. Harvesting of spring crops continues. Prospects of standing spring crops are good. Transplantation of summer rice and pressing of sugarcane are in progress. Preparation of fields for autumn crops is going on. The average price of common rice has risen by about 1·4 per cent compared with that of the previous week. Cattle disease is reported from places in Murshidabad, Khulna, Malda, Mymensingh and Noakhali.

Bihar and Orissa.—Light rain fell in the Patna, Gaya, Saran and Hazaribagh districts. There was no rain in the remaining districts of the Province. Pressing of sugarcane is going on. Preparation of lands for the next season's crops has commenced in some districts. The condition of standing spring crops and vegetables is good. The average price of common rice has fallen slightly in Bihar and has risen slightly in Behar and Chota Nagpur. The condition of cattle is on the whole good. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient throughout the Province. Prospects of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa are on the whole good.

United Provinces.—With the exception of light showers in Dehra Dun, Jhansi, Rampur and Tehri, the week was rainless. Rain is urgently required in almost all the Himalayan, Western Submontane, Upper Doab, Central Doab, North, Central and Central Submontane districts and in Gonda, Rampur and the uplands of Mirzapur. Standing crops are deteriorating in the Western Submontane districts. Slight damage by frost is reported chiefly to arhar and mustard from fifteen other districts. The condition of standing crops is otherwise good. Crops are ripening. Fodder and water are sufficient. In Mirzapur there are 1,827 persons on test works and 11,690 on ordinary canal works and water works, while in the Chakia district of the Benares States there are 5,334 on regular works and 2,512 on gratuitous relief Cattle disease is still widespread in Bundelkhand and sporadic in fifteen other districts. A general rise in prices has taken place in the north and west of the Province. Elsewhere prices are fluctuating with an upward tendency. Since the close of the week rain has been received over a widespread area.

Punjab—Light rain has fallen in most districts. More rain is urgently wanted. Pressing of sugarcane and harvesting of toria continue with outturn average to good. The condition of irrigated spring crops is generally average to good but unirrigated crops are in many districts withering for want of rain. Sowings of extra spring crops continue. Cattle are generally healthy, but fodder is becoming scarce. Prices show an upward tendency.

North-West Frontier Province.—No rain fell with the exception of insufficient showers in the Hazara and Peshawar districts. Rain is badly wanted throughout the Province. The weather is cool and at times cloudy. The condition of standing crops is generally fair on irrigated but poor on unirrigated areas. Pressing of sugarcane continues with outturn normal. Planting of sugarcane is in progress in Bannu. The condition of cattle is generally good. Fodder and water are scarce in Dera Ismail Khan. Elsewhere they are generally sufficient. Prices are high and rising.

Jammu.—There was slight rain during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 9 to 16 and maize from 12 to 25 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is below average. Cattle disease of mild type prevails in the Raisi tahsil. Fodder is insufficient.

Kashmir.—It rained twice during the week. Spring crops are in good condition. Prices are unchanged. Cattle disease prevails in some villages of the Kulgam tahsil and in Doru Niabat. Fodder is average.

Rajputana.—The weather was cloudy and cold. Slight rain fell in Haraoti and in the Ajmer district. Rain is badly wanted in some places in the eastern States. Spring crops are being irrigated and are doing well. Prospects are generally fair. Cattle disease is reported in a few places. Fodder and water are sufficient. Prices are generally high and stationary.

Central India.—There was light rainfall from thunderstorms in Bhopal and Bundelkhand. Rain is needed for spring crops in Gwalior. The weather continues to be cloudy and warm. Outturn of spring crops is expected to be excellent. Cattle disease is reported in parts of Gwalior, Bhopal and Bundelkhand. The fodder supply is ample. Prices are normal in Bhopal, above normal in Baghelkhand and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—The sky has been overcast and rain is reported from fifteen districts but only in two districts—Mandla which received 2·24 and Jubbulpore 1·61 inches—did it exceed one inch. No damage to crops has yet been reported. Harvesting of linseed and pulses has generally begun, while in Wardha and Bhandara harvesting of wheat has also begun. Prospects of spring crops are generally good. The supply of fodder and water is adequate but fodder is getting scarce and dear in Saugor, Wardha, Akola and Amraoti. The price of juar rose by 2½ seers per rupee in Chhindwara. Variations are unimportant elsewhere.

Feudatory States.—There was slight rainfall in three of the States. The condition of spring crops is generally satisfactory. The only change in prices is a sharp rise in Kanker of 3 seers per rupee in rice.

Bombay.—Standing crops are generally in good condition except for slight damage by insects in parts of Dharwar. Crops are withering in parts of West Khandesh and Ahmednagar. Harvesting of spring crops is in progress in parts of the Deccan, the Karnatak, Baroda, Rewa Kantha and Kolhapur. Cotton picking continues in parts of Sind, Gujarat, the Karnatak, Kathiawar, Cutch and Rewa Kantha. The fodder supply is deficient in Ahmednagar. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition and sufficient except in parts of Cutch. The condition of stock is deteriorating in Ahmednagar. Drinking water is generally adequate except in parts of Ahmednagar and Sholapur. Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of Ahmedabad, West Khandesh, Ahmednagar and Bijapur. Prices are high but steady. The public health is generally good. Grain stocks are sufficient.

The weekly report on the famine and scarcity is as follows:—Distress is not yet severe in Ahmednagar. It will probably increase on completion of the spring harvest. There is no wandering or emaciation. Emigration continues. People on relief are generally in good condition. The public health is good. Land revenue suspensions have been granted and takavi advanced freely for fodder. Government grass is being sold to needy cultivators at low rates. Measures for the improvement of the water supply are in progress. Charitable funds are being utilized for cattle kitchens and for the grant of clothing to dole recipients. The numbers on gratuitous relief for the week ending 8th February were:—Ahmednagar 15,445, Poona and Sholapur 1,381. Total 16,826.

Hyderabad.—No rain fell during the week. The spring crop is being harvested in many parts and its condition is generally fair to good except in parts of the Aurangabad, Bir and Usmanabad districts. Picking of spring cotton has commenced in the Raichur district but the crop is not so good as was at first estimated. Castor seed pickings continue. Other oilseed crops are expected to be light this year. Spring crops have sustained some damage from insects in parts of the Karimnagar district. Late rice sowings continue. Fodder is being imported into affected talukas of the Aurangabad and Bir districts. Suspensions of revenue have been granted. Distribution of takavi continues. Ordinary public works have been increased. Cattle disease prevails in 8 talukas. Fodder scarcity is felt in 15 and water scarcity in 9. Prices of food grains continue high and steady and are the same as reported last week.

Mysore.—Prices of food grains are generally steady. Markets are well supplied. Standing crops are in good condition. Harvesting operations are in progress and the outturn is fair. Prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Picking of coffee and threshing of rice continue. Prices of food grains have fallen slightly. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—There was light rain in Nellore and none elsewhere. Standing crops are fair to good. Harvesting of dry crops, paddy and sugarcane is proceeding with outturn fair to normal. Sowings of dry crops and paddy are proceeding normally in ports. The condition of cattle is generally good. Fodder and water are generally sufficient. Prices are falling.

RESOLUTION.

Delhi, the [illegible]uary 1913.

ASSAY FEES—CREDIT TO GOVERNMENT OF—RECEI[illegible]SSAY MASTERS FOR PRIVATE ASSAY WORK AND CONDITIONS UNDE[illegible] PRIVATE ASSAY WORK IS TO BE UNDERTAKEN IN FUTURE.

In the Resolution of the Government of India in the Finance Department, No. 124, dated the 12th May 1876, Assay Masters were permitted to retain any fees received by them for assays made for private persons, after crediting 4 per cent to Government for the use of Government laboratories, chemicals, etc., and assigning to the members of their establishment who assist in such private assays such portion of the fees as they think fit. With the approval of the Secretary of State for India, the Governor General in Council is now pleased to direct that in future this private assay work shall form part of the official duties of Assay Masters and their staff and that the fees received for this work shall be credited to Government.

2. The Governor General in Council recognises that in the case of officers already employed in the Department the withdrawal of the fees without compensation would be inequitable, and has therefore decided that suitable allowances shall be given to them.

3. The conditions under which assay work will in future be undertaken for private persons are laid down in the attached rules.

R. W. GILLAN,
Secretary to the Government of India.

RULES FOR RECEIPT OF SAMPLES OF BULLION FOR ASSAY.

1. Bullion may be presented for assay at the Assay Office on any working day between the hours 10-30 A M and 2 P.M , except on Wednesdays and Saturdays, on which days the hours will be from 10-30 A M. to 12 NOON.

2 The Assay Master will not accept custody of, or responsibility for, any bullion brought to the Assay Office The owner, or his authorised agent, must attend in all cases during the operations preparatory to taking a sample.

3 Bullion will, as a rule, be melted in parcels not exceeding 500 tolas in weight ; a dip muster will be taken of each melting, and about 1 tola of each muster retained by the Assay Master for purposes of assay The bars, stamped with numbers and the remainders of the musters, will then be handed over to the owner or his agent. The Assay Mas[illegible] not responsible for any loss incurred during these operations In [illegible]ses when a merchant brings bullion of quality below 900 fine, the assay report will not be on the whole bar but only on the sam[illegible]

[illegible] quantities of metal presented for assay, if less than 1 tola in weight, will be retained by the Assay Master, who will exercise his discretion whether to laminate or melt the metal, but in all such cases the process to which the metal has been subjected will be stated on the certificate of assay.

5. At the special request of the tenderer a portion of an object may be taken for assay, but in all such cases the certificate will state the fact, with details regarding subsequent melting or lamination, and it must be understood that no responsibility, express or implied, can be accepted regarding the fineness of the article from which the sample was taken

6 In cases where zinc is found alloyed with gold bullion and the fineness in gold is inferior to 900 per mille, an assay certificate may be given, but it will apply only to the sample taken and not to the whole bar, and the fact that the assay only refers to the sample taken will be specially mentioned in the certificate.

7 When assay certificates of bars are furnished they will be accompanied in all cases by a small test piece punched from the bar which has been weighed accurately to $\frac{1}{100}$ grain. The fact that such a test piece accompanies the bar, and its weight, will be stated on the assay certificate

8. At the time of sampling, a number only will be stamped on bars of bullion, or other articles On subsequent presentation to obtain the assay certificate, the Assay Office seal, and the fineness will be stamped on the bar in such cases as it will be allowable to stamp such fineness

9 It is to be clearly understood by merchants bringing bullion for assay to the Assay Office, that neither Government nor the Assay Master will be held responsible for the correctness of the certificates given. Nor can the Assay Master in any way guarantee that assays from sample, purported to be taken from large consignments, are indicative of fineness of the whole sample.

10. All fees are payable in advance.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

The Hon'ble Mr. Rama Rayaningar Venkataranga asked :—

"(a) Will the Government be pleased to state whether any portion of the grant of 50 lakhs a year for education which was announced at the Imperial Durbar of 1911 is to be expended on agricultural education?

"(b) Will the Government be pleased to state whether there are any public or private rural elementary schools of agriculture in the country? And, if not, whether it is likely that in the near future such schools will be brought into existence?"

[Sir Harcourt Butler ; Mr Rama Rayaningar Venkataranga ; Sir Robert Carlyle ; Mr Gillan.] [17TH FEBRUARY, 1913.]

The Hon'ble Sir Harcourt Butler replied :—

"(a) No portion of the annual grant of 50 lakhs announced at the Imperial Durbar of 1911 has been allotted for schools which exclusively devote themselves to the teaching of agriculture. Elementary curricula, however, now generally contain nature study and simple lessons dealing with crops, cattle, etc., calculated to impart the kind of instruction described in paragraph 21 of the Government of India's Resolution on Education of March the 11th, 1904. These curric[illegible] in p[illegible] schools, for the extensi[illegible] improvement of which (as well as for the exten[illegible] the principle of free education) 30 lakhs were [illegible] out of the above-mentioned grant [illegible] Government of India are not aware of the existence in the country of schools of agriculture of a strictly elementary character, nor of any likelihood of such schools being brought into existence in the near future A school of agriculture was, however, opened in Poona in 1910 for boys between 13 and 16 who had passed the fourth Marathi standard, and it is proposed to start similar schools in Southern Marhatta country, Sind and possibly Gujrat"

The Hon'ble Mr. Rama Rayaningar Venkataranga asked :—

"Will the Government be pleased to state what special attempts, if any, have been made to remove the general illiteracy of the peasant population in the country?"

The Hon'ble Sir Harcourt Butler replied :—

"The information is to be found in the annual reports on public instruction issued by the different Provincial Governments and in the quinquennial reviews issued by the Government of India. The Hon'ble Member is referred to these.

"A quinquennial review for the period 1907-1912 is now under preparation. The matter will be specially noticed in it."

The Hon'ble Mr. Rama Rayaningar Venkataranga asked :—

"Will the Government be pleased to state whether there is any proposal to open Veterinary Dispensaries in rural parts for the protection of agricultural cattle?"

The Hon'ble Sir Robert Carlyle replied :—

"There are already 353 Veterinary Dispensaries in India, and, although the returns do not in all Provinces show which of these are in rural parts, it may be presumed that the bulk of them are in rural parts, and that almost all of them are for the protection of agricultural cattle."

The Hon'ble Mr. Rama Rayaningar Venkataranga asked :—

"Will the Government be pleased to lay on the table the reports on the cattle survey and the food prices inquiry? If the reports are not ready, will the Government be pleased to say when they would be ready for publication?"

The Hon'ble Mr. Gillan :—"With your permission, Sir, I shall reply on behalf of the Hon'ble Finance Member to the Hon'ble Mr. Rayaningar Venkataranga's question

"The Government have not yet received the Prices Enquiry Report. It is expected shortly The question of publication will be considered after the report has been received.

[17TH FEBRUARY, 1913] [Mr Gillan ; Mr Rama Rayaningar Venkataranga ; Sir Robert Carlyle ; Sir G M Chitnavis ; Sir Reginald Craddock]

"As regards the Hon'ble Member's question on the subject of the Cattle Survey, I beg to refer him to the answer which is being given by my Hon'ble Colleague Sir Robert Carlyle to the question on a similar subject, which has been asked by the Hon'ble Sir G M. Chitnavis"

The Hon'ble Mr. Rama Rayaningar Venkataranga asked :—

"Are any [illegible] departments of agriculture in different provinces to popularize new ideas about agricu[illegible]?"

The Hon'ble Sir Robert Carlyle replie[illegible] :—

"I lay on the table a copy of the 'Third Report* on the Introductio[illegible] Improvements into Indian Agriculture by the work of the Agricultural Department' published in 1912 by a Committee of the Board of Agriculture which shows the steps taken to popularize new ideas about agriculture by means of Agricultural Associations, Local Demonstrations, Vernacular Agricultural Journals, Leaflets and Circulars, Agricultural Shows and Exhibitions, Itinerant Assistants, Seed Farms and Seed Depôts, the utilization of individual expert cultivators for the introduction of improved methods, Vernacular short courses, training sons of cultivators, assistance in marketing and connection with the Co-operative Movement"

The Hon'ble Sir G. M. Chitnavis asked :—

"With reference to the reply given by the Hon'ble Sir Harvey Adamson to my question regarding official tours on the 18th February, 1910, to the effect that opinions of the Local Governments had been invited on the proposals of the Royal Decentralisation Commission in this connection, and that copies of my question and the answer given by the Hon'ble Home Member on behalf of Government would be forwarded to them, will Government be pleased to state whether any replies have been received from the Local Governments, and, if so, to lay such replies on the table, and to say whether any, and if so what, measures have been proposed with a view to reducing to a minimum any inconveniences which may be caused to villagers by official tours?"

The Hon'ble Sir Reginald Craddock replied :—

"The attention of the Hon'ble Member is invited to the reply given to the question on the same subject asked by the Hon'ble Mr G M Bhurgri at the meeting of the Imperial Legislative Council on March 13th, 1912 The question is still under correspondence with the Secretary of State"

The Hon'ble Sir G. M. Chitnavis asked :—

"With reference to the reply given on 23rd March, 1910, to my question regarding cattle survey, will Government be pleased to say what opinion has been given by the Inspector-General, Civil Veterinary Department, whether, in the light of the opinion given by him, any definite recommendations have been made to Local Governments, and whether any other steps have been taken to collect information as a basis for a systematic cattle survey in all Provinces of India?"

The Hon'ble Sir Robert Carlyle replied :—

"No reply was received from the Inspector-General, and his office was abolished last year In the meantime the cattle question was discussed by a Conference held in the United Provinces in 1909, a memorandum on the cattle of the Central Provinces was prepared by Mr Standen, C S, on the basis of notes prepared by the late Mr Jethiji, Civil Veterinary Department, and a report on cattle and dairying in the Punjab was issued by Mr. Stow, C.S. On receipt of these reports, the Government of India advised Local Governments that the preparation of technical surveys should be preceded by the collection of general information somewhat on the lines followed in Mr. Stow's report, and it is understood that reports on these lines are under preparation, but it is not known when they will be ready for publication. Copies of the reports* by Messrs. Standen and Stow are placed on the table."

* Vide Appendix A.

[Sir Robert Carlyle ; Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoolla ; Sir Harcourt Butler.] [17TH FEBRUARY, 1913.]

The Hon'ble Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola asked :—

"(a) Will Government be pleased [illegible] whether, in pursuance [illegible] resolution passed by the Bomb[illegible]lative Council, the Government of Bombay addressed a [illegible]ation to them on the subject of throwing open the ports of [illegible] Chittagong and Madras for the embarkation of pilgrims to [illegible] Hedjaz ?

"(b) Will Government be pleased to state whether they have taken the matter into their consideration, and whether they propose to throw open in time for the ensuing pilgrim season all or any of the ports mentioned in the preceding interpellation ?"

The Hon'ble Sir Harcourt Butler replied :—

"The answer to clause (a) is in the affirmative. In regard to (b) the proposal made by the Hon'ble Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola in the Bombay Legislative Council has been carefully considered by the Government of India in consultation with the Governments of Madras and Bengal. It has not been found possible to accept it for the following reasons :

"As regards Madras neither this nor any West Coast port in the Madras Presidency is so situated as to attract many pilgrims from the Presidency. The latter, who, as it is, form only a very small percentage of the total number of pilgrims from India, will naturally prefer the cheaper and quicker route viâ Bombay.

"The port of Chittagong was open to pilgrim traffic from 1897 to 1903. In the last-named year, on the abolition of the provincial observation camps and the consequent removal of restrictions regarding place of embarkation, the pilgrims themselves abandoned Chittagong which was closed as a port of embarkation. Past experience has shown that Chittagong cannot compete with Bombay in the matter of pilgrim traffic, and difficulty was always experienced in obtaining ships of pilgrims, or a full cargo of pilgrims for ships.

"The port of Calcutta formerly open to pilgrim traffic was closed in 1897. The extent of the traffic had always been extremely small, and it is unlikely that such as there was in the past would return, should the port be re-opened, in view of the greater convenience of Bombay.

"In these circumstances the Government of India have, in concurrence with the Governments of Madras and Bengal, come to the conclusion that the opening or re-opening, as the case may be, of the three ports above mentioned while entailing considerable expenditure, will have no appreciable effect in reducing the pilgrim traffic in the port of Bombay which from its more convenient situation and other facilities must continue to attract pilgrims from other ports of India.

"They have, however, recently sanctioned the opening of the port of Karachi to pilgrim traffic, and trust that some relief will thereby be afforded to Bombay."

[17TH FEBRUARY, 1913.] [Maharaja Manindra Chandra Nandy; Sir Robert Carlyle; Mr. Rama Rayaningar Venkataranga: Sir Reginald Craddock; Mr. V. R. Pandit.]

The Hon'ble Maharaja Manindra Chandra Nandy asked :—

"(a) Will the Government be pleased to make a statement about the architecture of new Delhi, and whether any decision has been arrived at on the subject?

"(b) Have the plans advertised for been received, and have any prizes [illegible]rded? [illegible], will [illegible]es of the winners of the prizes be declared, and will the plans be opened to inspect[illegible] the public?"

The Hon'ble Sir Robert Carlyle repli[illegible] the [illegible]:—

"(a) No decision with regard to the architecture of new [illegible] yet been arrived at. Government is therefore not yet in a position to make a statement on the subject.

"(b) The designs for residences which were advertised for have been received, and the following premia have been awarded :—

Section B 2	Rs. 375 to Mr. Ram Rup Sharma.
„ C	Rs. 500 Do.
„ D	Rs. 175 to Messrs. Chas. Stevens and Co., Bombay.

"The designs were exhibited for inspection by the public at Hindu Rao's House at Delhi on the 6th and 7th February in accordance with the notification which appeared in the public press."

The Hon'ble Mr. Rama Rayaningar Venkataranga asked :—

"(a) Is it a fact that in the recent Imperial Legislative Council election many of the zamindars and landholders of the Madras Presidency who had gone to Madras in connection with various public functions, were not able to exercise their franchise owing to their inability to comply with the rule which requires them to record their votes only in their districts, and that only 79 out of 123 electors on the roll recorded their votes?

"(b) Is it a fact that in 1909 a special notification was issued permitting the zamindars to vote before a specially appointed Attesting Officer in Madras?

"(c) If so, will the Government be pleased to say whether they propose to modify once for all the election rules in such a manner as to enable the zamindars and landholders to vote on voting paper sent to them by the specially appointed Attesting Officers as is done in the election of the University representative in the Madras Legislative Council, or to give them the option to record their votes before an Attesting Officer either in their own districts or in the presidency-towns?"

The Hon'ble Sir Reginald Craddock replied :—

"(a) It is a fact that only 79 voters out of 123 went to the poll, but the Government of India have no evidence that the reason suggested by the Hon'ble Member was the operative cause.

"(b) The answer is in the affirmative, but the notification referred to applied only to a Provincial Council election, and its legality has since been called in question.

"(c) No modification of the election rules in the direction indicated is at present contemplated, but further inquiry will be made from the Local Government as to the existence of any real difficulty and the possibility of any remedy."

The Hon'ble Mr. V. R. Pandit asked :—

"(a) Have the Government of India received from the Central Provinces Administration their scheme for the constitution of the Provincial Legislative Council?

"(b) Is it a fact that a memorial signed by the numerous graduates of various Universities resident in the Central Provinces, other than those employed under Government, has been submitted to the Hon'ble the Chief Commissioner praying that until such time as the Provinces have a separate University of their own one seat on the Provincial Legislative Council be reserved for a representative of the graduates to be elected by them or by graduates of a certain standing as Government may deem fit to prescribe ?

[Mr. V. R. Pandit ; Sir Reginald Craddock ; Sir G. M. Chitnavis ; Mr. Gi ; Mr. Syed Ali Imam.] [17TH FEBRUARY, 1913.]

"(c) Has the attention of the Government been drawn to the fact that a meeting of graduates resident in the Central Provinces was he[illegible] at Nagpur on the 1st February [illegible] adopted, and it was [illegible] to request the Hon'ble the [illegible] Commissioner [illegible] a deputation on their behalf ?

"(d) [illegible]rnment be pleased to state whether they propose to pro-[illegible] for representation of the graduates of various Universities on the Council by means of election by the entire body of such graduates or otherwise ?"

The Hon'ble Sir Reginald Craddock replied :—

"(a), (b) and (c). The answer is in the affirmative.

"(d) The question is not one which affects the Central Provinces only, and there is no present intention of altering the regulations on the lines suggested."

The Hon'ble Sir G. M. Chitnavis asked :—

"Will Government be pleased to state whether they have received any information from the Secretary of State regarding the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into the India Office finances? If the answer is in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to lay on the table any official papers or papers which may be available on the subject for the information of the Indian public ?

"Will Government be pleased to state whether they propose to suggest to His Majesty's Government and the Secretary of State the advisability of appointing an official of Indian financial experience, and conversant with the financial policy of the Government of India, and a non-official Indian from the Commercial Community ?"

The Hon'ble Mr. Gillan replied :—

"The Government are not in a position to make any statement on this subject."

INDIAN EXTRADITION (AMENDMENT) BILL.

The Hon'ble Sir Reginald Craddock :—"Sir, I beg to present the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Indian Extradition Act, 1903.

"I propose to reserve any remarks on this Report until the next meeting, when I shall move that the Report of the Select Committee be taken into consideration."

ADMINISTRATOR GENERAL'S BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Syed Ali Imam :—"Sir, I beg to present the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the office and duties of the Administrator General.

"The Report will be before Hon'ble Members in due course, and also the amended Bill. Under those circumstances, it is hardly necessary at present for me to go into the details of the changes that have been suggested.

"The Report, it will be also seen, has not been signed by the Hon'ble Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya. The reason is that the Hon'ble Member, who was on the Committee, was unable to attend on account of the very onerous duties that have devolved upon him in connection with the very well-known movement of the Hindu University."

OFFICIAL TRUSTEE'S BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Syed Ali Imam :—"I also present the Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law constituting the office of Official Trustee. My observations in regard to this Bill are exactly the same as in regard to the one that I have already presented."

[17TH FEBRUARY, 1913.] [Mr. Jinnah; Mr. Ghuznavi.]

MUSSALMAN WAKF VALIDATING BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Jinnah :—" Sir, I move that the Bill to define the rights of Mussalman subjects of His Majesty to make settlements of property by way of wakf in favour of their families and descendants be referred to a Select Committee, consisting of the Hon'ble Mr. Syed Ali Imam, the Hon'ble Sir Reginald Craddock, the Hon'ble Mr. Wheeler, the Hon'ble Mr. Carr, the Hon'ble Mr. Eales, the Hon'ble Mr. Saunders, the Hon'ble Sir William Vincent, the Hon'ble Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, the Hon'ble Mr. Ghuznavi, the Hon'ble Nawab Saiyid Muhammad, the Hon'ble Mr. Qumrul Huda, [illegible] Hon'ble Mr. [illegible]lbhoy Currimbhoy Ebrahim, the Hon'ble Mr. Arthur, [illegible] Hon'ble Pandit Madan [illegible] Malaviya and myself. In moving this resolution, Sir, I do not wish [illegible] the time of the Council, because, when I introduced this Bill in March, [illegible] explained the objects and the reasons of the Bill. Therefore, at the [illegible] the motion before the Council is that it should be referred to Select Committee. Since March, 1911, the Bill has been before the country. Various criticisms and opinions have come from different parts of the country, from different associations and leading men. All these will be properly considered in the Select Committee. I am very happy, Sir, to say that the principle of the Bill has been universally approved by the Muhammadans of India. There is one thing I wish to say before I sit down, and that is this, that I am thankful to His Excellency the Viceroy and the Government of India that they should have nominated me to give me the opportunity of piloting this Bill through the Council."

The Hon'ble Mr. Ghuznavi :—" Sir, I now rise with your permission to make a few remarks with regard to the Bill which my friend the Hon'ble Mr. Jinnah has introduced in this Council, and which is now being referred to a Select Committee.

" At the outset, I have to offer him my sincere congratulations for having given his anxious thoughts and formulated a measure which seeks to remove certain serious disabilities under which the Mussalmans of Hindustan have been labouring since a long time past. This is a matter which has been exercising the minds of Mussalmans throughout the length and breadth of India. Therefore, since the introduction and the publication of this Bill, views and opinions both for and against have been pouring in from all sides. Judging from the papers that have been circulated to us in this connection, it appears that the consensus of opinion is in favour of some such measure, though not quite exactly as the Bill stands in its present form. The Local Governments of Bombay, the United Provinces, and Bengal (before the modification of Lord Curzon's partition) do not seem to have seen their way to support this measure, whereas almost all the other Governments, notably those of Eastern Bengal and Assam, the North-West Frontier Province, Madras and the Punjab have accorded their unstinted support. The former, I am afraid, who have looked upon this Bill unfavourably, took up their attitude from the fact that they seemed to have looked upon the decision of their Lords of the Privy Council as the laws of the Medes and Persians, and from that standpoint they seemed to have characterised this as an attempt on the part of the Mussalman community to overrule the Privy Council decision of 1881. This matter however concerns, Sir, the entire Mussalman community of India, and if it is found that their Lordships of the Privy Council have fallen into an error in deciding that under the Mussalman law it is not valid to create a wakf or endowment, the immediate object of which is to benefit and secure from want the descendants or relations of the wakif, there is no reason why the interference of the Government of India should not be sought.

" The Mussalmans of Eastern Bengal, from their recognised and veteran leader the Hon'ble the Nawab Bahadur of Dacca downwards almost to a man, are strongly in favour of some such measure. The same can also be said of almost all the Mussalmans of Western Bengal. One of the main reasons of their support to a measure of this kind is the sad spectacle of the disruption and ruin day by day of many Mussalman families of wealth and importance whose properties had been for years preserved in the families under the system of settlements known as the wakf-alal-aulad. In Egypt, Turkey and Arabia, and in most of the Native States in India, Mussalman families enjoy the protection of their wakf-alal-aulad. It is only here in British India that the decision of the Privy Council has spelt ruination to many an old respectable family. The law relating to wakf has been in force for many centuries, and has been cherished and valued by Mussalmans all over the world, as it is based upon the direct ordinances of the founder of Islam [illegible] to be valid, but encouraged their [illegible] by dedicating what little property he had in favour of his posterity.

"In [illegible], particularly in England, family properties and family prestige have been preserved intact for centuries owing to the primogeniture system and the law of entailment Younger sons knowing at the outset that they would be cut off with a shilling and would have to fall back upon their own resources start life with equipping themselves in order that they may earn their own livelihood. This act is a great incentive to their building their own fortunes, and in many cases acquiring by their own exertions and own merit properties sometimes perhaps as large as their own family properties. Thus whilst there, the tendency is for properties to multiply and fortunes to increase, here, from the constant splitting up of estates, properties gradually dwindle down till they disappear entirely from the hands of the members of the original family.

"The law of inheritance among Mussalmans is however a sacred law as laid down in the Koran, and no good Mussalman has any right to interfere materially with the spirit of that law. Hence we find that in Bengal itself one or two dissentient voices have been raised against this measure. Amongst opinions that have been received from Bengal there are some from men who are held in great esteem and whose voice we cannot lightly ignore, notably among them is my valued friend Nawab Abdul Jubbur. To them I would say that if the object of this Bill is to codify entirely the law of wakf and substitute something in contravention of the spirit of the law as laid down by the great prophet of Arabia and as interpreted by the highest Ulemas and learned Mussalman jurists, I would be the first to oppose it with all the emphasis that in me lies. If this Bill, Sir, tends to weaken our law or introduce any novelty into our law which is a part and parcel of our religion and a good Mussalman, Sir, holds nothing so dear as his religion, I would oppose it tooth and nail. If this Bill sought the introduction of an entirely new law of wakf which would be obviously a very dangerous precedent of interfering with the Islamic law itself, and which would be contrary to the gracious Proclamation of Victoria the Good of blessed memory, I for one, Sir, would have nothing to do with it, and would oppose it on principle. Again, if this Bill, Sir, were wakf-alal-walad and not alal-aulad, I would still oppose it.

"When we are now in the twentieth century talking of women's rights and women's franchise, at the time when a large portion of the world was immersed in darkness, the great prophet of Arabia recognised women's rights and elevated them to a position at law which is denied to them even at the present day. The scope of this Bill, as I understand it, Sir, is to create a wakf or endowment for the benefit of all the heirs, both male and female, and to appoint one, per choice the eldest son, as the mutwali to hold the entire management and control of all the family properties and for his labour to get a much higher proportion of the profits than any of the other descendants.

"In fine, I welcome this measure as merely a declaratory Act neutralising the verdict of the Privy Council and as an attempt to restore to the Mussalmans of this country their own laws in the matter of wakfs and endowments.

"As the Bill stands at present, there are many clauses which require complete revision and some perhaps omission, as for example, clauses 5, 7, 8, and 9,

[17TH FEBRUARY, 1913.] [Mr. Ghuznavi; Malik Umar Hayat Khan; Mr. Syed Ali Imam.]

As regards the elaborate provisions relating to the registration of wakfnama, I feel that a great deal of it may be omitted with advantage. The enormous powers that are proposed to be given to the officers registering the deed are, to my mind, absolutely unsafe and injudicious. The power to consider whether a wakfnama has been duly drawn up in terms of this measure should be vested in the hands of a judiciary. The provisions for safeguarding the interests of the creditors should also be revised carefully, and care should be taken that the perpetration of frauds of the kind may not be possible.

"There are many points in this Bill to which I should like to refer, and to [illegible] I shou[illegible] the attention of my Hon'ble friend, but as the Bill is about to be referred to a [illegible]mittee in which my friend has given me a place, I propose to refer to them [illegible] up for consideration before it, and I therefore do not wish to take up the time of [illegible] the [illegible]cil any further. But there is one matter which, with your permission, Sir, I [illegible] to mention before I have done. Property is either lawful or unlawful. No Mussalman, as I understand our laws, can make a wakf of any description of unlawful property. In clause 2, sub-section (7) the words 'immoveable property' are made to include stocks, shares, securities, etc., which necessarily also include interests or may include lands acquired by money accrued from interests which is not lawful. Under the circumstances, I would urge upon my friend to consider the advisability of excluding these from the scope of this Bill. Finally, I should like to call the attention of my friend to the necessity of making a provision in his Bill for the validity of wakfs already created and existing. I would suggest that wakfs of immoveable property which fulfil the requirements of the proposed legislation should be recognised as valid."

The Hon'ble Malik Umar Hayat Khan:—"Sir, this is too early a stage to make any remarks on the Bill. As I represent the Muhammadans of the Punjab, who predominate in the province, I will be accused of keeping silent, when a measure for the benefit of the Muhammadans is in the process of going to the Select Committee. Though I have gone through the whole correspondence on this Bill, yet I may have to wait till I ask the opinion of the Punjab Muhammadans further, as I do not want to commit myself before then. Personally I am in accord with the principle of the Bill. If all the aulad, that is, the children in the true sense of the word were treated in every way according to the division of property laid down by Holy Koran, I think then no Muhammadan could differ on the subject. This law came to us thirteen hundred years ago, and has since then continued unaltered. There may be misapprehensions to the effect that it is now brought forward against the present money-lender, but there was no money-lender of the present type at the time, as interest was not allowed, as well as underhandedness of the opposing parties. If any transaction was carried on by both the parties, it was governed by the same law which was devised to safeguard the interests of both who belonged to the same country and same nation. I hope from this it will be seen that there is not much to be feared in this direction. I have not gone into the details of the question purposely as I want to reserve my opinion till I get further directions from the Punjab Muhammadans whom I represent. This Bill will be sifted in the Select Committee which will provide for all the safeguards necessary. I hope there will be no difficulty or opposition in its reaching that stage."

The Hon'ble Mr. Syed Ali Imam:—"In supporting the motion that the Wakf Bill be referred to Select Committee I wish, with your permission, Sir, to explain to the Council what the attitude of the Government of India is towards this legislative measure. We have known for long that the Muhammadans of India as a community have held strong views on the Privy Council decisions which this Bill is intended to overcome. Representations in various forms have reached us clearly indicating that Muhammadan opinion in this country has been gathering in volume and strength against what it considers to have been an innovation on Islamic jurisprudence. Opinions of Muhammadan lawyers of considerable repute have mostly ranged themselves on the side of the popular view. The Right Hon'ble Mr. Amir Ali and Dr. Abdul Majid in England,

[Mr. Syed Ali Imam.] [17TH FEBRUARY, 1918.]

Shamsul-Ulama Md. Yusuf of Calcutta, the well known savant Shamsul-Ulama Shibli Nu'mani of Lucknow and many others of much learning in Islamic jurisprudence do not accept, I put it most deferentially, the correctness of the case-law as it stands at present on the basis of the decisions in question. Apart from individuals of such distinction, public bodies and institutions, like the Moslem League and various others have pronounced strongly in favour of restoring the Muhammadan law in this country to the position which, in their opinion, it occupied before these decisions were given. Then, again, an examination of the texts and authorities largely relied upon by Muhammadans all over the world seems to favour the view that the cry raised against a narrow interpretation of the law of wakf is not without justification. These authorities obviously support the contention that the doctrine dealing with the creation of a wakf in favour of one's own family or descendants forms an integral portion of the Muhammadan law, and that wakf as a family settlement is recognised by all the schools of that law. There appears to be agreement in the principle with some variations as to the mode of creating such trusts. In fact Muhammadan jurists of eminence have not only recognised the validity of such a settlement, but also its merit as an act of grace in the eyes of God from which sanction to the creation of such a wakf has been deduced. A reference in the original of such high authority as the Fatawa Alamgiri, Raddul Mukhtar and Hedaya will leave no room to doubt that the principle of the Bill before the Council as contained in its clause 3 is based on a correct juridical notion of the Mussalmans. In short, the practice which the Bill is intended to validate is, to the best of my information, not only commonly in vogue in Turkey, Egypt, portions of Africa and Persia, but has also received State recognition in those countries whose law Courts accept the question as a settled principly of Muhammadan jurisprudence. Since the introduction of the Bill be Mr. Jinnah, it has been before the country and been favourably received by Muhammadans so far as its main principle goes. I may congratulate the Hon'ble Member on the large consensus of opinion that is in favour of the main principle of his Bill. It may be that wakf-alal-aulad is repugnant to the critical sense of the modern lawyer as an encouragement to the creation of perpetuities, but if we are to allow the Muhammadans in this country the enjoyment of their personal law, their liberation from the restraints imposed by the decisions of the Privy Council is a measure which the Government of India is not disposed to oppose. In the circumstances, we are willing to give our support to a short declaratory Act validating wakfs of the character and under the conditions contained in clause 3 of the Bill which also safeguards the position of the Mussalmans of the Hanafi sect in the matter of creating a wakf.

"As regards the rest of the clauses of the Bill I confess that I consider them not only unnecessary but open to objection. Clause 4, for instance, imposes certain obligations which in some cases may be considered as unreasonable restrictions on the powers of a Muhammadan to create a wakf. Under the existing law it is not necessary to execute a deed or register it for certain forms of wakf by a Muhammadan. The dedication of a prayer carpet to a mosque or a pair of silver lamps to a shrine will be invalid if the provisions of clause 4 are not complied with; but this will clearly be an encroachment on the Muhammadan law which may be considered hardly justifiable. Similarly, these clauses of the Bill are unnecessarily restrictive and cumbrous. The principal reason why the Hon'ble Member has embodied them in his Bill is to prevent fraud on creditors, but one may be permitted to urge that the question of registration and the matter of the fraud on creditors are sufficiently protected by the existing law. There is also safety in the very clear provision of the Muhammadan law itself as regards wakfs that are fraudulent. The Fatawa Alamgiri on the authority of Nahrul Faek has laid it down beyond any cavil that a wakf with a view to defeat or delay creditors will be avoided to the extent of the debt existing at the time of the creation of the endowment, provided there is no other property to satisfy the debt in question. The same principle is emphasised by the Raddul Mukhtar and other authorities. Then, again, some of the very weighty and responsible opinions that we have received on the Bill do not favour the inclusion of these provisions. Under the circumstances no case seems to have been made out for the imposition of restrictions which somewhat infringe the free observance of the Muhammadan law, and introduce a procedure of much complication and elaborate inquiry, by officers of the Registration Department, falling outside the scope of their ordinary functions, and for which they are not known to have any special qualification. The Government of India is, therefore, unable to accept these clauses. With this clear and distinct reservation, I welcome the reference of this Bill to Select Committee where I may assure the Hon'ble Member it will receive a very careful consideration."

The Hon'ble Mr. Jinnah :—" Sir, I have only a few observations to make with regard to what fell from the Hon'ble Mr. Ghuznavi, and I can only assure the Hon'ble Member that the points that he mentioned in the Council will receive every attention from the Select Committee, and therefore I do not wish to discuss the matter here now. The Hon'ble the Law Member referred to various clauses, and he very rightly said that these clauses were really introduced in the draft Bill with the sole object of safeguarding the interests of the creditors. That point has been raised more than once in our Courts of law, but if the Hon'ble the Law Member and the Hon'ble Mr. Ghuznavi will be able to satisfy the Select Committee and the Council that the omission of these clauses would not leave the door open to commit fraud against the creditors, I shall be only too happy to drop them. Of course in India when you have undertaken legislation of this character, it is not only the Mussalmans of India that have to be taken into consideration, there are other communities who deal with properties which may be in the hands of Mussalmans at one time and go into the hands of Hindus or some other community at another. Therefore, my only anxiety in introducing these clauses was to meet that opposition which may very well come from other communities, namely, that this may lead to fraud against creditors. If the Hon'ble the Law Member and the Hon'ble Mr. Ghuznavi will satisfy the Select Committee and this Council that there is no such fear, I should be only too happy to drop them."

The motion was put and agreed to.

SIR CURRIMBHOY EBRAHIM BARONETCY BILL.

The Hon'ble Mr. Syed Ali Imam:—" Sir, I move for leave to introduce a Bill to settle the endowment of the Baronetcy conferred on Sir Currimbhoy Ebrahim. The necessity for creating a trust to uphold the dignity of this hereditary title is obvious, but as the ordinary law of perpetuity is a bar to the making of a settlement of the kind that is desired the object cannot be achieved without an Act of the Legislature. There have been instances in the past where recipients of similar honours have successfully approached this Council. The present Bill has been framed generally on the lines of previous enactments dealing with the same kind of relief that is sought by the present measure. The scheme of the trust is somewhat different from those of the preceding ones, but its redeeming feature is that the bulk of the property, for the time being included in the settlement, will be periodically set free and replaced by other properties of an equal value. This saves the Bill from the impolicy of removing immoveable property permanently from the market. An apprehension has been felt that the properties proposed to be settled by the Bill might prove inadequate to maintain the dignity of the title in time to come. A clause has therefore been added giving power to supplement to a limited extent, and is made exerciseable only once. I may further add that the Bill has been settled in concert with Sir Currimbhoy Ebrahim's legal advisers and the Government of Bombay. Before I close my observations, I wish to express my gratification at the presence in this Council of my Hon'ble Colleague, Mr. Fazulbhoy Currimbhoy, himself a distinguished Indian and a son of the Baronet with whose name this Bill is associated. The City of Bombay may well be proud of the brilliant record of its commercial enterprise and industrial development, but it may justly be said that that record is the more luminous for having the honoured name of Sir Currimbhoy Ebrahim on its pages. He has been in the forefront of the movements that have quickened into life the instinct for commerce and industry in this country. He is indeed a stalwart figure among the pioneers, but the efforts that have been crowned with so much success in his profession have found no less expression in princely contributions to public charities and large-hearted munificence which have endeared him to his countrymen and earned for him the great distinction which it has pleased his Sovereign to confer upon him."

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Hon'ble Mr. Syed Ali Imam introduced the Bill and moved that the Bill, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons relating thereto, be published in English in the Gazette of India and in the Bombay Government Gazette.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Council adjourned to Tuesday, the 25th February, 1913.

APPENDIX A.

Preface.

THE first two reports on the subject of introduction of improvements into Indian Agriculture by Agricultural Departments, published in 1909 and 1910, were referred to a Committee of the Board of Agriculture in India, 1911, consisting of Dr. Mann (Chairman), Messrs. Clouston, Smith, Evans, Hart, Lonsdale, Main, Milligan, Powar, Sherrard and Stuart, for consideration and amplification as far as possible.

The report of the Committee as submitted to and passed by the Board is now published for general information.

B. COVENTRY,
Agricultural Adviser to the Government of India.

June, 1912.

The Introduction of Improvements into Indian Agriculture.

BY THE WORK OF THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

AT three former meetings of the Board of Agriculture (1908, 1909, 1910) a Committee has considered the subject which has been referred to the present Committee, and as a result of their deliberations two reports have been issued which were largely a collection of instances of success in bringing improvements to the notice [illegible] the practice of cultivators. The present report must be considered as a supplement [illegible] these two, and is an attempt to collect a few of the more prominent advances which have been made during the last two years, and the methods which have been success[illegible] those cases.

Agricultural Association.

2. The development of the utility of agricultural associations has gone on apace in some parts of India, notably the Central Provinces; in others they have shown such lack of life, vigour and utility that it has been recommended to dissolve them, at least in the form which they have had up to the present. The whole matter of agricultural associations is, however, being dealt with in a separate report, and nothing, therefore, will be said here on this subject. (For the detailed report on Agricultural Associations please see pages 11 to 15.)

Local Demonstrations.

3. Considerable developments as to methods and results have taken place in this direction.

4. In the Central Provinces large numbers of demonstration areas are now worked, belonging in all cases to private owners who allow them to be used for the purpose. In connection with these the Kamdar scheme outlined in the last report has proved of very great value, and the men engaged as Kamdars now pass from demonstration of one thing to another during different parts of the year. Thus a large number are now employed, after training, to demonstrate the transplanting of paddy, to show the proper method of irrigating wheat, to plant sugarcane according to the best methods and so on, during different parts of the year. They work, as previously described, in two villages as a rule, and are supervised, almost daily by an agricultural assistant who is responsible for a number of villages. Their pay is Rs. 9 to Rs. 15, but it is recognised that if they do good work their pay will have to be increased. They are now in demand and are sometimes lent to Mulgazars and others who are willing to pay and utilise them.

5. The experimental farms are being increasingly used as demonstration centres. It is, for instance, arranged once a year to bring a large number of cultivators from the cotton tract to the farm at Akola. While this is essentially the annual meeting of the Divisional Agricultural Association, yet a large number of others are called, and come. This is arranged when there is most to see, and the matters to be shown are arranged carefully beforehand. The Railway Companies grant concessions of half fares to members attending these meetings. Similar work is done in connection with other farms. So much is this use of the farms valued that the District Boards are now devoting some of the money formerly employed in paying for young men in the Malguzar class at the College at Nagpur, to the purpose of sending cultivators to the various farms.

6. In this connection may also be mentioned the success in the extension of the use of new ploughs by means of local ploughing matches, for substantial prizes, held in centres where the ploughs are suitable.

7. In Bombay the development of local demonstration has followed the increase of staff which it necessitates. In practically every district there is now a trained and qualified fieldman,—sometimes a graduate, sometimes not,—who carries on demonstrations on the cultivator's own land, supplying him with necessary outside materials and being present at the critical moment. The chief difficulties are found to be to maintain the quality of the supervision of such work and to train adequately and property men for such local employment, To have a good supervising staff and well trained men to do the work are considered to be vital to success. At present the training of the men in hand forms the great hindrance to very extensive development. Much and increasing success has been attained, but it is felt that the training of the men required will be among the most important work of the senior staff for years to come.

8. Mention should be made of [illegible] demand which is arising for trained non-graduate fieldmen and also for graduates by local proprietors. So far, as a rule, the [illegible] cannot be filled, but the very existence of the demand is an indication of the value of the local men's work.

9. Under the Court of Wards in Madras definite demonstration farms have been established on some of the estates where practices are shown which are considered to be practically applicable. The cultivators are invited periodically to inspect, and meetings held for discussion. Considerable success has been attained in several cases.

10. In the Punjab definite local demonstrations have been undertaken in certain districts, notably Lyallpur, on the interculture of cotton. The agents employed were superior workmen (Mukadams). Spots were selected all over the district in cultivators' holdings. Cotton was planted by the Department, and the plots were visited periodically with the interculturing implements. The system seems a success, and has certainly shown the people how water can be saved by the method.

11. Monthly ploughing classes have been held, but the people now prefer that the demonstrators of the Department should go to their villages and train them there in the use of the new plough on their own land. It is intended to extend this system to the limit of the available staff. Classes have also been held in the use of reapers, but here there is less need, as the knowledge of their working quickly spreads.

12. In Bengal work of the agricultural station is attracting large number of visitors and local people. The serious damage done by the potato moth has led to demonstrations in the Patna district on the storage of seed potatoes in sand. The original demonstration concerned only fifty maunds stored after harvest, which later, at the time of sowing, showed a profit of R130. The result of this was that in the following year (1910) six cultivators followed the same method, and in 1911 no less than 200 cultivators stored seed potatoes similarly.

13. In the United Provinces small plots in the hands of cultivators have continued to appear the most suitable for demonstration work, and the use of this method has been considerably extended. As an example, in one district forty members of the agricultural association are carrying out demonstrations. In another case the members of a co-operative bank have very successfully taken up the introduction of groundnuts and Meston ploughs. Demonstrations of another kind are illustrated by work against the potato moth and sugarcane hopper carried out in a number of villages by assistants of the Agricultural Department.

14. In the remaining provinces the methods previously described have been continued with, in most cases, an increasing amount of success.

15. It is again necessary to insist on the vital necessity of the sympathy of the local cultivators having been previously obtained if any success in the direction of local demonstration is to be attained. This, and the extreme importance of having men specially trained for this work, are the principal points which the Committee desire to emphasise as the result of recent experience.

Vernacular Agricultural Journals.

16. The number of vernacular agricultural journals has increased during the past two years, while the old ones issued in the United Provinces and the Central Provinces are still maintained. The latter has now a circulation of 6,000, and has recently been enlarged by the addition of a section on co-operative credit,—while there is now regularly a column for students. The journal in the United Provinces now gives coloured plates occasionally. An independent Hindi Journal published in Benares reproduces the articles from departmental publications and is patronised by the Department. A new vernacular agricultural journal has been established in Bombay. The edition published in Marathi is the property of the Deccan Agricultural Association; that in Kanarese belongs to the Dharwar Agricultural Association. The editing in each case is done partly by members of the Agricultural Department, partly by outside gentlemen interested in the subject. The entire financial responsibility is borne by the Associations in question, but the magazines will pay. They are always illustrated, and cost Re. 1 per annum, including postage. They have been much appreciated, and the combined circulation within eighteen months of establishment reaches between 4,000 and 5,000 copies. This shows the appreciation which a good agricultural magazine obtains, but the magazine must be well edited, topical, up-to-date, illustrated if possible, and the articles must, in large proportion, be practical and hence appeal to the cultivators.

17. In Madras and in Eastern Bengal and Assam agricultural calendars are issued. These are distributed to every village, and undoubtedly reach into almost every corner of the provinces, and are a valuable means of getting information to a large body of people.

Leaflets and Circulars.

18. There is nothing new to report under this heading. Leaflets are issued in the same provinces as previously, and the conditions of their value have been well indicated in the prevous reports.

Agricultural Shows and Exhibitions.

19. Additional experience is accumulating with regard to the best method of holding shows or utilising fairs and melas held by others.

20. In the Central Provinces shows are never got up by the Agricultural Department, but local fairs held for other purposes are often utilized for exhibiting things particularly interesting to the tract where they are held. If they are among villages where demonstrations are going on, some of the produce from the demonstration plots is attracted by the offer of substantial prizes. Thus, for instance, in a district where improved groundnuts were being introduced, no less than 210 samples were shown by the cultivators at such a show: in another case, ninety samples of improved sugarcane were attracted. Their educative value is felt to be much increased if the exhibits are limited to special things in which the Department is interested.

21. In Bombay, where many shows, large and small, have been and are organised by local bodies backed by the Agricultural Department,– there is felt to be a danger of their becoming somewhat uninteresting exhibitions. It is felt that three points must be recognised :—

(1) that the prize list had better be limited to a few crops of importance and capacity for impovement;

(2) that stock makes a more effective show than produce;

(3) that demonstrations of machinery or working implements or methods are essential if a show is to be a success, but as far as possible, they should be limited to such as are suitable in the tract.

22. Prizes are better given in kind than in money.

23. In Bengal considerable progress in the serious utilisation of the big fairs in the province has been made during the past year. Nearly every big fair in the province has been visited and six circulating exhibits are now kept belonging to the Department. These consist of seeds, implements and manures recommended by the Department. All exhibits are labelled giving directions for use in all the languages of the province. Considerable sales of seeds and some of implements have been traced as a result.

24. The Committee feel that shows are chiefly valuable for three purposes, and that these should be kept in view and the utility of the shows considered in the light of the way in which they achieve these objects:—

(1) They are a means of demonstrating to a large crowd of people either methods of produce which it is desi[illegible] they should see or [illegible] about.

(2) They are a means of creating local enthusiasm.

This, however, is of little use unless it can be followed up.

(3) They are a means of bringing a large crowd of cultivators into touch with the workers of the Agricultural Department than could be otherwise brought together.

This again is of little value unless the touch obtained can be maintained.

Itinerant Assistant.

25. The importance of the work which may be done by itinerant assistants is being increasingly recognised in the Central Provinces, where sanction has recently been obtained for eight highly paid assistants for the supervision of district work. As elsewhere, it is recognised that these must be among the best men in the Department. While they will overlook experiments, farms, etc., their principal work will be that of supervising the work done by other assistants employed in demonstrations.

26. In Bengal a similar system is adopted. There are three travelling Inspectors,—the most senior men in the Department. There are also seven divisional inspectors who work on behalf of the Divisional Associations and are under the control of the Commissioner in consultation with the Director of Agriculture.

27 In Eastern Bengal and Assam a scheme has been experimentally sanctioned for the employment of District Agricultural officers, whose duty will be the dissemination of agricultural improvements.

28. In Bombay the development on the basis of four highly paid divisional inspectors has been continued. These, as previously indicated, are the best men in the Department, and now control fieldmen in every district who are left to follow up and carry out the work they initiate.

29. In Madras similar lines of development have been commenced and more are in contemplation.

30. The fact that in all the provinces quoted, development is taking a similar direction would indicate that, after much experiment and fuller experience, the lines now adopted are probably the right ones and possibly the only ones for really effective itinerant work.

Seed Farms and Seed Depots.

31 As another Committee is sitting at the present meeting of the Board on this subject, the whole consideration has been left to them.

Utilisation of Individual Expert Cultivators for the Introduction of Improved Methods.

32. Several interesting cases in which individual cultivators have been utilsed in this manner were brought before the Committee. Thus, in the Central Provinces for in instance, a number of cultivators from Khandwa were taken to Jubbulpore to show the people the system of planting kharif crops in lines with considerable success. The Kamdar scheme previously referred to its really the same idea, but in this case the Kamdar is permanently employed by the Department.

Vernacular Short Courses.

33. In the Central Provinces there are special short courses for one or two months at certain of the farms for the Havildars of Malguzars and similar proprietors. With them there are often some of the sons of tenants in malguzari lands. Thus the transplanting of rice in Chhattisgarh and cane cultivation has been taught to a class during the last year. Similar courses have been held in the sowing of kharif crops in lines in Jubbulpore, in sugarcane cultivation and so on. If satisfactory, certificates are given on leaving.

34. In Bengal short practical courses have been held on one or two of the farms with fair success.

35. In Bombay the matter is comparatively new. During the last year classes were held in cane planting and gul manufacture, and in dairying, and the future promises success in this direction.

36. The provision of such short courses seems an admirable method of extending desirable practices. It must be recognised, however, that when young men come for a short course, they must be taught and attended to, and that this must be the principal duty of some one on the farm There is nothing more unsatisfactory or likely to do more harm than for a man to be brought for a course and then neglected or given only the residue of a busy Farm Superintendent's time.

Training Sons of Cultivators.

37. During the past two years a new development has taken place in Bombay in the establishment of a vernacular boarding school for boys, chiefly the sons of substantial cultivators, village patils, small land-owners and the like. The school is still an experiment, but as it seems likely to have considerable popularity, it may be described here. The boys taken are from 14 to 16 years old, they must have passed the 4th or 5th vernacular standard and be the sons of cultivators or small land-owners who intend to spend their life on the land. They stay two years, during which half the working time is spent in learning ordinary school subject like writing, arithmetic, geography, all done with special reference to the needs of cultivators Science is taught almost entirely practically by "Nature study" and the remaining subjects are all connected with village life, such as village sanitation, care of wells, and the like on the one hand, and questions of money and credit leading up to co-operative credit on the other. The whole success of such a scheme as this will probably depend on the head teacher who lives with the boys The school at present promises well but it must be recognised as still experimental.

Assistance in Marketing.

38. It often happens that the introduction of a new crop is hindered by difficulty in obtaining the market value for it when marketed. This has, in some cases, been got over in the early stages by arrangements made by the Agricultural Departments, and some examples are worthy of mention here.

39. A difficulty arose with buri cotton, which is a new crop in the Central Provinces, but as a result of the efforts made by the Agricultural Department, the whole which came to market through them, was bought at fair prices by the Empress Mills, Nagpur. In the same provinces a good market has been secured for a better variety of til, by arranging through a local association that all should be brought to market on one day.

40. In Bombay the chief difficulty has been in the marketing of improved or new cotton. In Dharwar, where Broach cotton is a new crop, with a larger ginning percentage than the local cotton, it has been necessary to arrange an auction under the auspices of the Agricultural Department. The whole was well advertised and the cotton was carefully graded by its ginning percentage. The auctions now held for three years have been very successful and the amount sold in one auction has amounted to as much as 10,000 imperial maunds of seed-cotton. Without this it would have been an almost hopeless job to introduce Broach cotton; now it is an established success

11 The same difficulty has been met with in the marketing of Gujerat (Broach) cotton, from improved seed, and giving a 5 per cent improved quality Now, however, the trade in Bombay have formed a syndicate and promised to buy if the Department guarantee it is from their seed, and if there is at least 2,000 bales This can be produced during the present season, and, if all goes well this will do more to establish the status of the improved cotton than almost anything else could do

Connection with Co-operative Credit Movement.

12 Little has been done as yet to utilise the co-operative credit movement for agricultural improvement, but in several provinces schemes are in the air, Co-operative societies for supplying pure wheat seed, a co-operative manure supply association for obtaining oilcake for sugarcane, and many other suggestions are on foot which can only be worked where the idea of co-operation is known and where co-operative credit societies exist As an example of what can be done, we may quote the Gauria-Kalan Co-operative Bank in the United Provinces which has taken up the supply of ploughs and other agricultural implements, has the services of a well borer solely at its disposal, has, on several occasions, asked for and obtained the assistance of the Agricultural Department in marketing the produce of its members, has this year made arrangements for the purchase and distribution of a considerable quantity of pure wheat seed, and has practically established the groundnut crop in certain villages. The Committee think that work in connection with such societies, using the knowledge of co-operation obtained by their members, and working by preference among people permeated by their spirit affords one of the most promising fields of activity for those anxious to introduce improvements among Indian cultivators.

Conclusion.

13 There is little more to say This report will give evidence that considerable advance has been made in both methods and results. The points which have most struck the Committee as needing to be insisted on at the present juncture, are firstly, the necessity of concentration on such an area as can be well covered so long as the staffs of the Agricultural Departments remain insufficient to cover the whole ground, and secondly, the need for co-relation between experimental work pursued on the farms and elsewhere and the needs of the people as ascertained by the district staff It is only when these two points are attended to that even the best staff and the most willing workers will produce their greatest effect in actual practice

Duties of Agricultural Associations in India.

1. The question of the value of local bodies termed agricultural associations as means of spreading agricultural improvements, and the lines on which they can best be organised has been before the Board of Agriculture on several previous occasions and the experience which has been obtained in most of the Indian provinces has been summarised in reports issued following the meetings of the Board in 1909 and 1910

2. The results of endeavours to organise such local bodies have been extremely various In the Central Provinces on the one hand, they have become, and tend to become even more, the main link between the Agricultural Department and its investigator and the people. On the other hand, in

Madras they have been, as hitherto organised and carried on, of a very questionable value, and it is even recommended that, in their present form, they may well be wound up. In other provinces very varying success has been attained. But it is impossible not to recognise that the local energy, the public spirit and the enthusiasm devoted to the associations in those provinces, even where they have been of least use, have been very great and might be valuable assets among the forces making for agricultural improvement.

3. The time seems now to have come when, from a collation of the experiences obtained, lines may be laid down with some certainty on which the best use of local energy may be made and by which the most successful organisations may be encouraged or created. The Committee have preferred trying to do this to merely again giving an account of experiences in different provinces.

4. It might be, and has indeed been asked, whether it is either necessary or advisable to encourage such local bodies as we are discussing. Cannot the Agricultural Department communicate directly with the cultivators? Is not such communication with, and giving help to individuals of equal value with work done by and through an association? The Committee venture to express a decided opinion that while this can be done, while it is possible to deal direct with every cultivator in the districts, yet this is not generally the best or most economical way of proceeding. A local organised body is a far more efficient agent for the introduction of improvements than the few officers of the Agricultural Department working individually can ever be, for being a body of local men, it carries considerable local influence; if composed of right people the members can and do mutually encourage one another, while its educative value in combined work and co-operative effort is, if properly organised, greater than can be realised. Even if the same end can be gained, so far as the introduction of an improvement is concerned, without a local association, the Committee feel that, provided conditions are favourable, a better final result is attained if a local body, as such, takes a share in the matter, as this tends to increase the co-operative spirit of the people and hence the likelihood of permanent advance.

5. Success with such associations can, however, only be reached by following certain lines which can now be laid down with some approach to certainty. However organised, it is necessary that:—

(i) Every local association should have a definite work to do and the members should feel responsibility for taking a share in it. It has not been at all unusual for an association to fail because the members have not been responsible for any work. Again the first question asked by a local body, however got together, is "what shall we do?" Unless the organisers of every single association generally the Agricultural Department have definite work which can be placed in the hands of the members, within their capacity, and yet capable of arousing their interest and keenness, it is extremely unwise to attempt any organisation whatever.

(ii) A local association should be composed of men who are really interested—and practically interested in agricultural improvement in the area in question. Associations have perhaps more often failed on account of the neglect of this matter than for any other reason. The members had but an academic interest in the subject, became members because of social or other reasons, and did not take the work seriously.

(iii) The work of a local association should be regularly inspected, examined, criticised, and the association called together. The Committee wish to lay great stress on this matter, and desire to state that they consider that a considerable part of the increasing efficiency of the system in the Central Provinces has been due to the care which is taken in this matter. It undoubtedly involves on the part of the Agricultural Department (or a central body of some sort) a considerable expense for inspecting officers; but without this, it may be stated with certainty that the result will not be a success except in rare cases. The Agricultural Department must, the Committee feel, aim at having a subordinate staff of high quality for this purpose.

(iv) The members of a local association must, even apart from inspections, be made to feel that the Agricultural Department is interested in them and their work. It is wonderful how regular correspondence, prompt attention, and general evidence of interest and support encourages both the individuals and the associations of which they are members If Agricultural Associations are to be a success, this must be arranged for at any cost.

6 With these principles accepted and in full operation there is every chance of success; without these the Committee feel that there is very little likelihood of local associations being or doing what they are capable of. The actual types of association may be very different,—and very different types of association have succeeded,—but success in every case involves a frank recognition of the principles laid down And it is hence of the highest importance that associations should not be encouraged or organised unless these points can be arranged for The committee feel that in time past there has been, in some cases, a tendency to encourage or form associations when there were no definite lines of work to take up when the men of whom they were composed were not men really interested, when no regular inspection could be arranged for, and when they were left for long months without any attention. It is not wonderful that such associations died or became moribund.

7 Passing on from general principles to successful applications, the Committee would note that success has been attained by following several lines. In the Central Provinces, where perhaps the most valuable work has been done, the associations are bodies composed of nominees, limited in number, of the district officers for each district. These, say for instance, to the number of thirty, are called together to a convenient centre, appoint a Secretary and are met by a senior officer of the Agricultural Department, usually the Deputy Director, who has a number of pieces of work suitable for their district ready to suggest to the members to take up. These are not experiments but consist in carrying out some demonstration of new seed, better methods of cultivation and the like—in using their land as a seed farm, in distributing sulphate of copper for treating juari seed, in acting as agent for ploughs or in making arrangements for marketing and similar things Each man with his duties allotted returns home; he is supplied at once with the material he needs, and, thereafter, is visited by an assistant once a month and by the Superintendent of the farm in that circle several times a year Six months later all the members meet again; the Deputy Commissioner is in the chair; the Deputy Director is again present; the work done is discussed, causes of failure made out, accounts of success recorded, and a new lot of work arranged for, for the ensuing period Once a year the members of all district associations in a tract are called and meet at a common centre, generally a farm of the Agricultural Department, when experiences can be discussed among a larger collection of cultivators, selected outsiders being invited All the proceedings in these larger meetings as well as in the district associations, are in the vernacular.

8 Over and above the points already insisted on, the success in this case may be attributed to the careful selection and nomination of members by the local authorities, to the small numbers of members, who thus esteem membership an honour, and to the lines of work being drawn up and carefully arranged beforehand by the Agricultural Department.

9 The Committee do not wish to suggest that the method of organisation just described is the only one which will succeed or which is even the best under all conditions It is possible, perhaps even probable, that this type of organisation is most suitable where the type of agriculture is backward, or at any rate where there are large numbers of fairly obvious improvements capable of giving large and immediate results In other cases it may be more advisable to have other units than a district, sometimes even as small as a village It may (and the method has been successful in parts of Bombay) be wise to have much more independent bodies than those of the Central Provinces. It may be advisable to have a regular hierarchy of associations, from those representing a very small area to one representing a whole province, and so on for many other variations which can only be determined locally.

10. But, however organised, the principles which have been laid down are, in the opinion of the Committee, essential. They venture to hope that the time is now past when Agricultural Associations are created in every district in a province by executive order— heedless as to whether there is work for them or whether they can be instructed and encouraged. If there is work laid down for each association and its members to do, if they are composed really of the men to whom agriculture is a vital interest, if they can be regularly inspected and meetings held, and if the association and its members can be made to feel that the Agricultural Department or some central body is continually interesting itself in the work going on and ready to give assistance whenever required, then it is almost certain that, provided that the local circumstances are properly taken into account, a local body will be created of extreme value for the development of the industry.

DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE AND AGRICULTURE.

Season and Crop Prospects for the week ending Saturday, 15th February 1913.

Burma.—Tavoy reports 9·79 and Mergui 1·36 inches of rain. Light showers fell in four Upper Burma districts, in the Northern Shan States and in the Chin Hills. Threshing and winnowing of winter rice are completed in most districts. Agricultural operations for spring rice and island crops are proceeding normally. Standing crops are doing well. The price of unhusked rice is stationary at Rangoon.

Assam.—Slight to moderate rain fell in all districts and facilitated ploughing operations. Ploughing for early and late rice continues. Gathering of mustard, crushing of sugarcane and pruning of tea are still in progress. Fodder is insufficient in three districts. Cattle disease is reported from Sylhet, Darrang, Sibsagar and Manipur. The average price of common rice has risen by one per cent.

Bengal.—During the week the rainfall was general over the Province. The fall was rather heavy in the Sadar sub-division of Burdwan, Bankura, Midnapore and Jessore and generally light to moderate elsewhere. The recent rain has done good to standing crops and has facilitated ploughing operations for autumn crops. Harvesting of spring crops and pressing of sugarcane are in progress. The average price of common rice for the Province has risen slightly as compared with that of the previous week. Cattle disease is reported from places in Khulna, Mymensingh, Tippera and Noakhali.

Bihar and Orissa.—The weather was cloudy and rainy. The rainfall was general over the Province, the fall being generally moderate in Bihar and very heavy for the time of the year in Chota-Nagpur and in parts of Orissa. The recent rainfall has been beneficial on the whole to standing crops. Pressing of sugarcane continues. Preparation of lands for the next season's crops has commenced. Oilseeds are being harvested. Standing crops are doing well. The average price of common rice has risen slightly in Bihar and fallen slightly in Orissa and Chota-Nagpur. The supply of fodder and water is sufficient. The condition of cattle is on the whole good. Prospects of standing crops in the Feudatory States of Orissa are reported to be good.

United Provinces.—General and well-distributed rain fell throughout the Provinces. More rain since the close of the week is reported from the north and west of the Provinces. The fall has materially improved the situation. Some loss by hail and slight damage by frost are reported. Pressing of sugarcane and preparation of land for sowing of the next crop continue. Crops are ripening. Fodder and water are sufficient. In Mirzapur there are 2,194 persons on test works and 12,171 on ordinary canal works and water works, while in the Chakia district of the Benares State there are 3,311 persons on regular works and 2,512 in receipt of gratuitous relief. Cattle disease is still widespread in Bundelkhand but seems to be diminishing in other parts of the Provinces. Prices at the end of the week were fluctuating with an upward tendency.

Punjab.—Light to moderate rain has fallen in all districts. More rain is wanted. Pressing of sugarcane continues and the outturn is average to good. The condition of irrigated spring crops is average to good. Unirrigated crops have improved slightly by the recent rain but are generally below average. Sowing of extra spring crops continues. Standing crops have been damaged seriously by hailstorm in parts of Gurgaon. Cattle are generally healthy but fodder is becoming scarce. Prices are high.

North-West Frontier Province.—Rain fell throughout the Province, proving beneficial to standing crops, especially unirrigated. More rain is however still wanted. The weather is cool and cloudy. Standing crops are generally fair on irrigated lands but poor on unirrigated areas. Sugarcane is still being pressed and the outturn is normal. Planting of sugarcane is proceeding in Bannu. Cattle is in good condition. The water supply is generally sufficient. Fodder is scarce in Dera Ismail Khan, but elsewhere it is procurable. Prices are high.

Jammu.—There was slight rain during the week. Prices are fluctuating. Wheat sells from 9 to 15 and maize from 12 to 20 seers per rupee. The condition of standing crops is below average. Cattle disease of mild type prevails in the Riasi tahsil. Fodder is insufficient in the same tahsil.

Kashmir.—Slight rain fell once during the week. Ploughing and sowing for spring crops are going on. Prices are unchanged except in the case of Indian corn which is slightly dearer in Anantnag. Cattle disease still prevails in certain villages of the Kulgam tahsil. Fodder is average.

Rajputana.—The weather was cloudy and cold. The rainfall in cents was—Bharatpur 118, Dholpur 20, Kerauli from 18 to 161, Kotah 11 and Bundi 4. Slight rain fell in Jaipur, Jhalawar and Ajmer Merwara. Spring crops are being irrigated and are doing well, but slight damage to crops from hailstorms is reported from Jaipur, Bharatpur and Karauli. Prospects are generally fair. Cattle disease is reported in a few places. Fodder and water are sufficient. Prices are generally high and stationary. The opium crop in Kishangarh is doing well.

Central India.—The rainfall was general in Bhopal, Baghelkhand and Bundelkhand and partial in Gwalior. The weather is clear and cool. The outturn of spring crops is expected to be excellent. Cattle disease prevails in parts of Gwalior, Bhopal and Bundelkhand. The fodder supply is ample. Prices are normal in Bhopal, above normal in Baghelkhand, fluctuating in Malwa and steady elsewhere.

Central Provinces.—(Report not received.)

Bombay.—Slight rain fell during the week in parts of Sind. The rainfall was beneficial to crops. Standing crops are withering in parts of West Khandesh and Ahmednagar and are generally in good condition elsewhere. Harvesting of spring crops is in progress in parts of the Deccan, the Karnatak, Baroda, Rewa Kantha and Kolhapur. Cotton picking continues in parts of Thar and Parkar, Nawabshah, Gujarat, Bijapur, Cutch and Rewa Kantha. The fodder supply is deficient in Ahmednagar. Agricultural stock is generally in good condition and sufficient except in parts of Cutch. Stock is deteriorating in Ahmednagar. Drinking water is generally adequate except in parts of Ahmednagar and Sholapur. Water for irrigation is deficient in parts of Nawabshah, Ahmedabad, West Khandesh, Ahmednagar, Sholapur, and Bijapur. Prices are high and fluctuating. The public health is generally good. Grain stocks are sufficient.

The weekly report on the famine and scarcity is as follows :—Distress is not yet severe except in two talukas of Ahmednagar. It will probably increase on the return of emigrants. There is no wandering or emaciation. Emigration continues. Two kitchens and three poor-houses have been opened and orders have been issued for two more poor-houses to be opened. The people on relief are generally in good condition. Steps are being taken to organise special measures for weavers and artizans. The public health is generally good. Land revenue suspensions have been granted and takavi advanced freely for fodder and wells. Government grass finds a ready sale. Measures for the improvement of the water supply from Government and Local Board grants continue. Three cattle kitchens have been opened from charitable funds. The numbers on gratuitous relief for the week ending the 15th February were:—Ahmednagar 16,406. Poona and Sholapur 1,231, total 17,637.

Hyderabad.—The rainfall during the week was general though slight. The highest fall was 80 cents in the Nirmal taluka of the Adilabad district. The average fall was 5 cents. The spring crop is generally fair to good except in parts of the Aurangabad, Bir and Usmanabad districts. Castor seed is being picked in Telingana. The spring crop is being generally harvested. The crop has been damaged by insects in parts of the Karimnagar district. Late rice is being sown. The crop is showing good growth and is being weeded and irrigated in parts. Fodder is being imported into the affected parts of the Aurangabad and Bir districts. Suspensions of revenue have been granted. Distribution of takavi continues and ordinary public works have been increased for those seeking employment. Cattle disease is reported in 6, fodder scarcity in 18 and water scarcity in 9 talukas. Prices:—Wheat 6, coarse rice 5¼ and juar 10¾ seers per rupee. White juar is selling in Hyderabad City at 12 seers per rupee. The highest price in districts is 7 seers in Karimnagar and the lowest 24½ seers in Adilabad.

Mysore. Prices of food grains are steady. Markets are well supplied. Standing crops are in good condition. Harvesting operations are in progress and the outturn is fair. Prospects of the season are good. Cattle are generally healthy. Water and fodder are available.

Coorg.—Picking of coffee is completed and threshing of rice continues. Prices of food grains have fallen slightly. The public health is fair. Water and fodder for cattle are sufficient.

Madras.—The rainfall was light in Cochin, the Nilgiris and in parts of the south. There was no rain elsewhere. Standing crops are fair to good. Harvesting of dry crops, paddy and sugarcane is proceeding with outturn fair to normal. Sowings of dry crops and paddy are proceeding normally in parts. The condition of cattle is generally good. Fodder and water are generally sufficient. Prices are falling.

L. C. PORTER,

Secretary to the Government of India.

No. 301-C.D.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION.

Delhi, the 21st February 1913.

RESOLUTION.

EDUCATIONAL POLICY OF THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

Comprehensive systems of education.

His Most Gracious Imperial Majesty the King-Emperor, in replying to the address of the Calcutta University on the 6th January, 1912, said:—

"It is my wish that there may be spread over the land a network of schools and colleges, from which will go forth loyal and manly and useful citizens, able to hold their own in industries and agriculture and all the vocations in life. And it is my wish, too, that the homes of my Indian subjects may be brightened and their labour sweetened by the spread of knowledge with all that follows in its train, a higher level of thought, of comfort and of health. It is through education that my wish will be fulfilled, and the cause of education in India will ever be very close to my heart"

2. The Government of India have decided, with the approval of the Secretary of State, to assist Local Governments, by means of large grants from imperial revenues as funds become available, to extend comprehensive systems of education in the several provinces Each province has its own educational system, which has grown up under local conditions, and become familiar to the people as a part of their general well-being. In view of the diverse social conditions in India there cannot in practice be one set of regulations and one rate of progress for the whole of India Even within provinces there is scope for greater variety in types of institutions than exists to-day. The Government of India have no desire to centralise provincial systems or to attempt to introduce a superficial uniformity Still less do they desire to deprive Local Governments of interest and initiative in education But it is important at intervals to review educational policy in India as a whole. Principles, bearing on education in its wider aspects and under modern conditions and conceptions, on orientalia and on the special needs of the domiciled community, were discussed at three important conferences of experts and representative non-officials held within the last two years. These principles are the basis of accepted policy. How far they can at any time find local application must be determined with reference to local conditions.

The need of true perspective.

3. The defects of educational systems in India are well-known and need not be re-stated. They have been largely due to want of funds. Of late years there has been real progress in removing them. In the last decade* the total expenditure from all sources on education has risen from 4 crores to nearly $7\frac{1}{4}$ crores. The progress has been especially great since Lord Curzon's government introduced large measures of educational reform. In the last four years the number of those under instruction has increased from about $5\frac{1}{4}$ to $6\frac{1}{3}$ millions Again, the formerly crushing weight of examinations has been appreciably lightened; a commencement has been made in the reform of university and college organisation; and the grants from public funds to private institutions have almost doubled in the past nine years. These facts speak for themselves Nor must the great benefits, which education has conferred on India, be ignored or minimised. Criticism based on imperfect analogies is often unjust. It is not just, for instance, to compare Indian systems still for the most part in their infancy with the matured systems of the modern western world, or to disregard the influences of social organization and mentality. Again the common charge that the higher education of India has been built up on a slender foundation of popular education and that its teaching agency is inefficient, is one that might have been levelled against every country in Europe at some period of its history. India is now passing through stages taken by other countries in their time.

Formation of character the main objective.

4. In the forefront of their policy the Government of India desire to place the formation of the character of the scholars and under-graduates under tuition. In the formation of character the influence of home and the personality of the teacher play the larger part. There is reason to hope—in the light of acquired experience—that increased educational facilities under better educational conditions will accelerate social reform, spread female education and secure better teachers. Already much attention is being given to religious and moral education in the widest sense of the term, comprising, that is, direct religious and moral instruction, and indirect agencies such as monitorial or similar systems, tone, social life, traditions, discipline, the betterment of environment, hygiene, and that most important side of education, physical culture and organised recreation.

Direct religious and moral instruction.

5. The question of religious and moral instruction was discussed at a local conference held in Bombay and subsequently at the imperial conference held in Allahabad in February 1911. Grave differences of opinion emerged as to the possibility or advantage of introducing direct religious instruction into schools generally, and apprehensions of difficulty in the working of any definite system were put forward. Doubts were also expressed as to the efficacy of direct moral instruction when divorced from religious sanctions. In the matter of moral teaching, however, the difficulties are undoubtedly less than in the case of religious teaching. The papers laid before the conference indicate that not a little moral instruction is already given in the ordinary text books and in other ways. The Government of Bombay are engaged upon the preparation of a book containing moral illustrations, which will be placed in the hands of teachers in order to assist them in imparting moral instruction. Excellent materials for ethical teaching are available in the Mahabharata, the Ramayana, portions of Hafiz, Sadi, Maulana Rumi and other classics in Sanskrit, Arabic, Persian and Pali. The Government of India while bound to maintain a position of complete neutrality in matters of religion observe that the most thoughtful minds in India lament the tendency of existing systems of education to develop the intellectual at the expense of the moral and religious faculties. In September 1911 they invited Local Governments other than the Bombay Government to assemble local committees in order to consider the whole question. Such committees are still at work in some provinces. For the present the Government of India must be content to watch experiments and keep the matter prominently in view. Enlightened opinion and accumulated experience will, it is hoped, provide a practical solution to what is unquestionably the most important educational problem of the time.

Indirect agencies, e.g., hostels, school-buildings, traditions, etc.

6. There has been real progress of late years in the provision of hostels. In the last decade the numbers both of hostels and of resident male students have nearly doubled, and now stand at over 2,200 and over 78,000 respectively. The Government of India desire to see the hostel system develop until there is adequate residential accommodation attached to every college and secondary school in India. But a hostel of itself will not achieve the desired end unless effective means are adopted for guiding students and assisting them in their work and in their recreation. Already in some first-class institutions in the country admirable arrangements have been made on European lines to secure the full benefits of the residential system. Again it is reassuring that traditions are growing up, that meetings of old boys are held, that debating and literary societies are becoming more common. All these require help which will in many cases best be organised in connection with the hostel system. Much has also been done of late to improve school buildings; but a large number of thoroughly unsuitable, not to say mean, squalid and insanitary buildings still exist in India. These will be replaced, as funds permit, by modern buildings designed upon sanitary lines and with a view to avoid overcrowding and to facilitate the maintenance of discipline. The Government of India hope that the time is not far distant when educational buildings will be distinguished as the most modern and commodious buildings in the locality, and scholars in India will have the advantages in this respect of scholars in the west. The influence for good of clean well arranged buildings with the concomitant domestic discipline can scarcely be exaggerated.

Hygiene.

7. The claims of hygiene are paramount not only in the interests of the children themselves, though these are all-important, but also as an object lesson to the rising generation. Hitherto want of funds and the apathy of the people have been responsible for the comparatively small attention paid to hygiene. In some provinces a simple course of instruction in hygiene is prescribed, at some period of the school course, but the lessons are often of too formal a type, are not connected with the life of the pupil, and fail to form his habits or to enlist his intelligence in after-life in the struggle against disease. In some areas there is a general inspection of school premises by a medical authority; but it is believed that little is done for the individual inspection of school children and that medical advice has not always been enlisted in regard to the length of the school day, the framing of curricula, and such matters. The Government of India commend to Local Governments a thorough enquiry, by a small committee of experts, medical and educational, into school and college hygiene. The scope of the enquiry will no doubt vary in different parts of India but the following seem to be important matters for investigation:—

(i) The condition of school houses, hostels and other places where pupils reside, from the point of view of sanitation.

(ii) The professional examination of building plans from the hygienic point of view.

(iii) The introduction of a simple and more practical course of hygiene; whether it should be a compulsory subject in the various schemes of school-leaving certificates, and whether it should be recommended to universities as part of their matriculation examination.

(iv) The inspection, where possible, of male scholars, with special reference to infectious diseases, eyesight and malaria.

(v) The length of the school-day, home-studies, and the effect upon health of the present system of working for formal examinations.

(vi) The requirements in the way of recreation grounds, gardens, gymnasia, reading rooms, common-rooms, etc.

(vii) The inspecting and administrating agency required, the possibility of co-operation with existing organisations and the provision of funds.

Other cardinal principles of policy.

8. Other cardinal principles of policy may here be stated—

(1) The steady raising of the standard of existing institutions should not be postponed to increasing their number when the new institutions cannot be efficient without a better-trained and better-paid teaching staff.

(2) The scheme of primary and secondary education for the average scholar should steadily, as trained teachers become available, be diverted to more practical ends, e.g., by means of manual training, gardening, out-door observation, practical teaching of geography, school excursions, organised tours of instruction, etc.

(3) Provision should be made for higher studies and research in India, so that Indian students may have every facility for higher work without having to go abroad.

Research.

9. The provision of facilities for research cannot be postponed. In almost every branch of science and the arts, in philosophy, history, geography, language, literature, economics, sociology, medicine, public health, agriculture, biology, geology, botany and in all the sciences applied to industry, not to particularise more closely, there is a wide untrodden field awaiting research. Among the essentials are good libraries, laboratories and collections, ample leisure and freedom in study, systematic collaboration of professors and students, an atmosphere engendered by the simultaneous working of many minds on numerous but interdependent branches of research. Only when they know the methods of research by which the knowledge they are to impart is secured and tested are teachers fully equipped for their work in the more advanced stages of education.

Primary Education. Compulsory and free education not practicable.

10. The propositions that illiteracy must be broken down and that primary education has, in the present circumstances of India, a predominant claim upon the public funds, represent accepted policy no longer open to discussion. For financial and administrative reasons of decisive weight the Government of India have refused to recognise the principle of compulsory education; but they desire the widest possible extension of primary education on a voluntary basis. As regards free elementary education the time has not yet arrived when it is practicable to dispense wholly with fees without injustice to the many villages, which are waiting for the provision of schools. The fees derived from those pupils who can pay them are now devoted to the maintenance and expansion of primary education, and a total remission of fees would involve to a certain extent a more prolonged postponement of the provision of schools in villages without them. In some provinces elementary education is already free and in the majority of provinces liberal provision is already made for giving free elementary instruction to those boys whose parents cannot afford to pay fees. Local Governments have been requested to extend the application of the principle of free elementary education amongst the poorer and more backward sections of the population. Further than this it is not possible at present to go.

Primary Education. General principles.

11. For guidance in the immediate future, with the necessary modifications due to local conditions, the Government of India desire to lay down the following principles in regard to primary education :—

(i) Subject to the principle stated in paragraph 8 (1) supra, there should be a large expansion of lower primary schools teaching the three R's with drawing, knowledge of the village map, nature-study and physical exercises.

(ii) Simultaneously upper primary schools should be established at suitable centres and lower primary schools should where necessary be developed into upper primary schools.

(iii) Expansion should be secured by means of board schools, except where this is financially impossible, when aided schools under recognised management should be encouraged. In certain tracts liberal subsidies may advantageously be given to maktabs, patshalas and the like which are ready to undertake simple vernacular teaching of general knowledge. Reliance should not be placed upon "venture schools", unless by subjecting themselves to suitable management and to inspection they earn recognition.

(iv) It is not practicable at present in most parts of India to draw any great distinction between the curricula of rural and of urban primary schools. But in the latter class of schools there is special scope for practical teaching of geography, school excursions, etc., and the nature study should vary with the environment, and some other form of simple knowledge of the locality might advantageously be substituted for the study of the village map. As competent teachers become available a greater differentiation in the courses will be possible.

(v) Teachers should be drawn from the class of the boys whom they will teach; they should have passed the middle vernacular examination, or been through a corresponding course, and should have undergone a year's training. Where they have passed through only the upper primary course and have not already had sufficient experience in a school, a two years' course of training is generally desirable. This training may in the first instance be given in small local institutions but preferably, as funds permit, in larger and more efficient central normal schools. In both kinds of institutions adequate practising schools are a necessary adjunct, and the size of the practising school will generally determine the size of the normal school. As teachers left to themselves in villages are liable to deteriorate there are great advantages in periodical repetition and improvement courses for primary school teachers during the school vacations

(vi) Trained teachers should receive not less than Rs. 12 per month (special rates being given in certain areas); they should be placed in a graded service; and they should either be eligible for a pension or admitted to a provident fund.

(vii) No teacher should be called on to instruct more than 50 pupils; preferably the number should be 30 or 40; and it is desirable to have a separate teacher for each class or standard.

(viii) The continuation schools known as middle or secondary vernacular schools should be improved and multiplied.

(ix) Schools should be housed in sanitary and commodious but inexpensive buildings

12. While laying down these general principles the Government of India recognise that in regard to primary education conditions vary greatly in different provinces In the old province of Bengal, for instance, where there is already some sort of primary school for a little over every three square miles of the total area of the province, the multiplication of schools may very well not be so urgent a problem as an increase in the attendance and an improvement in the qualifications of the teachers. In some parts of India at the present time no teacher in a primary school gets less than 12 rupees a month. In Burma all conditions are different and monastic schools are an important feature of the organisation. Different problems, again, present themselves where board schools and aided schools respectively are the basis of the system of primary education. Nor must it be supposed that the policy laid down in these general terms for the immediate future limits the aspirations of the Government of India or the Local Governments. Indeed the Government of India hope that the day is not far distant when teachers in primary schools will receive considerably higher remuneration, when all teachers will be trained, and when it will be possible to introduce more modern and elastic methods in primary schools

Vernacular continuation schools

13. Vernacular continuation schools are the only entrance to more advanced study which does not demand acquaintance with a foreign language; and it is in them that competent teachers for primary schools will be prepared. Technical and industrial progress also is likely to create numerous openings for men with a good vernacular education In certain provinces owing to the popularity and cheapness of English education these institutions have declined. But in the whole of India in the last decade the number of schools has increased from 2,135 to 2,666 and that of their scholars from over 177,000 to close on 257,000. The Government of India believe that these schools will become much more popular and useful when they are placed on a sound footing; they also think that it would be an advantage if an advanced vernacular course could be provided at selected centres for students desirous of becoming teachers in these continuation schools.

14. In some provinces special classes have been opened in secondary english schools for scholars who have been through the whole course at a vernacular continuation school in order to enable them to make up ground in english There is much experience to the effect that scholars who have been through a complete vernacular course are exceptionally efficient mentally. The Government of India recommend arrangements on the above lines to all Local Governments and Administrations which have not already introduced them.

Proposed expansion.

15. It is the desire and hope of the Government of India to see in the not distant future some 91,000 primary public schools added to the 100,000 which already exist for boys and to double the 4¼ millions of pupils who now receive instruction in them. For purposes of present calculation a sum of Rs. 375 per annum may be taken as a rough approximation of the probable average cost of maintenance of a primary board school. This figure provides for two teachers, one on Rs. 15 and one on Rs. 12 per month and Rs. 4 per month for the purchase of books and stationery, petty repairs, prizes and for necessary contingencies. This is, however, only an average figure for the whole of India. In India as a whole the average cost of a board or municipal school is at present Rs. 315 per annum. In Bombay the average cost of a primary school under any kind of management is now about Rs. 437, but this figure includes the cost of the higher classes, which in some other provinces are classed as middle or secondary vernacular classes.

Education of girls.

16. The education of girls remains to be organized. In 1904 the Government of India remarked that peculiar difficulties were encountered in this branch of education owing to the social customs of the people, but that as a far greater proportional impulse is imparted to the educational and moral tone of the people by the education of women than by the education of men, liberal treatment had been accorded for girls in respect of scholarships and fees. This policy has been continued. Efforts have been also made, not without success, to bring education, through the agency of governesses, within the reach of purda ladies, to increase the number of ladies on the inspecting staff and to replace male by female teachers in government and aided schools. The number of girls under instruction has risen from 444,470 in 1901-02 to 864,363 in 1910-11. But the total number still remains insignificant in proportion to the female population. The Government of India believe, however, that in certain areas there are indications of a swiftly growing demand for a more extensive education of girls.

17. The immediate problem in the education of girls is one of social development. The existing customs and ideas opposed to the education of girls will require different handling in different parts of India. The Governor-General in Council accordingly hesitates to lay down general lines of policy which might hamper Local Governments and Administrations, and has preferred to call for schemes from each province; but he commends the following principles for general consideration :—

(a) The education of girls should be practical with reference to the position which they will fill in social life;

(b) It should not seek to imitate the education suitable for boys nor should it be dominated by examinations;

(c) Special attention should be paid to hygiene and the surroundings of school life;

(d) The services of women should be more freely enlisted for instruction and inspection; and

(e) Continuity in inspection and control should be specially aimed at.

18. The difficulty of obtaining competent school-mistresses is felt acutely in many parts of the country. In this connection it has been suggested that there is a large opening for women of the domiciled community, who have a knowledge of the vernacular and who might be specially trained for the purpose.

Secondary English Education.

19. The importance of secondary english and in particular of high school education is far-reaching. Secondary education of one grade or another is the basis of all professional or industrial training in India. The inferior output of secondary schools invades colleges and technical institutions and hinders the development of higher education. At the Allahabad conference the directors of public instruction unanimously regarded the reform of secondary english schools as the most urgent of educational problems. The improvement of secondary english education has for some time occupied the attention of the Government of India and the Local Governments and it is hoped in the near future to remedy many defects of the present system.

20. In the last nine years the number of secondary schools has increased from nearly 5,500 to over 6,500 and the number of scholars from 622,000 to 900,000. The policy of Government is to rely so far as possible on private enterprise in secondary education. This policy, laid down in the despatch of 1854, was restated and amplified by the Education Commission of 1882, which, while doubtful as to how far the process of withdrawal on the part of Government should be carried, agreed that, whatever degree of withdrawal from the direct provision of education might be found advisable, there should be no relaxation of indirect but efficient control by the state. The admixture of private management and state control was again emphasised in the resolution of 1904. To this policy the Government of India adhere. It is dictated not by any belief in the inherent superiority of private over state management but by preference for an established system and, above all, by the necessity of concentrating the direct energies of the state and the bulk of its available resources upon the improvement and expansion of elementary education. The policy may be summarised as the encouragement of privately managed schools under suitable bodies, maintained in efficiency by government inspection, recognition and control, and by the aid of government funds.

21. Some idea of the extension of private enterprise may be gained by the reflection that, of 3,852 high and middle english schools, only 286 are government institutions. These figures, however, cover many types of schools, from the most efficient to the least efficient. Admirable schools have been and are maintained by missionaries and other bodies. But the underlying idea of the grant-system, the subvention of local organised effort, has not always been maintained. Schools of a money-making type, ill-housed, ill-equipped, and run on the cheapest lines, have in certain cases gained recognition and eluded the control of inspection. Schools have sprung into existence in destructive competition with neighbouring institutions. Physical health has been neglected and no provision has been made for suitable residential arrangements and playfields. Fee-rates have been lowered; competition and laxity in transfer have destroyed discipline; teachers have been employed on rates of pay insufficient to attract men capable of instructing or controlling their pupils. Above all, the grants-in-aid have from want of funds often been inadequate. No fewer than 360 high schools with 80,247 pupils are in receipt of no grant at all, and are maintained at an average cost of less than half that of a government school, mainly by fee-collections. Especially do these conditions prevail in the area covered by the old provinces of Bengal and Eastern Bengal and Assam; a result due, no doubt, to the rapid extension of english education beyond the ability of the Local Governments to finance it. In Bengal and Eastern Bengal the number of high schools is greater than in the rest of British India put together, and the cost of their maintenance to public funds is proportionately less than a third of the cost prevailing in other provinces A special inquiry showed that out of some 4,700 teachers in privately managed high schools in these areas about 4,200 were in receipt of less than Rs. 50 a month, some 3,300 of less than Rs. 30 a month while many teachers of english and classical languages drew salaries that would not attract men to superior domestic service. The great variations in conditions in different parts of India point to the difficulty of making any but the most general statements about the results of private enterprise and the special measures that are needed to assist it to perform efficiently its work in the educational system.

Secondary english schools. General principles

22. Subject to the necessities of variation in deference to local conditions the policy of the Government of India in regard to secondary english schools is—

(1) To improve the few existing government schools, by

(a) employing only graduates or trained teachers;

(b) introducing a graded service for teachers of english with a minimum salary of Rs. 40 per month and a maximum salary of Rs. 400 per month;

(c) providing proper hostel accommodation;

(d) introducing a school course complete in itself with a staff sufficient to teach what may be called the modern side with special attention to the development of an historical and a geographical sense;

(e) introducing manual training and improving science teaching;

(2) To increase largely the grants-in-aid, in order that aided institutions may keep pace with the improvements in government schools on the above-mentioned lines, and to encourage the establishment of new aided institutions where necessary.

(3) To multiply and improve training colleges so that trained teachers may be available for public and private institutions.

(4) To found government schools in such localities as may, on a survey of local conditions and with due regard to economy of educational effort and expense, be proved to require them.

Grants-in-aid.

23. The Government of India also desire that the grant-in-aid rules should be made more elastic so as to enable each school, which is recognised as necessary and conforms to the prescribed standards of management and efficiency, to obtain the special assistance which it requires in order to attain the fullest measure of utility. As larger grants become available and as the pay and the personnel of the teaching staff are improved, it will be possible for the inspecting officer to concentrate his attention more and more upon the general quality of instruction. Full encouragement can then be given to improved and original methods of teaching and courses; and gradually the grant-earning capacity of an institution will come to be judged on grounds of general efficiency and desert rather than by rigid rules of calculation.

Modern side.

24. The introduction of a school course complete in itself and of a modern and practical character, freed from the domination of the matriculation examination, was recommended in the first instance by the Education Commission of 1882. In some provinces and particularly in Madras real progress has been made towards the accomplishment of this reform. The figures for 1901-02 and 1910-11 are :—

	1901-02.			1910-11.
	School Final (candidates).	Matriculation (candidates).		School Final (candidates).	Matriculation (candidates).
Madras and Coorg	194	7,682	...	7,317*	782
Bombay	1,162	3,731	...	1,350	3,766
United Provinces	52 (United and Central Provinces together)	1,704	...	915	2,205
Central Provinces		453	...	738	702

In other provinces the school final examination has not yet been established except for special purposes. The total number of candidates in 1910-11 for the school final examination or leaving certificate in all British provinces was 10,161; that of candidates for matriculation was 16,952.

Secondary English School Leaving Certificate.

25. The principal objects of the school final examination are adaptability to the courses of study and avoidance of cram. In those provinces in which a school final examination or school leaving certificate has not been introduced the Government of India desire that it should be instituted as soon as practicable. They suggest for the consideration of Local Governments and Administrations further developments of the system in regard to the character of the tests by which certificates are granted at the end of the school course. Before proceeding further, however they restate and emphasise the three principles laid down by the Indian Universities' Commission in paragraph 170 of their report.

"(1) The conduct of a school final or other school examination should be regarded as altogether outside the functions of a University.

* School leaving certificate.

(2) It would be of great benefit to the Universities if the Government would direct that the matriculation examination should not be accepted as a preliminary or full test for any post in Government service. In cases where the matriculation examination qualifies for admission to a professional examination the school final examination should be substituted for it.

(3) It would be advantageous if the school final examination could, in the case of those boys who propose to follow a University career, be made a sufficient test of fitness to enter the University. Failing this, the best arrangement would appear to be that the matriculation candidate should pass in certain subjects in the school final examination, and be examined by the University with regard to any further requirements that may be deemed necessary."

26. The value of external examination cannot be overlooked. It sets before the teacher a definite aim and it maintains a standard; but the definite aim often unduly overshadows instruction, and the standard is necessarily narrow and in view of the large numbers that have to be examined must confine itself to mere examination achievement, without regard to mental development or general growth of character. On the other hand the drawbacks of external examinations are becoming more generally apparent, and attention was prominently drawn to them in the Report of the Consultative Committee on Examinations in Secondary Schools in England. They fail, especially in India, in that they eliminate the inspecting and teaching staff as factors in the system, that they impose all responsibility upon a body acquainted but little (if at all) with the schools examined, that they rely upon written papers, which afford no searching test of intellect, no test at all of character or general ability, and that they encourage cram.

27. A combination of external and internal examinations is required. The Government of India consider that, in the case of a school recognised as qualified to present candidates for a school leaving certificate, a record should be kept of the progress and conduct of each pupil in the highest classes of the school, and that the inspector should enter his remarks upon these records at his visits and thus obtain some acquaintance with the career of each candidate during the two or three years before examination. These records, together with the marks obtained by pupils at school tests, would be valuable and would supplement a test conducted partly through written papers on the more important subjects of instruction, but also orally and with regard to the pupil's past career. The oral examination would be conducted by the inspector in consultation with members of the staff. A large increase in the superior inspecting staff would be required to work a system of this kind and safeguards would be necessary to protect teachers from undue influences; the Government of India are prepared to assist, with such grants as they may be able to afford, the introduction of any such system which may be locally practicable. The school leaving certificate systems of Madras and the United Provinces fulfil many of the requirements of the reform in view, but their precise characteristics may not be found altogether suitable in other areas. Some such system, however, as has been sketched above, adapted to local conditions, would, it is believed, be most beneficial and do more than anything else to foster a system under which scholars would be taught to think for themselves instead of being made to memorize for examination purposes. Next to the improvement of the pay and prospects of teachers, which must accompany and even precede its introduction, this is perhaps the most important reform required in secondary english education.

Technical and Industrial Education.

28. No branch of education at present evokes greater public interest than technical and industrial instruction. Considerable progress has been made since 1904. Existing educational institutions have been overhauled and equipped for new courses. Scholarships tenable in Europe and America have been established. Thanks to the generosity of the Tata family, seconded by liberal financial aid from the Government of India and His Highness the Maharaja of Mysore, an Indian Institute of Science, designed upon a large scale, has been established at Bangalore; it was thrown open to pupils in 1911. The establishment of a Technological Institute at Cawnpore for the chemistry of sugar manufacture and leather, for textiles and for acids and alkalis, has been sanctioned. Industrial schools have been opened in several provinces. Altogether the number of technical and industrial schools has risen since 1904 from 88 to 218, and the number of pupils from 5,072 to 10,535.

Technical Scholarships.

29. The system of technical scholarships tenable abroad is still on trial, and a committee is examining the whole question in England. It is not always easy to arrange suitable courses of study; and study abroad puts the pupils at a disadvantage in removing them from the environment of Indian trade conditions. From the information available it appears that, of 73 scholars sent abroad, 36 have not returned to India while 18 are at present industrially employed in India.

Co-ordination in Technical Education.

30. The policy to be pursued in regard to technical and industrial education was discussed at the Allahabad conference. The Government of India accept the conclusions of that conference that progress should continue along the lines generally followed hitherto, viz., that—

(1) the Indian Institute of Science, which provides for research, the application of new processes and the production of thoroughly trained managers, should be developed, as opportunity offers, and become eventually a complete faculty of pure and applied science;

(2) the larger provincial institutions, which attract students from different parts of India, and afford instruction in practical methods of management and supervision, should in the first instance specialise along lines converging on local industries—a plan which will prevent overlapping and make for economy. Subsequently, as industries arise and the demand for managers and foremen increases, other and more varied courses may be found necessary;

(3) the lesser industrial schools, minor weaving institutions, such of the schools of art as have an industrial bent, the artisan classes in Bengal, and trade schools generally, should be permanently directed toward such industries as exist in the localities where the institutions are situated.

Technical education on commercial lines

31. The question has arisen as to how far educational institutions should develop on commercial lines. It has been decided that while educational institutions should in no case trade on commercial lines, in certain cases instruction in industrial schools may be supplemented by practical training in workshops where the application of new processes needs to be demonstrated. In certain cases, also, it will be necessary to purchase and maintain experimental plant for demonstrating the advantages of new machinery or new processes, and for ascertaining the data of production.

Industrial openings for Indians.

32. Quite recently Lieutenant-Colonel E. H. deV. Atkinson, R.E., principal of the Thomason College, Roorkee, and Mr. T. S. Dawson, principal of the Victoria Jubilee Technical Institute, Bombay, were deputed to enquire how technical institutions can be brought into closer touch and more practical relations with the employers of labour in India. Their report contains many suggestions which are under consideration, and emphasises the necessity of studying the demand for technically-trained men, of attracting Indian capital to industrial enterprise and of supplementing tuition at college by a period of apprenticeship. It also indicates that, while the field of employment or occupation in the highest grades is at present limited, the outlook for Indians is generally hopeful, provided the necessity for preliminary practical training is fully realised.

Schools of Art.

33. There are four government schools of art in India with some 1,300 pupils, of which two are mainly industrial schools or schools of design. Interesting developments are the rise at the Calcutta institution of a new school of Indian painting, which combines Indian treatment of subjects with western technique, and the foundation of an architectural branch in the institution at Bombay. But much remains to be done in connection with the indigenous art industries. This matter requires careful expert consideration. The Government of India will address Local Governments on the subject and for the present content themselves with advocating the importance and urgency of preserving for, and in, India scientifically arranged collections of the products of its ancient and modern arts and crafts. The understanding and appreciation of eastern artwork in Europe and America is draining good specimens in increasing volume into the public collections of those continents.

Museums.

34. The relation of museums to the educational systems of India was discussed at the conference held at Simla in July 1911. Much valuable work has been done by the zoological and geological sections of the Indian Museum at Calcutta, which are now equipped on modern lines. The archæological section of the same museum has recently been re-organised under the direction of Mr. Marshall, Director-General of Archæology. In provinces outside Bengal also there has been good progress in the right direction, but in the case of most local museums there is need of better equipment and a stronger staff. One of the most urgent needs in India is an ethnographic museum under scientific management designed to illustrate Indian civilisation in its varied phases. Otherwise students in the future will be compelled to visit the museums of Paris, Berlin, Munich and other places in order to study subjects, which should clearly be studied best on Indian soil. The Government of India will consult expert opinion on the subject; as at present advised they are inclined to favour the formation of a museum of Indian arts and ethnography at Delhi. Their accepted policy, though some overlapping is inevitable, is to develop local museums with special regard to local interest and to concentrate on matters of general interest in imperial museums. How to make museums more useful educationally and secure greater co-operation between museum authorities and educational authorities is a matter on which they have addressed Local Governments

Agricultural Education.

35. The present scheme of agricultural education originated under Lord Curzon's government and is, in fact, only seven years old. Previous to the year 1905, there was no central institution for research or teaching and such education as was then imparted in agriculture, was represented by two colleges and three schools, in a more or less decadent condition. Very few Indians then had any knowledge of science in its application to agriculture and still fewer were capable of imparting such knowledge to others. In the year 1905 a comprehensive scheme was evolved under which arrangements were made both for the practical development of agriculture by Government assistance and also for teaching and research in agriculture and subjects connected with it. A central institution for research and higher education was established at Pusa. The existing schools and colleges were reconstituted, improved and added to. Farms for experiments and demonstration were started, and as time went on, a change was effected in regard to agricultural education in its earlier stages. As now constituted the scheme of agricultural education has three main features, viz, (a) the provision of first class opportunities for the higher forms of teaching and research, (b) collegiate education and (c) the improvement of secondary and primary education.

36. The institute at Pusa, maintained at a cost of four lakhs a year, has 37 Europeans and Indians on its staff, engaged partly in research, partly in post-graduate education and the instruction, through short courses, of students or agriculturists in subjects which are not regularly treated in provincial institutions. There are now six provincial institutions, containing over 300 students and costing annually between five and six lakhs of rupees. Practical classes for agriculturists have also been established at various centres in several provinces. In the ordinary elementary schools, formal agriculture is not taught; but in some provinces a markedly agricultural colour is given to the general scheme of education.

Veterinary Education.

37. Veterinary research is carried on at the Bacteriological Laboratory at Muktesar. The scheme of veterinary colleges has been thoroughly reorganised since 1904. There are now four such institutions, with 511 students, as well as a school at Rangoon. These institutions meet fairly well the growing demand for trained men.

Forestry Education.

38. The College at Dehra Dun has recently been improved; and a research institution has been established in connection with it. Indians can here obtain an education in forestry which approximates to that ordinarily obtainable in Europe.

Medical Education.

39. Instruction in the western system of medicine is imparted in five recognised colleges and fifteen recognised schools in British India. These now annually produce between six and seven hundred qualified medical practitioners. A medical registration Act has recently been passed for the presidency of Bombay, under which passed students of such schools are entitled to become registered; and a similar Act is now under consideration in the presidency of Bengal. In Calcutta there are four self-constituted medical schools, the diplomas of which are not recognised by the Government of India. Among recent developments may be mentioned the establishment of an X-ray institute at Dehra Dun, and the formation of post-graduate classes in connexion with the Central Research Institute at Kasauli. These latter include training in bacteriology and technique and preparation for special research; classes of practical instruction in malarial technique are also held twice a year at Amritsar under the officer in charge of the malarial bureau.

40. Other projects are engaging the attention of the Government of India, including the institution of a post-graduate course of tropical medicine. The practical want of such a course has long been felt; and the Government of India are now in communication with the Secretary of State regarding its establishment in the Medical College at Calcutta. The Calcutta University have expressed their willingness to co-operate by instituting a diploma to be open to graduates who have taken the course in tropical medicine. A scheme for a similar course in Bombay is also under consideration. The Government of Madras have submitted a scheme for the construction of a pathological institute and the appointment of a whole-time professor of pathology with a view to improve the teaching of that subject at the Madras Medical College. Other matters which are likely to come to the front at no distant date are the improvement of the Medical College at Lahore and its separation from the school, the improvement of the Dacca Medical School and the provision of facilities for medical training in the Central Provinces.

41. The subject of medical education is one in which the Government of India are deeply interested. It is also one that may be expected to appeal with special force to private generosity. A problem of particular importance is the inducement of ladies of the better classes to take employment in the medical profession and thus minister to the needs of the women, whom the purda system still deters from seeking timely medical assistance. One of the hindrances hitherto has been that Indian ladies are able to obtain instruction only in men's colleges or in mixed classes. With a view to remedying this defect and commemorating the visit of the Queen-Empress to Delhi, certain of the Princes and wealthy landowners in India have now come forward with generous subscriptions in response to an appeal by Her Excellency Lady Hardinge, who has decided to merge in this project her scheme for a school for training Indian nurses and midwives. The Government of India are considering proposals to found a women's medical college and nurses' training school at Delhi with the help of a subvention from government. Proposals are also under consideration for assisting the National Association for supplying female medical aid to the women of India (the Countess of Dufferin's Fund) to improve the position of their staff.

Legal Education.

42. There has been a marked development of legal education in the last decade. First it has been concentrated. In 1901 there were 35 institutions, colleges, classes and schools, containing 2,800 students. At the present time there are 27 institutions with a slightly larger number of students. The Madras and Bombay presidencies, Burma and the Central Provinces each possess a single institution; and in Bengal the instruction for the degree of bachelor of law has been restricted to certain colleges, although other institutions are still recognised for the pleadership examination. A law college has been established on a liberal scale under the University of Calcutta This concentration has resulted in greater efficiency and greater expenditure In 1901, the cost to government was a little over Rs 7,000 and the total cost was 1¼ lakhs At present the cost to government is over Rs 45,000 and the total cost over Rs. 2,83,000 Secondly the courses have been remodelled and in some cases lengthened The Government of India will be glad to see an extension of the policy of concentration and improvement They also desire to see suitable arrangements made for the residence and guidance of law students

43 There has recently been a considerable expansion in commercial education. Nine years ago there were ten colleges with less than 600 students, and government spent less than Rs 1,000 upon these institutions At the present time there are 26 institutions, three of which are under the management of government, the enrolment is now over 1,500 and the expenditure from provincial funds is over Rs 22,000 The standard attained in the majority of these institutions is not, however, high, and the instruction given in them prepares for clerical duties in government and business offices rather than for the conduct of business itself A project for a commercial college of a more advanced type in Bombay has been sanctioned and the Government of India are considering the question of making arrangements for organised study of the economic and allied sociological problems in India

Commercial Education

44 Good work, which the Government of India desire to acknowledge, has been done under conditions of difficulty by the Indian universities; and by common consent the Universities' Act of 1904 has had beneficial results; but the condition of university education is still far from satisfactory, in regard to residential arrangements control, the courses of study and the system of examination The Government of India have accordingly again reviewed the whole question of university education

University Education

45 It is important to distinguish clearly on the one hand the federal university, in the strict sense, in which several colleges of approximately equal standing separated by no excessive distance or marked local individuality are grouped together as a university —and on the other hand the affiliating university of the Indian type, which in its inception was merely an examining body, and, although limited as regards the area of its operations by the Act of 1904 has not been able to insist upon an identity of standard in the various institutions conjoined to it The former of these types has in the past enjoyed some popularity in the United Kingdom, but after experience it has been largely abandoned there; and the constituent colleges which were grouped together have for the most part become separate teaching universities, without power of combination with other institutions at a distance At present there are only 5 Indian universities for 185 arts and professional colleges in British India besides several institutions in Native States. The day is probably far distant when India will be able to dispense altogether with the affiliating university But it is necessary to restrict the area over which the affiliating universities have control by securing in the first instance a separate university for each of the leading provinces in India and secondly to create new local teaching and residential universities within each of the provinces in harmony with the best modern opinion as to the right road to educational efficiency The Government of India have decided to found a teaching and residential University at Dacca and they are prepared to sanction under certain conditions the establishment of similar universities at Aligarh and Benares and elsewhere as occasion may demand They also contemplate the establishment of universities at Rangoon, Patna and Nagpur. It may be possible hereafter to sanction the conversion into local teaching universities, with power to confer degrees upon their own students, of those colleges which have shown the capacity to attract students from a distance and have attained the requisite standard of efficiency Only by experiment will it be found out what type or types of universities are best suited to the different parts of India.

Affiliating and teaching Universities

46. Simultaneously the Government of India desire to see teaching faculties developed at the seats of the existing universities and corporate life encouraged, in order to promote higher study and create an atmosphere from which students will imbibe good social, moral and intellectual influences. They have already given grants and hope to give further grants hereafter to these ends. They trust that each university will soon build up a worthy university library, suitably housed, and that higher studies in India will soon enjoy all the external conveniences of such work in the west.

Higher studies.

47. In order to free the universities for higher work and more efficient control of colleges, the Government of India are disposed to think it desirable (in provinces where this is not already the case) to place the preliminary recognition of schools for purposes of presenting candidates for matriculation in the hands of the Local Governments and in case of Native States of the durbars concerned while leaving to the universities the power of selection from schools so recognised. The university has no machinery for carrying out this work and in most provinces already relies entirely on the departments of public instruction, which alone have the agency competent to inspect schools. As teaching and residential universities are developed the problem will become even more complex than it is at present. The question of amending the Universities Act will be separately considered.

48. The Government of India hope that by these developments a great impetus will be given to higher studies throughout India and that Indian students of the future will be better equipped for the battle of life than the students of the present generation.

49. The chiefs' colleges advance in popularity. In developing character and imparting ideas of corporate life they are serving well the purpose for which they were founded. They are also attaining steadily increasing intellectual efficiency, but the Committee of the Mayo College, Ajmere, have decided that it is necessary to increase the European staff. The post diploma course has on the whole worked satisfactorily and there is now a movement on foot to found a separate college for the students taking this course. Such a college may in the future become the nucleus of a university for those who now attend the chiefs' colleges.

Chiefs' Colleges.

50. The grave disadvantages of sending their children to England to be educated away from home influences at the most impressionable time of life are being realised by Indian parents. The Government of India have been approached unofficially from more than one quarter in connection with a proposal to establish in India a thoroughly efficient school staffed entirely by Europeans and conducted on the most modern European lines for the sons of those parents who can afford to pay high fees. No project is yet before them but the Government of India take this opportunity to express their sympathy with the proposal and should sufficient funds be forthcoming will be glad to assist in working out a practical scheme.

51. Few reforms are more urgently needed than the extension and improvement of the training of teachers, for both primary and secondary schools in all subjects including, in the case of the latter schools, science and oriental studies. The object must steadily be kept in view that eventually under modern systems of education no teacher should be allowed to teach without a certificate that he is qualified to do so. There are at present 15 colleges and other institutions for the instruction of those who will teach through the medium of english; these contain nearly 1,100 students under training. There are 550 schools or classes for the training of vernacular (mainly primary) teachers; and their students number over 11,000. The courses vary in length from one to two years. The number of teachers turned out from these institutions does not meet the existing demand and is altogether inadequate in view of the prospects of a rapid expansion of education in the near future. The Government of India desire Local Governments to examine their schemes for training teachers of all grades and to enlarge them so as to provide for the great expansion which may be expected, especially in primary education.

Training of teachers.

52. As regards training colleges for secondary schools some experience has been gained. But the Government of India are conscious that the subject is one in which a free interchange of ideas based on the success or failure of experiment is desirable The best size for a practising school and the relations between it and the college; the number of students in the college for which the practising school can afford facilities of demonstration without losing its character as a model institution; the nature of, and the most suitable methods of procedure in, practical work; the relative importance of methodology and of psychological study; the best treatment of educational history; the extent to which it is desirable and practicable to include courses in subject matter in the scheme of training, especially courses in new subjects such as manual training and experimental science; the points in which a course of training for graduates should differ from one for non-graduates; the degree to which the body awarding a diploma in teaching should base its award on the college records of the student's work—these and other unsolved questions indicate that the instructors in training colleges in different parts of India should keep in touch with each other and constantly scrutinize the most modern developments in the west Visits made by selected members of the staff of one college to other institutions and the pursuit of furlough studies would seem especially likely to lead to useful results in this branch of education

Pay and prospects of the services

53 The Government of India have for some time had under consideration the improvement of the pay and prospects of the educational services, Indian, Provincial and Subordinate. They had drawn up proposals in regard to the first two services and approved some schemes forwarded by Local Governments in regard to the third, when it was decided to appoint a Royal Commission on the Public Services of India. The Government of India recognise that improvement in the position of all the educational services is required, so as to attract first class men in increasing numbers, and while leaving questions of reorganisation for the consideration of the Commission are considering minor proposals for the improvement of the position of these services. They attach the greatest importance to the provision for the old age of teachers, either by pension or provident fund Teachers in government institutions and, in some areas, teachers in schools managed by local bodies are eligible for these privileges. But it is necessary to extend the provision in the case of board and municipal servants and still more in the cases of teachers of privately managed schools, for the great majority of whom no such system exists. It is not possible to have a healthy moral atmosphere in any schools, primary or secondary, or at any college when the teacher is discontented and anxious about the future The Governor-General in Council desires that due provision for teachers in their old age should be made with the least possible delay. Local Governments have already been addressed upon this subject

Education of the domiciled community

54. The defective state of the education of the domiciled community has long been remarked Many suggestions have from time to time been made for its improvement. An influential committee, presided over by Sir Robert Laidlaw, is now collecting funds for the schools of all denominations except Roman Catholic schools As in the case of secondary english education and for similar reasons the policy has been, and is, to rely on private enterprise guided by inspection and aided by grants from public funds The Government of India have never had any intention of changing their policy. But in order to discuss the whole question and to obtain definite practical suggestions of reform they assembled an influential conference at Simla last July

55. The recommendations of the conference were numerous and far-reaching. The Government of India are prepared to accept at once the view that the most urgent needs are the education of those children who do not at present attend school and the improvement of the pay and prospects of teachers They are also disposed to regard favourably the proposal to erect a training college at Bangalore with arts and science classes for graduate courses attached to it. They recognise that grants-in-aid must be given in future on a more liberal scale and under a more elastic system. They will recommend to Local Governments the grant of a greater number of scholarships to study abroad. The proposals to re-classify the schools, to introduce leaving certificates, to include in courses of instruction general hygiene and physiology, special instruction in temperance and the effects of alcohol on the human body, and the several other detailed proposals of the conference will be carefully considered in the light of the opinions of Local Governments when they have been received

56 The suggestion was put forward and largely supported at the conference that European education should be centralised under the Government of India This suggestion cannot be accepted Apart from the fact that decentralisation is the accepted policy of government, the course of the discussion at the conference showed how different were the conditions of life of members of the domiciled community in different parts of India, and how these differences necessarily reacted on their educational arrangements The Government of India are convinced that although some difficulties might be removed, more would be created, by centralisation

Education of Muhammadans

57 The figures and general remarks contained in this Resolution are general and applicable to all races and religions in India, but the special needs of the Muhammadans and the manner in which they have been met demands some mention. The last nine years have witnessed a remarkable awakening on the part of this community to the advantages of modern education. Within this period the number of Muhammadan pupils has increased by approximately 50 per cent and now stands at nearly a million and a half The total Muhammadan population of India is now 57,123,866 souls The number at school accordingly represents over 16 7 per cent of those of a school-going age Still more remarkable has been the increase of Muhammadan pupils in higher institutions, the outturn of Muhammadan graduates having in the same period increased by nearly 80 per cent But, while in primary institutions the number of Muhammadans has actually raised the proportion at school of all grades among the children of that community to a figure slightly in excess of the average proportion for children of all races and creeds in India, in the matter of higher education their numbers remain well below that proportion notwithstanding the large relative increase The facilities offered to Muhammadans vary in different provinces but generally take the form of special institutions, such as madrassas, hostels, scholarships and special inspectors The introduction of simple vernacular courses into maktabs has gone far to spread elementary education amongst Muhammadans in certain parts of India The whole question of Muhammadan education, which was specially treated by the Commission of 1882, is receiving the attention of the Government of India.

Oriental studies

58 The Government of India attach great importance to the cultivation and improvement of oriental studies. There is increasing interest throughout India in her ancient civilisation, and it is necessary to investigate that civilisation with the help of the medium of western methods of research and in relation to modern ideas A conference of distinguished orientalists held at Simla in July 1911 recommended the establishment of a central research institute on lines somewhat similar to those of L'Ecole Française d'Extrême Orient at Hanoi The question was discussed whether research could efficiently be carried on at the existing universities; and the opinion predominated that it would be difficult to create the appropriate atmosphere of oriental study in those universities as at present constituted, that it was desirable to have in one institution scholars working on different branches of the kindred subjects which comprise orientalia and that for reasons of economy it was preferable to start with one institute well-equipped and possessing a first class library. The Government of India are inclined to adopt this view and to agree with the conference that the central institute should not be isolated, that it should be open to students from all parts of India and that it should as far as possible combine its activities with those of the universities of India and different seats of learning The object of the institute as apart from research is to provide Indians highly trained in original work who will enable schools of Indian history and archæology to be founded hereafter, prepare catalogues raisonnés of manuscripts, develop museums and build up research in universities and colleges of the different provinces Another object is to attract in the course of time pandits and maulvis of eminence to the institute and so to promote an interchange of the higher scholarship of both the old and the new school of orientalists throughout India. But before formulating a definite scheme the Governor-General in Council desires to consult Local Governments.

Preservation of the ancient learning.

59. While making provision for scholarship on modern lines, the conference drew attention to the necessity of retaining separately the ancient and indigenous systems of instruction. The world of scholarship, they thought, would suffer irreparable loss if the old type of pandit and maulvi were to die out before their profound knowledge of their subjects had been made available to the world; and encouragement rather than reform was needed to prevent such an unfortunate result. Certain proposals for encouragement were made at the conference, viz.,—

(a) grants to Sanskrit colleges, madrassas, tols, patshalas, maktabs, pongyi kyaungs and other indigenous institutions in order to secure better salaries for teachers and to enable students by fellowships or scholarships to carry their education to the highest point possible;

(b) the appointment of specially qualified inspectors in orientalia;

(d) the grant of money rewards for oriental work.

The Government of India hope to see the adoption of measures that are practicable for the maintenance and furtherance of the ancient indigenous systems of learning and have called for proposals from the Local Governments to this end.

Experts required.

60. The functions of local bodies in regard to education generally and their relations with the departments of public instruction are under the consideration of the Government of India. But it is clear that if comprehensive systems are to be introduced expert advice and control will be needed at every turn. The Government of India propose to examine in communication with Local Governments the organisation for education in each province and its readiness for expansion. A suggestion has been made that the director of public instruction should be ex-officio secretary to government. The Government of India agreeing with the great majority of the Local Governments are unable to accept this view, which confuses the position of administrative and secretariat officers ; but they consider it necessary that the director of public instruction should have regular access to the head of the administration or the member in charge of the portfolio of education. The Government of India wish generally to utilise to the full the support and enthusiasm of district officers and local bodies in the expansion and improvement of primary education; but the large schemes, which are now in contemplation, must be prepared with the co-operation and under the advice of experts. A considerable strengthening of the superior inspecting staff, including the appointment of specialists in science, orientalia, etc., may be found necessary in most provinces. In Madras an experienced officer in the education department has been placed on special duty for two years to assist the director of public instruction to prepare the scheme of expansion and improvement in that province, and the Government of India would be glad to see a similar arrangement in all the major provinces should the Local Governments desire it.

Interchange of views.

61. In the resolution of 1904 it was stated that arrangements would be made for periodical meetings of the directors of public instruction in order that they might compare their experience of the results of different methods of work and discuss matters of special interest. The Government of India have already held general conferences at which the directors attended and they are convinced that periodical meetings of directors will be of great value. While each province has its own system it has much to learn from other provinces, and, when they meet, directors get into touch with new ideas and gain the benefit of experience obtained in other provinces. The Government of India are impressed with the necessity not only of exchange of views amongst experts but also of the advantages of studying experiments all over India on the spot; and in a letter of the 7th July 1911, they invited Local Governments to arrange that professors of arts and technical colleges and inspectors of schools should visit institutions outside the province where they are posted, with a view to enlarging their experience.

Conclusion.

62. Such in broad outline are the present outlook and the general policy for the near future of the Government of India. The main principles of this policy were forwarded to His Majesty's Secretary of State on the 28th September 1911, and parts of it have already been announced. It was, however, deemed convenient to defer the publication of a resolution until the whole field could be surveyed. This has now been done. The Governor-General in Council trusts that the growing section of the Indian public which is interested in education will join in establishing, under the guidance and with the help of government, those quickening systems of education on which the best minds in India are now converging and on which the prospect of the rising generation depend. He appeals with confidence to wealthy citizens throughout India to give of their abundance to the cause of education. In the foundation of scholarships; the building of hostels, schools, colleges, laboratories, gymnasia, swimming baths, the provision of playgrounds and other structural improvements; in furthering the cause of modern scientific studies and especially of technical education; in gifts of prizes and equipment, the endowment of chairs and fellowships, and the provision for research of every kind there is a wide field and a noble opportunity for the exercise on modern lines of that charity and benevolence for which India has been renowned from ancient times.
